Students Say Enthusiasm Is Lacking at Grid Games

By SHARON TOTTEN

GO! TEAM, GO! The cheerleaders and pep clubs are yelling their lungs out at pep rallies and games, but how much support are they getting for the team from the student body?

In an interview in which students were asked, "Is the team getting the support that it should be getting from the student body?" the majority of them answered with an emphatic "no."

MOST OF the students who answered "no" to this question blamed the lack of enthusiasm on the poor record of the team, but many said that this was not a valid excuse.

Most of those interviewed agreed that the team should be given credit for doing its best regardless of the outcome and said that it should be supported, win or lose.

JEAN KOERNER, DIM Soph—Our student body seems to support a winning team. We are playing high-rated teams this year. We should realize we can't win against them all and keep up the Wildcat spirit, anyhow.

MARJORIE GINTER, HE Soph—I think the team is getting as much support as can be expected considering the luck they have been having.

JOHNNY CHRISTIANSEN, PrV Fr—The team isn't getting the support that it deserves because of its lack of ability.

BETTY ADE, EEd Soph—I think the student body supports the team very well.

DALE SHIPPS, ML Fr—I don't think that anyone really supports the team except the pep clubs.

DAVE BENGSTON, ChE Soph—"I don't think that the student body supports the team enough and one reason is because the pep rallies aren't publicized enough.

SUE HOLLAND, ArG Soph—I believe that the better the support, the farther the team will go. I think that the spirit of the student body is better this year than it has been before.

LUCIANO AMUTAN, PrM Fr—The student body just doesn't have much enthusiasm. When the team is in a tight spot, they jeer at them rather than give them support.

JUDY PERINE, Art Soph—I think we need more school spirit. I don't think the student body gives the team enough encouragement to do its best.

MORRIS GREENWOOD, TJ Soph—The student body supports the team all right during the first half of the games, but it certainly doesn't give much support during the second half.

KATHY DODD, EEd Soph—Yes, I think they are, especially at the KU game. They're all behind the team. We want them to win just as bad as they want to."

MARCIA GRONIS, EEd Soph—I think the first time we showed the support we really should show was at the KU game. We're kind of lax sometimes.

JUDY PERINE, Art Soph—"No, I don't think there's much school spirit for a school as large as K-State. I don't think you should expect as much as in a smaller school.

NORMAN STOCKHAM, BAA Fr—I haven't seen too much enthusiasm—not what it should be. I think that the Interfraternity Council should push rallies more.

STAN HANSEN, Ar 02—Spirit is better than I expected. I think the football team expects too much support for the amount of games they're winning."

I'LL COME right to the point, coach. The Homecoming events got a little out of hand this year, and—well, we don't have any time left for the football game.

Homecoming Card Message Recalls Nostalgic Memories

By Mary Beckmeyer

"AH, HOMECOMING," Eugene O'Neill once said, little knowing that he was immortalizing the phrase. For the same two words were echoed in an infinite number of sighs the past week, as K-State students forgot about studies and labored into the night building signs and floats.

Tomorrow the same students will be ready to reap the rewards of their work as they await the deluge of alumni. House presidents are anticipating the flocks of grads who will be jamming their old houses after the game, eager to donate to building funds.

The Oregon Daily Emerald of the University of Oregon created a version of a "Homecoming card" message for the return of such alums as mentioned above:

H is for the hooch you used to take.
O is the varsity letter you never could make.
M is for the Millrace you used to canoe in.
E is for the exams you used to get blue in.
C is for all the classes you used to cut.
O is for the odd dates with which you used to get stuck.
M is for the money; you were always in debt.
I is the ninth letter in the alphabet.
N is for the names you can't remember.
G is cause it's great to have you back this November.

FRESHMAN GIRLS, angry at the Athletic Lettermen's Club, stormed into the University of Oregon Student Union building and tried to smear members of the football squad with lipstick.

The 250 screaming girls however, were no match for the 40 gridders, whose dinner they interrupted. The players grabbed the lipsticks and smeared the girls.

The girls later raided the Phi Delta Theta and Sigma Chi fraternity houses. They were driven off with hoses, paddles and cans of paint.

Ringleaders of the raid said it was retaliatory. The lettermen have been smearing lipstick on the faces of freshmen girls who failed to wear the traditional green ribbon in their hair for homecoming week.

THE OREGON STATE Daily Barometer gave an account of an alum at their annual Homecoming that must have been tired of seeing the ladies with their game mums . . . to get even he was wearing a big purple orchid corsage on his topcoat . . . and in the inside pocket of the coat. Well, Homecoming is a festive occasion.

ELVIS ISN'T the only person that has been troubled by "hound dogs." According to the KU Daily Kansan the first KU Jayhawk kicked MU's hound dog.

The hound, in fact, was the inspiration for the first pictorial jayhawk, drawn by Hank Maloy, a University student in 1912.

At that time the most popular song was "You Gotta Quit Kickin' My Dog Around." It was picked up by KU students, who applied it to the Missouri Hound Dogs, as they were then called.

Maloy decided to have a jayhawk kicking the Missouri hound dog around, so he put human legs and heavy shoes on him, so he could get a better kick.

Thus is the history of Missouri going to the dogs and KU being strictly for the birds.

Tonight's procession of walkers and cars to view house decorations will start on North Manhattan and will pass the girls' dorms and go west on Clafin.

The procession will then turn south on Denison to College Heights. After going one block west, the procession will jog north to Platt, west to Sunset, and back south to College Heights.

The procession will go west to Lee, back south to Anderson and east on Anderson to 14th street. After a one-block jog south, the procession will go west to 17th, a block south to Fairchild, and then will go west and north to Sunset.

The viewers then will swing south, east, and north and arrive back at the intersection of 17th and Fairchild.

From 17th and Fairchild, the procession will travel eastward, with one jog to the south.

The five Homecoming queen finalists will be at the head of the procession. House decorations judges will be honored at a dinner this evening by Panhellenic and Interfraternity councils just before they view the decorations.

House decorations winners will be announced at halftime of tomorrow's game.

Those who are confused by the viewing route will be relieved at the simplicity of tomorrow's parade route.

It will form on Third street between Kearney and Poyntz, and will begin at Third and Poyntz. It will move up Poyntz to 11th, will turn north on 11th to Moro, then will proceed west on Moro through Aggieville and on west on Anderson to the field south of Memorial Stadium.

Trophies for the winning floats will be awarded just before the football game begins at 1:30 p.m.

KS Scholarship Committee May Supervise All Grants

A regulation that would require all K-State scholarships to be supervised by the Scholarship committee is being considered for proposal to the Faculty senate, according to Max Milbourn, assistant to the president.

Milbourn said the committee had unanimously approved the idea nearly a year ago. Scholarships are administered in several different departments over the campus at the present time.

"All scholarship awards should be made through the committee so as to prevent a student from receiving two or more scholarships," he added.

"We have not received any objections to this proposal and hope that the Faculty senate will favor it."

"The committee has worked hard to eliminate restrictions placed upon many of our scholarships. A scholarship with strings attached does not give the majority of the students a fair chance to apply," he said.

Milbourn cited as an example a recent scholarship donation which was intended only for students from a certain section of Kansas and in a certain curriculum.

The K-State AFROTC association has been established to raise funds for AFROTC activities.

Membership in the association will include admission to the Air Force ball, February 8, Capt. Ralph D. Oakley, information services officer, has announced.

The primary purpose of the organization is to promote extra-curricular activities of the cadet corps and to provide funds for activities such as field trips, awards programs, and other activities.

The governing officers of the association will be elected within the next few weeks so that planning for the ball can be completed.

Coeds Enjoyed Job At Yellowstone Park

By SUE GOSS

Working in a coffee shop near Yellowstone National Park still left leisure time for two K-State coeds to spend hours hiking, mountain climbing, horseback riding, fishing, and swimming.

Dorothy Kubik, Ch Jr, and Jackie Swanson, MEI Sr, spent many of their evenings at the dances held in the local recreation hall at Mammoth Hot Springs, Wyoming, where they worked during the day as waitresses.

They found that hitchhiking is the custom for college students who wish to see the countryside and are without transportation. Tourists often picked up the collegiates who worked in and near Yellowstone. Jackie laughingly exclaimed that at Gardner, a small town five miles north of Mammoth, "The theater screen was so small they couldn't get the word 'Cinemascope' on it!"

The girls lived in a dormitory over the coffee shop, and their room and board were furnished. The summer proved financially worthwhile, since there was little opportunity to spend their salary. Their work was hard, but such events as chasing bears from their back door added variety.

Both girls feel the opportunities for meeting college students from various parts of the country made the three months more enjoyable.

"Even if you didn't make much money, the experience you got out there makes it invaluable," stated Dorothy.

The two coeds wrote to Representative Bill Avery for information regarding summer jobs in national parks, and later discovered the Placement Bureau had these same jobs listed. They left Kansas May 29 and returned on September 7 in time for the fall term.

Dorothy and Jackie plan to go back next summer, and warn other interested students to make application right after Christmas. They recommended the location highly, for as Jackie said, "It's just tremendous!"

Longshoremen Strike Closes East and Gulf Coast Ports

Compiled from United Press

New York—Longshoremen shut down east and gulf coast ports from Boston to New Orleans today in a strike over a disputed contract for the New York waterfront.

Capt. William V. Bradley, president of the International Longshoremen's association (Ind.), left a negotiation session at Federal Mediation headquarters last night to issue the strike call for midnight—expiration hour of the twice-extended working agreement.

More than 50 ships lay idle in the port of New York. Only token picket lines appeared shortly after 8 a.m., and work continued only an military cargoes.

Pickets patrolled the docks in New Orleans, Philadelphia, Houston and Galveston, shutting down those ports. Longshoremen walked off their jobs in Boston and Baltimore at midnight.

'Reds Guilty in Revolt'

Vienna—Radio Budapest, in apparent defiance of the Soviets, broadcast today Yugoslav President Tito's charge the Russians were responsible for the revolution in Hungary.

The Communist-controlled official radio broadcast the text of the speech made by Tito, the leader of the Independence-from-Moscow movement. Tito's address was made Sunday but released only yesterday.

Tito said he had warned the Kremlin that the satellites would seek freedom unless Stalinism was scrapped. And he criticized Soviet armed intervention in Hungary.

No Red Jets to Syria

Beirut, Lebanon—Syrian Foreign Minister Salah Al Bitar today denied reports that Soviet jet planes, pilots and "volunteers" have arrived in Syria.

Such reports may have been started to stir up anti-Arab feeling in the United States, Bitar suggested in an interview with the United Press.

As he left for home after attending the three-day "summit" conference of Arab leaders, the Syrian official said leaders of Arab Pact nations agreed to follow a neutral policy between the Soviet bloc and the West.

And, he added, "The United States should forbid anglo-French intervention in Egypt."

He said British and French planes have appeared almost daily over Syrian airfields and have been fired upon by Syrian anti-aircraft guns.

But, he said, "it is not true there are 125 Soviet Migs in Syria; there are no Soviet planes nor Soviet pilots in Syria, and I

Homecoming Pep Rally At Union Tonight at 10

Placement Director Chet Peters, a former K-State football player, will be a special guest at a pep rally on the south Union lawn tonight at 10, according to Bob Alexander, Union activities director.

The rally will follow the procession to view house decorations, and will be emceed by Pete Wimsatt, BA Sr. Music will be provided by the K-State band, and the cheerleaders will lead yells.

Also present to make a few remarks will be Coach Bus Mertes and President McCain.

have told that to the American ambassador."

The foreign minister also denied reports that a flight of Soviet planes accompanied Syrian President Shukri El-Kuwatly on his return trip to Damascus after conferring with Soviet officials in Moscow nearly two weeks ago. He said the Soviet planes turned back at the Black sea and did not fly over Turkey.

Red Reporter Resigns

London—Peter Fryer, reporter for the London Daily Worker who covered the Hungarian rebellion in Budapest, resigned today.

"The whole police dictatorship is so rotten and so universally detested that it collapsed like a house of cards the instant the people rose to their feet," he said in a bitter letter of resignation.

His resignation reflected a wide breach in Britain's small Communist party over Soviet intervention in Hungary. Many party members, including some top union leaders, have quit.

FOR THE WINNERS—These trophies, now on display in the Union, will go to the organizations entering the best floats in tomorrow's Homecoming parade. The first-place trophy is at the top, second place in the middle, and third place is at the bottom.

"Home of Better Shoes"

I-State Stabbed, Stoned, Licked in Decorations

By MARCIA BOYD

Famous proverbs and slogans will set the theme for fraternity, sorority, and dorm Homecoming decorations as they illustrate defeat of the Iowa State Cyclones.

This is only the second year that a theme has been designated. "Sooner or Later" was the 1955 Homecoming theme as the Cats pointed toward Oklahoma.

Beta Theta Pi and Delta Delta Delta won first place in the fraternity and sorority divisions.

"Seven Come Eleven" is illustrated with a pair of dice and a lighted roulette wheel by Kappa Kappa Gamma. Between each number on the wheel is pictured a Big Seven mascot. When the wheel spins, it always lands on the Wildcat. Underneath is the sign, "Out of the Big Seven Come Our 11."

The 1834 Club shows Mother Goose looking at a nursery rhyme book with the rhyme, "Iowa State, Puddin' Pie, Kissed the Girls and Made Them Cry." This is a takeoff on "Georgie Porgie." The rhyme continues, "When the cats came out to play, Iowa State ran away."

"The Bigger They Come, the Harder They Fall," according to Farm House. Large Iowa State players are blocked by two small Wildcats, and a Wildcat goes for a touchdown.

"I Came, I Saw, I Conquered," is Kappa Sigma's theme. The Wildcat is depicted as a Trojan warrior. With his sword he jabs and fells Iowa Staters.

Sigma Alpha Epsilon declares that "A Little Rain Stills a Big Wind." A 12-foot cyclone in a football stadium is wilted by the water dumped out of a cloud above by a Wildcat.

"Our Destiny Is Already Decided" states the Delta Delta Delta swami as she gazes into her crystal ball.

Sigma Chi illustrates "Bus Mertes' Storybook" with a take off on the "Three Little Pigs and the Big Bad Wolf."

The Drake, Denver U, and K-State mascots are guarding the entrance to three stadiums made of straw, sticks, and brick. As the Iowa Cyclone comes by, he blows down the straw and stick stadia, but the Wildcat takes the Cyclone inside the brick stadium. The result is a battered and torn Iowa State.

Tau Kappa Epsilon offers "Today's Special for Visiting Alums, Cyclone Hash," at the Wildcat Drive-In. Following the slogan, "Double, double, toil and trouble, fire burn and cauldron bubble," a Wildcat is shown stirring a large pot.

"Nip It in the Bud" is the advice offered by Pi Beta Phi. A Wildcat cuts off the head of an Iowa State player, representing a bud, which is growing out of a huge yellow mum.

Beta Theta Pi illustrates "The Cat's Got Your Tongue" with a Wildcat pulling out the tongue of a prone Iowa State player.

"Who Let the Cat Out of the Bag?" asks Delta Sigma Phi. In the foreground, one big Wildcat is shown half out and half in a bag. In the background in an end zone is a Wildcat burying a Marquette Warrior. An Iowa State player watches, trembling in fear.

Phi Delta Theta goes Oriental with a Cat, Cyclone, and Chinaman against a Chinese background.

"Great Difficulty, Greater Glory" is the theme of Beta Sigma Psi. A Wildcat football player kicks a football through a Cyclone (difficulty) over a goal post (glory).

Alpha Delta Pi says "Wail in the Wind Is All I Hear." Three Wildcat cheerleaders are listening to a wailing cloud while a scoreboard shows that Iowa State is "all windy" and K-State is victorious.

"What Fools These Mortals Be" declares Alpha Tau Omega. The theme is depicted by Wildcats in a stadium.

Sigma Nu, using two proverbs, warns, "Woe to the Vanquished" and "I Came, I Saw, I Conquered." Illustrated by a flying saucer, a huge eye from within says, "I came, I saw, I conquered Iowa State—woe to the vanquished."

Sigma Phi Epsilon recalls our victory over Iowa State two years ago with the theme "Well Done Is Twice Done." With an Iowa map on the roof, a Cyclone slides down a wire to a storm cellar on the ground where a Wildcat pushes it into the cellar.

"We'll Lick 'Em, By Gum!" emphasizes Chi Omega. The decorations carry out the theme with candy canes and lollipops against a plain background.

Pi Kappa Alpha is using the oft-heard expression "T G I F," but with the meaning "Tomorrow's Game, Iowa Falls."

Theta Xi, using a Wildcat on the roof with a fiery furnace below, depicts the saying, "Give 'Em Hell." From the roof, the Wildcat throws the Cyclone into the fire.

"The Old Woman Who Lived in a Shoe" is illustrated by Alpha Xi Delta with victorious K-State football players in a giant-sized shoe.

"Sling but a Stone, the Giant Dies" depicts Acacia. A Wildcat gladiator throws a stone, hitting and killing a Cyclone giant who has a sword in his arm.

Phi Kappa turns to the theater with "Send Them to the Showers." Dramatized on a theater stage is a Wildcat football player carrying a Cyclone, which is thrown in an old-fashioned bathtub. Following a shower, the Cyclone is removed and thrown out the window by another Wildcat.

"Never Underestimate the Power of a Wildcat," Kappa Delta says. A Wildcat knocks over a 12-foot cyclone against a football stadium backdrop. In the background plays the K-State fight song with the slogan recorded in.

"He Hath Conquered Well That Hath Made His Enemy Fly" is Northwest hall's proverb. It is illustrated by a red and white airplane with an Iowa State player hanging out and a Wildcat leaning against the proverb sign.

Model cars, representative of the automobile era, travel around the world and through the K-State campus past Anderson and Fairchild halls to illustrate Delta Tau Delta's "Along the Highway of Happy Memories."

"A Stitch in Time" at Waltheim hall shows a Wildcat football player sewing up an Iowa State Cyclone in a bag.

Cyclones Here Looking for First Big Seven Win

Kansas State college plays host to the Iowa State Cyclones here tomorrow afternoon in the Wildcats' 21st annual Homecoming classic. The game will be the last home appearance for the Cats this season.

A crowd of 18,000 is expected to be on hand for the Big Seven encounter as Iowa State hopes to gain its first conference win of the season. Kickoff time will be 1:30 p.m.

The invaders have an overall season mark of two wins against six defeats with their only wins against out-of-conference foes. The Cyclones opened the season with a 13-10 victory over Denver and just two weeks ago topped Drake, 39-14.

Meanwhile, K-State has a victory in the conference to go along with the 41-14 win last Saturday against non-league Marquette. The Cats topped Nebraska, 10-7, midway through the season.

Both teams will enter the contest at nearly full strength with Rudy Bletscher the only first stringer on either squad to miss the action. Bletscher, regular guard during earlier games, is definitely out for the battle and possibly for the season.

Comparing the records of the two schools fails to give either team the nod. Iowa State lost to Nebraska, 9-7, and to Kansas university, 25-14. K-State topped Nebraska, 10-7, and lost to KU by 20-15.

Oklahoma topped the Wildcats 66-0 early in the season and dropped the Cyclones, 44-0 last week at Ames. Other mutual opponents handed each school about the same licking. Colorado downed K-State, 34-0, and beat Iowa State, 52-0. Missouri won, 20-6, over the Cats and won a 34-0 decision from the Cyclones.

"Don't let their (Iowa State's) record fool you," said K-State scout Sol Kampf in his report to the team early this week. "They have one of the best lines you will face this season."

In addition to Homecoming, tomorrow's game will also be the last home appearance for eight seniors on the K-State team. They are halfbacks Tony Addeo, Arlan Dettmer, Jerry Hayes, and Kenny Nesmith; Kerry Clifford, center; Bill Carrington, fullback; and Len LeGault and Tito Cordelli, tackles. Addeo, Nesmith, and Carrington each were awarded three grid letters. Dettmer has not lettered.

The same Wildcats will start in the I-State game as started last week's game against Marquette. Ellis Rainsberger, starting center and captain, suffered a hand bruise last week but will be ready for full duty tomorrow.

The K-State lineup for Saturday also shows two changes from the early season unit. Gene Keady is running in the right half-back position in place of Tony Addeo. Dick Corbin has replaced Keith Wilson in the quarterback spot.

This game will be the last conference tilt for Cyclone coach Vince Di Francesca. He resigned two weeks ago from the head coaching job and will leave the school after this season. Iowa State finishes the season next week with Villanova.

The Wildcats will play at a 3-pound weight disadvantage in the line for this, the 39th game of the series between the two schools dating back to 1917. K-State has won 13 against 23 victories for Iowa State. Three games have ended in ties.

K-State has won the last three games in the series, all by close scores. In 1953 the Cats took a 20-12 decision followed by a 12-7 victory in 1954. Last year the Cats topped Iowa State 9-7 at Ames.

The probable starting lineups:

K-State	Pos.	Iowa State
Don Zadnik	LE	Brian Dennis
Jack Keelan	LT	Oliver Sparks
Don Martin	LG	H. Heinrich
E. Rainsberger	C	Frank Powell
Wally Carlson	RG	C. Muehlaupt
Gene Meier	RT	A. Poncius

Phi Kappa Scores 22-19 IM Win Over Beta Sigs

Phi Kappa beat Beta Sigma Psi, 22-19, last night to grab the spotlight in intramural basketball play.

The Phi Kaps led 8-5 after the first half was completed and kept pace with a 14-point Beta Sig barrage in the second half to take the win.

Phil Billinger got eight points, all in the last half, to keep the Phi Kaps ahead. Jim Rafferty hit nine for Beta Sigma Psi to lead game scoring.

Delta Sigma Phi came from behind to win, 23-22, over Alpha Gamma Rho in the night's closest contest. The AGR's led 14-12 at halftime, but Delta Sigma Phi outscored them, 11-8 in the final half.

Dick Evers and Lyle Rudy shared scoring honors for the Delta Sigs with 11 and 7 points, respectively.

Wesley Foundation ran up a 46-11 score on the Hui O Makules in the evening's most lopsided tilt. The score stood 23-3 at intermission, and Wesley coasted to the win. Winston Tilzey scored 23 points for Wesley, 13 in the first half.

Sigma Phi Epsilon won, 26-21, over Alpha Tau Omega. The Sig Eps, sparked by George Laddish, were ahead 12-11, at the half. Laddish garnered 10 points for game scoring honors.

Roger Mockomer hit seven for the ATO's, all in the first half.

Sigma Alpha Epsilon won from Sigma Nu, 25-20. The Alphas led, 18-15, after the first half had ended.

John Costello of the Sig Alphas hit 12 points to win a scoring duel with John Floyd of Sigma Nu. Floyd got 11.

Kappa Sigma smeared Alpha Kappa Lambda, 35-5. Bill Bloxom hit 10 points to lead the Kappa Sigs to a 23-1 half-time margin.

Delta Tau Delta beat Tau Kappa Epsilon, 23-14. The Tekes held a 10-9 first half lead, but were unable to score from the field in the final half. Karl Stutterheim hit 10 points for the Deltas.

Phi Delta Theta built a 20-9 first half lead and romped over Lambda Chi Alpha, 32-15. Jerry Norris scored 12 Phi Delt points. John Steele hit six points in the last half for Lambda Chi, all his team could muster.

Theta Xi won from Farm House, 20-14. The winners led 7-3 in a low scoring first half, then hit 13 points to 11 for Farm House in the second half. Charles Rief led Theta Xi with eight points.

Clemson-Buff Match Seen As Orange Bowl Contest

By UNITED PRESS

Clemson risks its Orange Bowl hopes in that very arena tonight when it tangles with an aroused University of Miami team anxious to take out its bowl-frustration on somebody—a big game touching off a big showdown weekend in college football.

By the time the last goalpost is torn down Saturday evening, the battle lines could be pretty clearly drawn for the Rose, Sugar, and Orange bowl games—but the Cotton bowl set-up undoubtedly must wait another week.

Right now Clemson figures to get an Orange Bowl berth for sure if it beats Miami, and probably still would get it if Miami won in a close game.

But a Clemson debacle against the unbeaten and angry Hurricanes—whose bowl hopes were wiped out when the NCAA maintained their suspension—could make the bowl promoters mighty unhappy about having the Tigers back again on New Year's Day.

Clemson is expected to finish atop the Atlantic Coast conference, but that loop ballots for its "most representative" team as its bowl nominee and might be induced to switch to another team in this case, with indications pointing to Duke.

Colorado is virtually certain to represent the Big Seven in the Orange Bowl, unless Missouri stages the upset of the decade tomorrow and beats national champion Oklahoma.

Both ends of the Rose Bowl could be clinched tomorrow, but the odds-men don't think it will happen. They figure Oregon State will clinch the Pacific Coast conference berth by clobbering Idaho, but Iowa, which can clinch the Big Ten berth by beating Ohio State, is a 6-point underdog.

Tennessee reportedly has the Sugar Bowl sewed up since its 6-0 thriller over Georgia Tech last week, but nobody's saying anything yet because rugged Mississippi meets the Vols tomorrow. The Rebels are seven-point underdogs but, led by slamming fullback Paige Cothren, have the potential for an upset.

Georgia Tech and Duke are among those reported under consideration for the other berth, but strong Northern and Western teams are not contenders this year because of the segregation issue.

At the same time the NCAA kept Miami under suspension it did the same thing to Texas A&M and that's why the Cotton Bowl picture is foggy. The Aggies seem sure to win the Southwest conference title but at least five teams are in the running for the No. 2 spot and the bowl berth.

Texas Christian and SMU each 2-1 in the league, are the leaders now. The other berth is wide open with Army, Navy, Syracuse, Wyoming, George Tech, and Duke among those mentioned in speculation.

Trying to crash this big bowl set-up, and figuring they've got a good chance this year, are the promoters of the Gator Bowl in Jacksonville, Fla.

They're definitely after Tennessee as one team, promising higher "take home pay" than the Sugar Bowl, and could give the other berth to a top Eastern team like Syracuse, Pittsburgh, or Penn State, that wouldn't go to the Sugar Bowl.

Cold Winds Cut Wildcat Work Short

Manhattan, (U.P.)—Frigid windy weather yesterday forced the K-State Wildcats to shorten their practice session for tomorrow's homecoming game against the Iowa State Cyclones.

Coach Bus Mertes said senior halfback Tony Addeo will be back in the lineup Saturday after missing action against Marquette.

Mertes said the probable starting lineup would include ends Don Zadnik and George Laddish, tackles Jack Keelan and Gene Meier, guards Don Martin and Wally Carlson, center Ellis Rainsberger, quarterback Dick Corbin, halfbacks Kenny Nesmith and Gene Keady and fullback Ralph Pfeifer.

 Columbia, (U.P.)—Coach Don Faurot yesterday named a 37-man Missouri football squad to fly to Norman today for Saturday's game against Oklahoma's Sooners. The Tigers ran through their last workout yesterday.

 Lawrence, (U.P.)—The Kansas Jayhawks headed for Los Angeles by plane early today for tomorrow's game with UCLA's Bruins.

Coach Chuck Mather said the 39-member traveling squad would run through a light workout at Burbank junior high school field this afternoon.

The team practiced here yesterday in freezing weather.

Mertes Rates Staff Highly

By DARRYL HEIKES

"I feel that I have one of the finest coaching staffs in the country," said head football coach Bus Mertes. "I feel fortunate to have them with me, and I know that all the players on the team feel the same way."

Mertes, now in his second season as head Wildcat mentor, is 46, 6 feet, 220 pounds, and in excellent physical condition.

Bus was a halfback at Iowa university in 1941 and 1943. He played for a Navy team during World War II, and after the war he played five years of professional football.

He began his coaching career in 1950 as assistant coach at Bradley university. From 1951 to 1953, he served as head coach there, and in 1953 he came to K-State as assistant coach for Bill Meek. In 1955 he replaced Meek as head coach.

Bus is married and has three children, two girls and a boy. He holds BS and MS degrees from Iowa university.

HERB CORMACK, backfield coach, said of the Wildcats, "We've been very near to breaking away in every game this year, but we hope to open up in Saturday's game."

Herb, a native Kansan, graduated from Pittsburg State Teachers' college in 1928. For seven years following his graduation, he was head football coach at Mound City high school. He then moved to Pleasanton, where he was high school coach for five years. Iowa City, Iowa, was his next step up the coaching ladder. His Iowa City high school team went undefeated through four seasons.

After serving a 3-year stint in the navy, he returned to his old job at Iowa City. In 1947, he made the jump from high school to college football. He took a job as freshman coach at Iowa State college at Ames. In 1949, he switched to end coach on the varsity staff. He held this job until he came to K-State.

He joined the K-State coaching staff with Mertes in 1953. Herb holds an MA degree from Iowa university.

STEVE SUSIC, backfield coach, said, "The team found itself in the Nebraska game and has been working very well."

Susic alternated at halfback and fullback for the University of Illinois in 1941 and 1942. From 1943 to 1945, he played air force football.

He then played professional football with the Detroit Lions and Los Angeles Rams. Steve's coaching career began in 1949 as a freshman coach and assistant varsity coach at the University of Illinois.

In 1953, he was named head football coach at Bradley university. He held this position until 1955, when he joined the Wildcat coaching staff.

Susic is married and has four children, three girls and a boy. He holds BS and MS degrees from the University of Illinois.

giving loud commands. Off the field, he is a joking, jovial person.

He said of Wildcat line play, "The improvement shown in line play since the Nebraska game is primarily due to desire and attitude."

ED CAVANAUGH, freshman coach, is the youngest member of the coaching staff at 27. Ed attended Duke university. He played four years of football at Duke, lettering two of those years. After playing and coaching for Brainbridge Naval Training center two years, he coached a year of high school football. He joined the K-State coaching staff in 1954.

Owens Says Olympics Can Ease World Crisis

Milbourne (U.P.)—Jesse Owens, attending his first Olympiad since he astonished the world by winning three track-and-field events in the 1936 Olympics in Berlin, expressed the belief today that this year's games can "contribute something" toward easing the world crisis.

Owens, now 43, is attending the games which start here next Thursday as one of President Eisenhower's three personal representatives, but he stressed he was speaking as a private citizen.

The slim and still trim Negro star, who has made many goodwill appearances around the globe for the United States, said things are vastly different between Melbourne in 1956 and Berlin in 1936.

"The contrast is vivid to me," said Owens. "Here a democratic people are knocking themselves out to be warm hosts to the world for unselfish reasons. In Berlin it was a Nazi show, or at least they tried to make it that."

The international situation, though troubled, also is different now, Owens believes.

"The world then was faced with a madman at the head of a nation who was intent on world conquest," he pointed out.

Kampf Keeps Eyes Open, Scouts Gridiron Foes

By ED KOCHER

Every team the Wildcat football squad competes against must be first scouted by K-State's head scout, Paul (Sol) Kampf. Kampf's scouting ability is highly regarded by head football coach Bus Mertes.

Mertes said, "My four years of coaching experience with him have been helpful and happy ones. We enjoy working together."

"Kampf has a deadpan expression but is quick with the puns. Not another person can go out to scout a football game and come back with the amount of information that he can," Mertes said.

To point out one of Kampf's typical jokes, he was returning late one evening from scouting Oklahoma university, and was asked why he had been gone so long. Sol quickly replied, "I got so tired watching the Sooners run that I had to stop and rest on the way home."

Sol, 35, is married and has one daughter. Before coming to K-State, Kampf gained experience as line coach at Western Michigan, North Dakota university, Winnipeg, and Bradley university.

In 1951, he was an assistant to Mertes at Bradley, and in 1950 helped coach the Winnipeg Blue Bombers to Canada's Western conference championship.

Sol likes to design new plays, a fertile field during these times of multiple offenses. He has written for many publications and has developed a new practice blocking pad here at K-State.

He graduated from Davis and Elkins college in 1942, and received his MA in physical education in 1948 at Indiana university after doing postgraduate work at Michigan university.

In preparing to scout a team, Sol first goes over a movie of the opposition's game of two weeks previous. The Big Seven teams exchange game movies two weeks before they oppose each other.

Sol then compares old scouting reports with what he knows of the players on the roster, as he may know their certain characteristics.

Sol said, "Each team has a very distinctive pattern of offense and defense. Certain characteristics of the team must be known before the game in order to scout efficiently. The scouting of Oklahoma this year was a success, as they might have run up 100 points otherwise."

He said, "Each team must come up with something different each Saturday in order to keep the players interested, and fired up."

After a team has been scouted, the basic offense and defense of the previous year are discussed, and any changes in them are pointed out. The Wildcats discuss just how the opposing team scores each time and the differences in the scoring techniques from one year to another.

For instance, last season Missouri had a good pass-catching right end, and this year the halfbacks catch most of the passes.

Sol said, "I always arrive early for the pre-game warm-up; an unknown passer might be spotted here. I might also get a tipoff on something like plans for a quick kick."

There are two basic ways of scouting, Kampf said. The first is to check the basic play patterns, and the reasons for running. The other is to note who unknowingly tipoff their opponents as to where they are going on a given play.

Sometimes, however, tipoffs don't help. Kampf spotted a tipoff on a favorite Oklahoma play, but the Sooners had so many options for the play it did little good to know the tipoff.

"Some teams set up a new series of plays for a certain game. For instance, the Wildcats used the belly series for the first time in Nebraska. The Huskers had been using that same series of plays, and the boys knew just what to run to stop the Nebraska offense."

Can She Coach Too?

Secretary Lois Ottaway Is Jill of All Trades

By JIM BELL

Lois Ottaway, secretary to K-State's sports publicity director Paul DeWeese, is a pioneer for women's suffrage in the sports writing field.

She is probably the first woman to be allowed in the working press section of Memorial stadium during a football game, with one exception, the Western Union teletype operator.

"The Football Writers Association of America recommends that women should not be allowed in working press sections," Lois said. "Lately, they've relented a little and allowed women in—although they still don't favor it too strongly."

"I've been to all the conference schools except Iowa State and Missouri. I have an invitation to go to the Missouri football game next season, and I'll sit in their press section," she said.

Lois took her job as DeWeese's secretary in August, 1953. She graduated from K-State with a B.S. degree in technical journalism in the spring of that year.

After she received her diploma, Lois went to Colorado where she worked as a secretary for two and a half months.

Then she applied for the sports publicity job and came back to Manhattan to work for a new boss—her first day on the job was also DeWeese's first.

Her job as secretary to DeWeese includes keeping scrap books of sports articles about K-State that appear in this area's larger papers; handling sports releases from her boss' desk, keeping a running total of football team and individual statistics, and taking care of mail requests from Wildcat fans.

Other duties include editing and laying out football and basketball brochures and programs, supervising the office's scholarship help, and running the office when DeWeese is gone.

Requests from fans range from brochures to ticket stubs, to autographs. "We do all in our power to help them," Lois explained.

Three athletes are currently working in the sports publicity office on athletic scholarships. Wally Frank, 6-8 freshman basketball center, Jack Parr, the Wildcat's all-Big Seven basketball center, and Don Zadnik, starting football end, comprise the trio.

Lois had the sports publicity office to herself when each of the two biggest stories the office has handled broke. The incidents were the resignations of Bill Meek, former Cat football coach, and Laurence (Moon) Mullins, ex-athletic director at K-State.

On both occasions, DeWeese was in Columbia, Mo., covering K-State-Missouri athletic events. Mullins resigned in January, 1955,

Lois Ottaway—rose among thorns and Meek resigned in January, 1954.

"I've learned a lot about sports since I came here," Lois said. "I didn't know who was in the line, who the quarterback was, or anything else about football before I got the job."

On game Saturdays at K-State, Lois fills an essential position in the press box. She duplicates statistics for distribution to a bevy of sports writers. She supplies the writers with programs and anything else they've forgotten or need, "from typewriters to aspirins."

"The press box part of my job, is the glamor part. You meet all the sports writers who come in—boy, there are some real characters. After a time, you have many friends that you want to see in the press box from Saturday to Saturday," she said.

"A sports writer gets his impression of a school from what he sees in the press box. We continually work for the quickest and most accurate ways to do things. We've gotten a number of compliments on our efficiency," she commented.

"Everybody thinks the job is glamorous, but you always have to stay an hour or so after the game is over. One thing you have to continually do is check and remember things," she said.

At this year's K-State-Kansas freshmen football game, Lois supervised press box operations. DeWeese was in Laramie, Wyoming, for the Cat's game with Wyoming university at the time.

"Starting this fall, I saw four games straight," Lois said. "I was just worn out after those four Saturdays. I don't see how the football players can keep up the pace, week after week."

Besides football, Lois helps cover basketball, baseball, track, and wrestling. She has covered wrestling matches on her own when DeWeese has been on basketball trips.

"I haven't missed a KU game, either basketball or football, since '52," she reported.

In line with her job Lois gets well acquainted with K-State athletes. "I do everything from writing letters, to sewing on ROTC buttons and finding dates for them," she said.

Lois got her "biggest thrill" in 1954. "We played Nebraska on my birthday, that year," she said.

"The football players promised before the game to give me the game ball if we won. We went down field with four minutes to play and fumbled on the Nebraska 20. But we recovered and scored, and came from behind to win, 7 to 3."

As a K-State student, Lois edited the Student Directory, Who's Who, and the K-Book. She served as business manager of the Royal Purple, and is a member of Mortar Board and Phi Kappa Phi.

In closing, Lois said, "I like all the people I meet, best—they're really nice."

Grid Widows Sacrifice, Still Like Pigskin Sport

By MARCIA BOYD

"Football wives seem to be an institution," says Mrs. Kerry Clifford, wife of the Cat gridder. Mrs. Clifford, known as Susie, said, "I got used to watching Kerry play football at Wichita East where we both went to high school."

The Cliffords, who live at 313 1/2 Summit, have two children, Mike who is three, and Stephanie, seven months. "I baby sit with a neighbor boy who is the age of Mike. That and taking care of the house pretty well fills up my day," she said.

"Football keeps Kerry on the go all day. He practices in the afternoon, has meetings at night, and goes to school in the morning. Of course, he eats all his meals at the training table except breakfast, but the children keep me company," Susie said.

There is a new rule this year that the married men in training can eat breakfast at home, she said. Before, all meals were eaten at the training table.

Susie went to school here one year and majored in home economics. Both Cliffords enjoy playing bridge.

"Football has been great for us. I'm thankful that Kerry's never gotten hurt," she said.

Mrs. Doris Wilson said, "Keith likes to talk about football all the time, and I like the game, too. It's hard to know what to say if they haven't won, though."

Both Wilsons are from Birmingham, Ala., and he was co-captain of the high school football team when she was head majorette. Doris graduated from high school last May, and this is her first year "up north."

Doris is a freshman in physical education, and Keith is majoring in American literature and English, vice-versa of what you would expect. She goes to school in the mornings and is a secretary at KSDB-FM radio station in the afternoon.

"The main difference I notice between Alabama and Kansas is the weather and the accents. When it's cold, it's cold, and when it's hot, it's hot," Doris said. "People always say 'you're from the South, aren't you?' the first time I meet them because of my accent. I don't think I sound so strange."

Both Wilsons like to go ice skating and horseback riding. "We don't really have much time, though, because of the tight schedule we're on. I do most of my housework in the evenings when Keith goes to his football meetings."

Doris likes all sports, and has attended all the games this fall except the one in Wyoming. She said that Keith has never been seriously hurt in college play, but had his collarbone broken in high school. "But he has had nine teeth pulled as a result of football."

"People don't realize how much football takes out of the players. Keith doesn't have the time to study like he'd like to, but other than that, we're just like any other couple working and going to school."

Mrs. Shirley Rainsberger says she worries as much about a game as Ellis does. "But I don't worry about him getting hurt—there's just as much a chance of some accident happening at home as there is on the field," she said.

"When Ellis hurt his ankle in the Missouri game, they didn't let me in the dressing room. I knew I couldn't help any, but I wanted to be there just in case I was needed," said Shirley.

The Rainsbergers met in Columbus, Ga., while Ellis was a paratrooper in the army. They have two children, Becky, who is two, and Ellis, Jr., nicknamed "Bubba," 10 months old.

Before her marriage, Shirley was employed by J. A. Kirvins store in Columbus. After on-the-job training under the buyer of the department, she was promoted to fashion coordinator.

"We had a traveling fashion show which gave four performances a day in four different states. Miss Georgia of 1953 accompanied us. We had a great time, and it was really a lot of fun," she said.

Painting, drawing, sewing, and music keeps Shirley busy while Ellis is gone during the day. She also taught dancing before she was married, and still enjoys dancing very much. "I still like to sew, and I've designed some of my children's clothes," she said.

Ellis, like all other players, is gone most of the day, and eats his meals at the training table.

"The reason they eat together is to make sure they have well-balanced meals, and perhaps more important, the team spirit is higher when they're together," Shirley said.

Mrs. Jean Sprinkle commented, "It's nice to have Chuck home now, but he sure misses not being able to play."

Sprinkle transferred from Kansas university in January, 1955, after his freshman year. He lost a year's playing time because of the transfer, and has missed most of this year's games because of a neck injury.

The Sprinkles were married last August in a double wedding with Jean's twin sister, Jane Eriksen. Jean transferred to K-State this fall as a home economics and child welfare major.

Jean is carrying 11 hours, and working at Rothrock's in Aggieville in the afternoons. "It's taking me awhile to adjust to the three jobs. I do most of the housework on Sunday's and on mornings when I don't have class," she said.

The four wives of the football players agreed that no matter how much time football takes, the biggest thrill they have is to see their husbands play a good game.

By BILL WHISTLER

Eight Wildcat seniors will be playing their last home game tomorrow when Kansas State clashes with the Iowa State Cyclones.

They are Tony Addeo, halfback; Bill Carrington, fullback; Kerry Clifford, center; Tito Cordelli, tackle; Arlan Dettmer, halfback; Len LeGault, tackle; Kenny Nesmith, and Jerry Hayes, halfback.

"All eight men have played a lot of solid football for K-State," coach Bus Mertes said. "And they played during a critical period when K-State was rebuilding. They deserve a terrific amount of credit for the effort they have put into the sport. We think they will be repaid by the training they have received through football."

"We hate to lose them, and we will feel their loss next season," the Wildcat coach added. "We also will lose Bob Willbey, former quarterback and currently our student manager—we think he's the finest in the country."

The eight players unanimously agree that college football has been an experience that will help them in later life.

"I wouldn't trade my experience for anything in the world," said Kerry Clifford. "It has given me a much more realistic outlook on life. I have done something I enjoyed doing and still got my education."

"It was well worth the time and effort I put into it," said Kenny Nesmith. "I wouldn't trade the last four years for anything." Asked what his plans were after college, Nesmith said "the army will be next, and after that a career in accounting."

"It has been a great experience playing with the guys," said Tony Addeo. "You get a knowledge of what winning and losing feels like, and a lot of people don't."

"Most people don't realize how we football players feel when we lose a game. We don't cry when we get hurt on the field, but you should see the guys that do when we lose a game. It's something I'll never forget." Tony plans to enter some field of art work.

"I've enjoyed my college career," said Tito Cordelli. "It's been different and exciting, but I guess we must all look to the future. Football is character building."

"I've enjoyed very much being a member of the team and being associated with a fine coaching staff and a great bunch of players which we have at K-State," said Arlan Dettmer.

"I think it has helped me in my college life and I value most the many friends I've made. After graduation and a couple of years in the army, I plan to enter some phase of agricultural work."

"Everything has happened so fast it hardly seems like I'll be playing my last home game," said Jerry Hayes. "I think sports helps one to meet and get along with people. I've learned how to take setbacks and accept them and not give up." Jerry plans on entering dental school after graduation.

"I've had a lot of thrills in football and have traveled to a lot of places I ordinarily wouldn't have gotten to see," Bill Carrington said.

"I have met a lot of influential people, and have made a lot of friends and a minimum of enemies both on and off the field. I have learned that the best way to get along in this world is through hard work."

Reserve tackle Len LeGault had this to say about college football: "I have met a lot of fine people and learned discipline." I've had a chance to travel a lot and if it hadn't been for my scholarship I would have had to work my way through school.

"I have learned that there has to be a winner and also a loser. There never has been a good loser, but you can learn to lose gracefully."

"I have had offers to play pro football," said Carrington. He didn't say who made the offers.

"I'm seriously thinking about playing, but if it doesn't work out I'll go ahead and coach."

"I definitely intend to try out for pro ball in Canada," LeGault said. "I haven't had any definite offers, but I'm going to give it a try. Several people have talked to me about it. I plan on taking graduate work in '58, however."

DeWeese Does Duty as Sports Publicity Director

By ORVAL JACKSON

When you walk into the K-State press-box you can always find the Wildcat's amiable sports publicity director, Paul DeWeese.

Paul has complete charge of the press-box for home games, and is responsible for setting up for the visiting writers. In setting up the press-box, he must assign seating arrangements, distribute the press-box passes, and in general make the visitors feel as welcome as possible.

However, this is just one of the many things that Paul must attend to as publicity director.

One of the most important roles that he fulfills is the preparation of sports releases for newspapers, and radio and television stations. These releases are sent out each week.

Paul also goes on road trips with the Wildcats, sometimes even before they start out. This coming week is an example. He will leave for Michigan State on Monday.

Starting Tuesday, Paul will begin a series of appearances at luncheons and radio and television stations publicizing the Wildcat-Spartan game. Friday will find Paul meeting the Wildcats when they arrive.

"I enjoy making the trips with the boys," Paul said. "I think anyone would be proud to travel with the team, because they are not only a credit to themselves but to the College itself."

Paul has seen many college football teams but he feels that the present Wildcat team is unique.

"These boys feel that football is fun, which is very unusual in present-day college football," he said.

DeWeese began his present job in August of 1953. He graduated from K-State in 1947 and when to work for Colorado A&M.

He returned to K-State in 1948 as assistant program director for the radio station KSAC. He held this position until the time he became sports publicity director.

It is impossible to classify one phase of sports publicity as more important than another, Paul said. "Under certain conditions the sports releases would be the most important, while under other conditions the sports pictures might rate the nod," he said.

WITH SOME TOOLS OF THE TRADE in the background, Porky stops during a busy day and tries to remember where he put the band-aids.

Cats Claws Kept Sharp By Personable Trainer

By JAY WORKMAN

Porky Morgan, K-State head trainer since 1951, puts in 85 to 90 hours a week year-around guarding the Wildcats' health.

"I don't know if I enjoy the work or if I'm crazy," said the personable Morgan, who attends all daily workouts as well as the varsity games.

The cigar-smoking trainer, whose actual name is Laurence, is sarcastically nick-named Porky because of his small stature.

He said, "People have called me Porky since I was a sophomore in high school; I weighed as much then as I do now."

One of his main responsibilities is to keep the coaches informed as to the injuries that the various players have and who will be able to practice on a given night.

"Football players can play with a more serious injury than competitors in other sports because they generally can take care of themselves better. Also I can make a special pad for them that a basketball player wouldn't be able to wear."

A former director of the National Athletic Trainer's association, Porky is near the top for honors as a conscientious trainer.

He has been treating and taping (with time out to serve as a captain in World War II) since his first post at East Moline high school from 1935 to 1939.

He enrolled at St. Ambrose college in Davenport, Iowa, in 1939 and was student trainer there for two years before going to The Citadel as head trainer in 1941.

Morgan received his degree in 1949 from St. Ambrose and during the winter of 1949-50 he was trainer for the Tri-County Black-hawks, professional basketball team.

"Porky" stresses prevention of injuries in his "offices" in east stadium and the Field House where he has four tables for taping, heat lamp treatments, and rubdowns. There is also a whirlpool, which is a tub of hot swirling water to doctor sprains and sore muscles.

He puts in a lot of time on the playing field where he carries tape, band-aids, gauze, chin straps, shoe laces, smelling salts, and firmgrip, an adhesive wax used by backfield men to keep a better hold on the ball.

"Ralph Pfeifer keeps me busy in a game asking for firmgrip and uses almost a full jar" said Porky.

When there is a time out on the field, Morgan sometimes has to make a split-second decision whether or not an athlete should stay in the game. "Sometimes they try to hide injuries but don't get by with it often."

Porky, a dependable source of information for newsmen and radio reporters, said, "Of course I root for K-State during the game. But any trainer would help a member of an opposing team if needed. The visitors can use our equipment before or after a game."

"Sunday is one of my roughest days. I try to take care of even the smallest injury then so the guys won't have to take time from classes and the coach will know who is going to be ready Monday."

"K-State has the best training room in the conference," Morgan said, "and my helpers and I try to keep the visiting team's training room in just as good shape."

Soviets Ask U.S. Stars To 1957 Moscow Games

Melbourne, Australia (U.P.)—America's favored track and field forces, marking time in their training as a second straight rainy day swamped the running tracks, were invited by Russia today to open an annual competition with a visit to Moscow in 1957.

"Soviet sports lovers will at last see United States athletes after a long time of waiting," said Konstantin Kroupin, president of the Soviet Athletic union who extended the invitation to American officials at an informal meeting.

"If possible, we will go to the United States in 1958 with great pleasure and hope to make this USSR versus United States competition a yearly event," said Kroupin, adding that a formal written invitation would follow the verbal one.

Dan Ferris, secretary-treasurer of the United States Amateur Athletic union, immediately expressed his pleasure at the invitation and predicted that such a competition would "do a great deal towards world peace."

"We were invited to go to the USSR last year, but we couldn't make it," said Ferris in recalling previous efforts to establish track competition between the two nations.

"We issued an invitation in 1953 for the Soviet team to come to the United States, but it was called off because of Soviet objections to our finger-printing laws. We hope that those laws will be off the books by 1958."

Attending the meeting in the Russian quarters, at which vodka and cola were the chief beverages, were Americans Ferris, track coach Jim Kelly and his assistants, and track manager Larry Houston and his assistants. Russians Kroupin, head coach Leonid Khomenkov, women's coach Galina Torova, chief sprint coach Gabriel Korobkov, and others.

The Russians said they were planning a big sports carnival at Moscow next July which would include more events than the Olympic games.

Track highlight of the rainy day was a claim by French high jump champion Maurice Fournier that yesterday he leaped seven feet in practice.

Fournier said he unofficially equalled the 2.14 meters (seven feet, 1/2 inch) world record held by America's Charley Dumas, after warm-up jumps of 2.08 and 2.11 meters.

French coach Andre Cherrier refused to confirm or deny Fournier's claim and other French athletes said they knew nothing about it. Fournier, 24-year-old Paris air ministry employee, said, "It was a big surprise to me, but my coach almost fainted."

"I don't know whether I'll do as well in the games. I feel a small pain in my left side from the last jump."

The favored U.S. basketball team arrived last night and coach Gerry Tucker announced today "We're not cocky, but we've never lost the Olympic basketball championship and we're not going to start now."

Leahy Appointment Denied

Austin, Tex., (U.P.)—University of Texas officials today denied a report that former Notre Dame football coach Frank Leahy's appointment as athletic director here would be announced soon.

Claude Voiles, vice chairman of the university board of regents, said, "There is absolutely nothing to it."

At Midland, Tom Sealy, chairman of the regents, called the report "absolutely unfounded." He said that Leahy "Was contacted by some of our alumni—and I can tell you some of our alumni have contacted other prominent coaches—but nobody, including Mr. Leahy, has been officially contacted."

The report originated with Sports Director Naylor Stone of the Birmingham, Ala., Post-Herald. Stone said last night that an announcement of Leahy's appointment would be made within 10 days and that his information came from "a high-ranking University of Texas Alumnus" who has a "prominent part in selecting athletic directors and coaches at that school."

Class of '51 Plans Reunion Tomorrow

By JIM BELL

Alumni Homecoming activities will focus on a class of '51 reunion tomorrow.

No program is scheduled for returning alumni. A registration period from 10 a.m. to noon, and a buffet luncheon at 11:15 in the Union are planned, according to Ernie Barrett of the Alumni association office.

"We're receiving inquiries each day from members of the class," Barrett said.

"This is the first time a class reunion has been held at a Homecoming. We feel that this is better than having reunions in the spring after the semester ends, because then the students are gone, some buildings are closed down, and activities are limited," he said.

Blue Key members of 1951 will hold a reunion in conjunction with the class of '51 meeting.

Frank Mosier of the athletic ticket office has been in charge of organization for the reunion. He is a member of the 1951 class, approximately 1,500 in number.

According to Mosier, ten members of his class have helped coordinate the reunion: Mrs. Norman Held, Alice Becker, Corrine Gregg, Burton Gordon, Mila Kimel, Gene Lubbock, Norman Rothrock, C. W. Thomas, Don Thomas, and Barbara Held.

Better Known as 'Bob'

Touchdown IV To Attend Her Eighth Homecoming

By SUE GOSS

K-State's mascot, a 40-pound wildcat, will attend her eighth consecutive Homecoming game tomorrow.

This feminine feline has lived in Sunset zoo since November, 1948. She is known to K-Staters as Touchdown IV, but members of Alpha Phi Omega, national Scouting fraternity which purchased her, have labeled her Bob.

The 1915 football players were named Wildcats by coach "Chief" Bender because of their fighting spirit.

The name was changed to Farmers in 1916, but coach Charles Bachman switched back to the original name in 1920. Since that time K-State has been host to four live wildcats.

After much encouragement on the part of coach Bachman, veterinarians Herbert R. Groome, '05, and John E. McCoy, '09, gave Touchdown I to K-State.

The wildcat had been engaged in a war with a porcupine before his trip to Manhattan, and was unable to eat because quills obstructed his throat. He died of pneumonia shortly after his arrival.

Touchdown II was a gift of Harold P. Bates, '11, and traveled from Washington State college.

He had been captured by friends of Bates who were hunting a wildcat, with orders to "bring him in alive." TD II was their sixth attempt, and was led into town on a rope.

This mascot was a healthy one and survived many football and basketball games. He died of heat prostration during the hot, dry summer of 1936.

Three years later Dr. F. Schmidt, also a vet medicine graduate, donated Touchdown III to K-State. The cat was sent from Arizona. He contracted pneumonia and died soon after.

The present mascot came from the Hutchinson fire department. She was captured in Carson City, Colo. Alpha Phi Omega paid $50 for the 4-year-old cat, whose first home game was a K-State-Colorado basketball game. The team won, 48-43.

Her first out-of-town appearance was on November 7, 1953, when she watched K-State overcome the KU Jayhawks, 7-0, in football.

IT'LL BE A COLD DAY in November when Touchdown IV comes out of her home at Sunset zoo to attend the Homecoming game—at least that's the way it looked Thursday when Touchdown refused to come out to be photographed.

Activities of this year's five Homecoming queen finalists vary from editing to twirling. Elin McCandless is editor of Who's Who, 4-H yearbook, and Joyce Brower is a twirler for the K-State marching band.

Miss Brower, besides being a twirler, belongs to Angel Flight, Young Republicans, Business Students association, and Christian Youth fellowship.

Joyce represents Chi Omega. She was chosen "Miss El Dorado" in 1954 and was an American Royal queen candidate the same year.

Joyce is 21 years old, is 5 feet, 7 inches tall, and has brown hair and blue eyes.

"I plan to be a home economics agent for two years, then get my MS from Cornell," Elin McCandless says.

Elin is a member of Alpha Chi Omega, treasurer of Student Council, vice-president of the Home Economics Extension club, editor of Who's Who, a member of Collegiate 4-H club, a member of Home Economics council, and assistant chairman of Hospitality day.

Elin is 20 years old, 5 feet, 9 inches tall, and has brown hair and brown eyes.

Sewing, dancing, and modeling are the special interests of Sandra Mueller. Sandra is 5 feet, 7 1/2 inches, 21 years old, has blonde hair and blue-green eyes.

Sandra is a member of the Buying club, was secretary of the Union Dance committee, is chairman of the Union Coffee Hours committee, a member of Omicron Nu, treasurer of the senior class, and was president of her sorority, Kappa Kappa Gamma.

Sandra has been Royal Purple queen attendant, queen attendant at St. Pat's prom, and was a candidate for Miss Estes Park in Colorado.

Connie Benjamin has been a crown holder three times. In high school she was the football sweetheart and Demolay sweetheart. She was the 1956 pledge queen during her freshman year at K-State. Connie is 5 feet, 6 inches, has blonde hair and green eyes, and is 19 years old.

She is a member of Pi Beta Phi, Purple Peppers, Angel Flight, Panhellenic council, is vice-president of the Home Economics and Nursing club, and secretary of the Harmonizers union committee.

Dixie Brown plans to be a foods demonstrator for an appliance or foods manufacturer after graduation.

Dixie is publicity chairman for the Union Program council, secretary for the Campus Industrial Development committee, and a member of the campaign committee for the Integrity party.

A member of Alpha Delta Pi, Dixie is 5 feet, 5 inches, has blue eyes and brown hair, and is 19 years old. She has been attendant to the Military Ball queen.

William Sikes May Again Lead Saturday Parade

By CAROL SITZ

W. H. (Bill) Sikes may again take his place on horseback at the head of tomorrow's Homecoming parade. Sikes missed last year's parade because of illness after leading many past parades.

His family says he'll be in the parade if the weather is right. He demonstrated the past summer that he had snapped back from last year's illness when he went for a horseback ride on his 98th birthday.

At 98, Sikes is K-State's oldest living male graduate. He received his diploma in 1879 along with eight other graduates.

In 1881, Sikes opened a general store in Leonardville. He has continued to take an active part in the running of the store since its founding those 75 years ago.

Eight years ago, Sikes became the author of his second book, entitled "Life Begins at Ninety." In it he recalled incidents in his life as far back as Civil War days.

One of the first recollections Sikes has of his childhood occurred during the early Civil War days.

"I was sitting in a high chair at a table, surrounded by the family picking old linen apart to use in bandages for binding the wounds of Union soldiers. I was then three years old, and the scene is vivid and clear to me still," he said.

Sikes was 12 years old when he and his family came to Kansas in 1870 with his Congregational minister father.

"There was a great rush to Kansas that year. I remember the smile a man on the train (Continued on page 18)

Union Planning Special Meals

"The Student Union will feature three types of meal service for Homecoming this weekend," Loren V. Kottner, Union director, said.

A buffet in the main ballroom will be from 11 a.m. to 1:30 p.m. The cafeteria will open at 10:30 a.m. and close at 1:30 p.m. For those wanting snacks, the State room will be open all day.

The Union hospitality committee will help conduct traffic and tours throughout the building. Special decorations commemorating Homecoming will be used, and special music will be on the speaker system.

Matt Betton's orchestra will play for the Homecoming dance tomorrow night from 9 p.m. to midnight in the main ballroom.

MUM'S THE WORD—Karen Milner, EEd Jr, waves a traditional Homecoming mum as she demonstrates her cheering ability today. "I plan to yell that way at the game, too," she said. "Both because I want the team to win and I want to keep warm."

gave me when I told him in reply to his query that we were on our way to Kansas," Sikes recalls in his book.

The Sikes family first settled in a small German community in Pottawatomie county.

From his student days at K-State, Sikes recalls that, of the 200 students attending the College, few could afford to pay for room and board with private families. "They batched or formed clubs and economized as much as possible," he said.

Many of the students worked at odd jobs in order to help with college expenses. "The College paid students 10 cents an hour, but couldn't supply enough work. Ten cents an hour! An hour's work for a Faber lead pencil!"

Sikes recalls that as a member of a surveying class he assisted in running lines and placing the stakes for the north wing of Anderson hall.

The north wing of Anderson was completed in 1879 during Sikes' senior year at K-State. He says the building "seemed great and grand in comparison with the rooms in the 'Old Barn,'" as one of the main campus buildings was called at that time.

"Lover's Lane was there in those day and quite OK, but we had little time then to arrange meetings," Sikes said.

Betton Again

Homecoming Ball Will Cap Busy KS Weekend Saturday

By NANCY MOLTER

Matt Betton's orchestra will play at its fifth consecutive Homecoming ball Saturday from 9 to 12 p.m. in the grand ballroom of the Student Union.

Several old-grad musicians have been added to the orchestra for this dance, and the group will play mostly Ralph Flanagan and Glenn Miller styles of music. The K-State Singers will present several numbers.

The Homecoming queen will be crowned just before intermission, about 10:30, in the ballroom. Blue Key member Kenny Nesmith will be master of ceremonies.

Heels and hose and dressy dresses for women, and suits for men will be the appropriate dress.

A Coke bar will be set up in the north wing of the ballroom to serve those at the dance. A number of card tables and chairs also will be set up in the refreshment area.

Tickets to the dance are $2 a couple. They are on sale at booths in Anderson and the Union today, and will be sold at the dance tomorrow night.

This year will mark the first time that the Homecoming ball will be in the Union. This dance also was the first social event in Ahearn Field House when it was opened in 1951.

In past years, the Avalon ballroom was the favorite dancing place of K-Staters. Roberts Furniture company in Aggieville now occupies the former ballroom.

"The Avalon ballroom had the first spring floor west of the Mississippi. Coil springs actually were installed under the floor, and this made it perfect for dancing," Betton recalls.

Betton's band has become almost a tradition for the Homecoming ball.

"I couldn't say exactly how many Homecomings we have played, but we have played for almost every one since the College decided to have a Homecoming ball," Betton said.

Betton makes the ball a special occasion by inviting some of the K-State alums who formerly played in his band to join the band again for one evening.

"I have invited five of my former band members this year," Betton said. "This will give us a 15-piece band. These musicians come from Denver, Kansas City, Texas, and the University of Illinois.

Most of them now are employed in music education."

Though the first Homecoming game in K-State's history was in 1915, it wasn't until 1932 that the first Homecoming dance took place. A Varsity dance was held the Friday night before the game and another Saturday night after the game.

The Homecoming ball of 1936 marked the first year that Blue Key, senior men's honor fraternity, sponsored the ball.

During the war Blue Key became inactive and the Student Council took over sponsorship of the ball. However, Blue Key resumed that duty again in 1946 and has sponsored the ball each year since that time.

First Sale of Mums Netted $12 Profit for Mortar Board

By MARY WIELAND

In 1938 when a fellow bought his favorite gal a mum for the Homecoming game, he had to pay 25, 35 or if he really splurged, 50 cents. That year, the first year Mortar Board sold mums at K-State, a $12 profit was made.

Mortar Board has the exclusive right to sell the flowers on the KSC campus. Profits go into a scholarship fund from which two scholarships are awarded each year to freshman women.

Flowers from Hawaii competed with mums during the K-State Homecoming festivities in 1949 when a student from Hawaii started a Hawaiian flower business near the campus to help meet his college expenses.

"College men and others wanting to make a big impression on the little lady now may send her a giant cateleya orchid, vanda orchid, or wood rose corsage—or bright red, heart-shaped arthuremums, or even a Bird of Paradise bouquet." This appeared in a 1949 issue of the Kansas Industrialist. The popularity of mums was soon restored, however.

Why is the mum the traditional flower for Homecoming?

Some say because it is a fall flower, and grows in fall colors—bronze and yellow. It is a hardy flower, ready to face the cold weather that sometimes comes with Homecoming.

The fashion-minded say that mums compliment the suits and other casual outfits worn to Homecoming games.

The flower's size and resemblance to a football, its appropriateness for the occasion may help explain its popularity.

K-State-KU Game in 1915 Started Homecoming

By P. A. YOUNG

Homecoming at K-State started with our neighbors down the Kaw in 1915.

John Bender, head football coach that year, suggested that a day be set aside for Homecoming. More than 10,000 stickers were used to advertise the event, and letters invited alumni to see the first Homecoming game.

Friday night, an enthusiastic group of students joined in a pep rally in the auditorium, then formed a snake dance and marched downtown. A dance in Nichols gym wound up pre-Homecoming activities.

The day of the game, October 23, 1915, was a big one for KU. A special train brought the 50-piece KU band and cheering students to Manhattan. They were met by the Aggie band and 1,000 students. The KU band performed at halftime, and K-State girls dressed in white formed a huge K on the field. The first half ended 7-6 in favor of K-State, but KU piled up 13 points during the fourth quarter to win the game, 19-7.

The Missouri Tigers battled the Wildcats in the second Homecoming day—November 11, 1916, before a record crowd.

The Tigers clawed fiercely but, when the final gun sounded, the Wildcats had grabbed their first Homecoming victory.

World War I stopped Homecoming activities until 1919. That year a 10-page program was printed with team pictures and information.

In 1921, Mortar Board began selling mums. Since that time, mums have been a traditional Homecoming flower. They were sold at the gates before the game started.

Also in 1921, K-State journalists entertained newspapermen with a luncheon and program similar to the present Editors' day. A class reunion was held by the engineers. Engineering hall was formally opened that year.

Before a sell-out crowd of 10,000 fans the Aggies tied KU, 7-7, in the new Memorial stadium in 1922. Tickets were sold out a week in advance.

The 1923 Homecoming initiated another tradition at K-State. Decorating organized houses and lawns began that year. Prizes were awarded to the houses with the most original displays.

Manhattan merchants decorated their shop windows and special railroad rates were set up for people attending the game. A Kansas City radio station broadcast the action.

Although there was a deluge of rain, every event except the bicycle races went off as scheduled.

In 1927, the first Homecoming parade in downtown Manhattan was added. Floats and bands took part.

In 1929, a celebration welcomed alumni back for a Diamond jubilee celebrating the founding of Manhattan.

Several new activities were introduced in the 1932 Homecoming. There were two dances that week end. A varsity dance was Friday night; Saturday night, a dance was held in the Wareham Hotel ballroom. A bonfire and pajama parade preceded the Friday dance.

Jane Underwood, a Chi Omega from Hoisington, was selected as K-State's first Homecoming Queen in 1936. She was selected by a vote of students who bought tickets to a Blue Key dance.

Twenty fraternities decorated their houses and lawns for the 1937 Homecoming. Cars loaded with fraternity men blocked traffic for several hours as they made the rounds to see how their rivals had done.

Twenty thousand persons jammed Manhattan in 1938 to witness a two-mile, 75th-anniversary parade and the KU-K-State game. The parade depicted the development of the College during its 75 years of its existence.

Members of the 1930 football team were guests at the

One of the biggest upsets in K-State history highlighted the 1941 Homecoming as the Wildcats defeated a favored Nebraska team, 12-6.

World War II interfered and in 1945 no fraternity or sorority houses were decorated in the pre-war manner. Panhellenic and Interfraternity councils voted against decorating until 1946.

"Victory Homecoming" was the theme of the 1946 festivities. In years prior to the war the celebrations had lasted two days, but in 1946 Homecoming activities lasted five days.

Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower was guest of honor at the 1947 Homecoming.

The first social event in the new Field House was the 1951 Homecoming Ball. More than 1,000 couples attended the dance in the new building.

Trophies were presented to the Homecoming Queen and to her attendants for the first time in 1952. They had received gifts in previous years. The Wildcats lost to the Missouri Tigers, 26-0.

In the 1953 game, a record crowd of 22,500 persons watched the Oklahoma Sooners defeat K-State, 34-0.

Marlene Young, K-State's first drum majorette, was elected Homecoming Queen by the student body in 1954. K-State edged Iowa State, 12-7, and made a big push for the Orange Bowl. They later were defeated by Colorado.

K-State was defeated, 40-7, in last year's Homecoming by the Oklahoma Sooners. Jean Cooper, a K-State cheerleader, was elected Homecoming queen.

Parade Floats Are To Follow Nursery Theme

By CAROL SITZ

Mother Goose and other nursery rhyme characters will take the spotlight tomorrow morning as floats entered in the annual Homecoming parade roll through the Manhattan streets.

The themes of the 18 floats entered in the parade are to be centered around nursery rhymes or proverbs. But tight-lipped students, working hard on their organizations' floats, refuse to disclose the ideas they are working on.

About 25 other entries will have a place in the parade. An old-time fire engine, along with two cars from days gone by, will be entered.

For people who prefer the forerunners of these "horseless carriages," there will be a number of horses and riders entered by Chaparajos, K-State rodeo and riding club.

Both the K-State and Manhattan High marching bands will provide parade music.

K-State cheerleaders and members of the three K-State pep clubs—Purple Pepsters, Wampus Cats, and Whi-purs—will add their enthusiasm to the parade.

A 20-man Pershing Rifle drill team will add military flavor to the parade. Fort Riley probably will not be represented in the parade this year.

Dignitaries riding in the parade will include the Homecoming queen candidates; Pres. James McCain; Pat Wilkerson, Student Governing association president; Charles S. Arthur, mayor of Manhattan; and Capt. Robert B. Tobias Jr, parade marshal.

Invitations to ride in the parade have been sent to Gov. Fred Hall and to William H. (Bill) Sikes, K-State's oldest living male graduate.

K-State Baptist Group Gets Its First Full Time Director

By P. A. YOUNG

For the first time, the Roger Williams fellowship has a full-time student director on campus, Betty Willis. Miss Willis, who is sponsored by the American Baptist convention, was previously director of the Roger Williams fellowship at Iowa State college.

With over 400 students registered in the Baptist faith, Miss Willis finds that the group has outgrown its official headquarters in Illustration hall, where she has her office. At present the group meets at the First Baptist church at 202 N. Juliette, but plans are being made to get a place for fellowship and meetings, Miss Willis said.

Monday at 4 p.m. representatives of the group are meeting with students from three other church groups to make plans for a regional interdenominational conference at Oklahoma A & M in December. Roger Williams fellowship plans to send several delegates.

Members of the group are planning to attend the Baptist student movement conference that is being held December 1 and 2 at Kansas University. They also plan to hold a banquet for foreign students December 9, and to send delegates to the United Students Christian conference that is being held in New York.

Weekly activities of the group include Sunday morning Bible study at the church. Floyd B. Sloat, assistant professor of mathematics, teaches the course. The Sunday evening program at the church include supper, fellowship and a speaker.

Ron Butler, Chm Jr, is president; James C. Zahnley, Chm Jr, vice-president; Betty L. Johnson, HE Soph, secretary; and Don W. Holloway, BA Soph, treasurer.

Coed Helps Rebuild Town

Helping to rebuild a bombed Austrian town was the summer job of Sandy Arnold, HEN Soph. The town, Linz, is 10 miles from the Russian border.

The Methodist church paid half the cost for Sandy and 33 other students. Both boys and girls worked on the construction of an apartment house for refugees who were living in old army barracks.

The boys dug trenches around two sides of the building for plumbing and did heavy work. The girls mixed and poured mortar, filled holes, unloaded trucks of bricks, and stacked and carried cement blocks.

"We worked right along with the Austrians," Miss Arnold commented. "At first they did not like us because we were taking the jobs of other unemployed Austrians." After the first day, though, dissention was lost, and Miss Arnold said there were many times when the Austrians commented on how wonderful it must be to live in America.

"We worked only half days," Sandy said, "either from 7 a.m. to noon, or from 1 p.m. until 4:30 p.m." The part of the day when the Americans did not work on the apartment building, they worked leveling off a playground for children. They also laid sidewalks, built fences, pulled weeds, and shoveled gravel. The workers did not have access to modern machinery; everything was done by hand.

"Our pay was 28 shillings a day or $1.10 in American money, but we never actually saw the money," Sandy said. The money was given to the Methodist church for a kindergarten that was to be remodeled for the Austrian children.

There are about one thousand Methodists in Austria, but the major religion is Roman Catholic. "There were numerous Catholic families in our community, but our caravan Methodist church was praised by all for the splendid work which our people were doing," Sandy replied.

"In our spare time, we took many memorable trips," she commented. The group went to Vienna, on trips down the Danube, and to the music festival at Salzburg. Before starting work in Austria, the Americans spent several weeks traveling in England, Holland, Belgium, Germany, France, and Switzerland, by bus and train.

When asked if she thought their mission was fulfilled, Miss Arnold said, "Yes, I do, but the results will not show until later years. We lived with the people and shared their likes and dislikes. Also, we were not wealthy, as most American tourists appear to be."

Quartet Invites Public To Chapel Rehearsals

All-Faith Memorial chapel will be open each Monday, Wednesday, and Friday from 10 a.m. to 12 noon, so that students and faculty members can attend the K-State String Quartet rehearsals, according to William C. Tremmel, director of religious coordination.

"Drop in as often as you like, for a few minutes or a few hours," Dr. Tremmel said. "This experience should promote both the spiritual and cultural life of K-State students."

Real Jazzy!

Original Jazz Recordings Delight K-State Freshman

By CAROLINE HARKINS

"I appreciate the original forms of jazz because of the feeling and emotion that the old masters had for music," said Harold W. (Bill) Grinstaff, ME Fr. Bill has a large collection in his record library of some of the original recordings made when jazz was a new type of music.

Bill estimates his collection to be worth about $550. "I have been offered $80 for one record alone, which I consider to be my most valuable one. This is a recording made by the Original Dixieland Jazz Band in 1917 for RCA Victor in New York. The band was composed of all white musicians from New York and was the very first jazz band to record. The two songs on this recording are "The Original Dixieland One-Step," which was the more popular, and "Livery Stable Blues." I suppose that there are about 300 of these records in circulation now, but there were 15,000 pressed."

His interest in old jazz started when he received one recording for his 11th birthday, and he has been collecting these records ever since. Bill was one of the first members of the New Orleans Jazz club, which he joined in 1952.

"The best places to find these old recordings for a reasonable price are pawn shops and auctions of old homes. There are companies which sell them, but they are pretty high. Many companies have the particularly valuable ones in the vaults, some worth $15,000. The condition the record is in is one of the main factors in determining how expensive it will be.

"Jazz music has advanced a great deal from the days when the artists couldn't read music, but just played like they felt. Now some colleges offer a B.S. in jazz music. I think that by 1975 there will be jazz concerts given as frequently as classical ones."

Bill feels that people enjoy listening to these records more from the standpoint of their historical significance than the sounds produced. The sound itself has a tinny quality that is not too pleasing to the ear.

"The greatest jazz artist of all time, as far as I'm concerned is Louis Armstrong. His style shows such originality that it could never be duplicated nor successfully imitated. Some of the other greats in the jazz field are Larry Shields, Jimmy Noone, Pine Top Smith, King Oliver, Johnny Dodds, and Baby Dodds, to name a few.

"How difficult a record is to obtain usually depends upon the number in circulation. Most of these are pressed at 78 rpm and many of them are printed on only one side. I collect recordings that are being released again, but I prefer the old originals for their historic value and for the way they sound. I dislike modern jazz mainly because of the lack of rhythm and coordination of instruments that most of the recordings show in comparison to early jazz."

ous when riding any distance, so must be given nerve medicine before leaving Manhattan.

She has been borrowed unofficially three times by rival students. A year ago before the K-State-KU game, TD IV was "catnapped" by Jayhawkers, and was held hostage until the game began.

The substitute wildcat that was taken to the game at Lawrence meowed "Vengeance Is Mine" as the football team trounced KU, 46-0.

Touchdown IV is no longer taken out of her cage, as the 12-year-old mascot has a life expectancy of only 8 years.

Her invitation to games at Lawrence has been cancelled. "They said they did not care to have the wildcat in their field house," Ed Stolfus, MTC Sr, treasurer of Alpha Phi Omega, said.

ternity transport her to and from games. The Veterinary school is in charge of her welfare as part of their work at the zoo.

Gov. Arthur Capper Attended K-State's First Homecoming

By JUDY TAPLIN

K-State's first Homecoming—October 23, 1915—saw KU come roaring back in the last half to beat the Aggies 19 to 7.

The Aggie line, which at first held like a stone wall, finally crumbled. Nevertheless, the event was deemed a big success. It was publicized far ahead of time by letters of invitation to alums, by giving all high school seniors in the state free tickets to the game, and by distributing 10,000 stickers advertising the event.

Bleachers were built around the entire football field, giving a seating capacity of 5,000. The entire north section was reserved for Aggie rooters, students, and alumni. The field was patrolled by Aggie cadets in uniform.

Friday evening before the big day, 2,500 gathered at the Auditorium and held a snake dance downtown. Saturday KU rooters were met at the railroad station by an Aggie band and 1,000 students.

Arthur Capper, then governor of Kansas, performed honorary kick-off duties at the opening of the game.

Decorating houses and lawns for Homecoming began in 1923 with prizes awarded to the most original.

The annual Homecoming parade began in 1927. The first Homecoming queen, Jean Underwood of Hoisington, was selected in 1936. She was elected by the votes of students who bought tickets to the Blue Key dance that followed the football game.

It was sometime around 1937 that the football team dropped their Aggie title and became the Wildcats.

Homecoming activities lasted for five days in 1946 because they had been cut down in the war years. The fun began on Tuesday and lasted until Saturday night.

General Dwight D. Eisenhower came to K-State in 1947 for Homecoming. Saturday morning before the game he gave an address to the student body.

Nine radio stations broadcast the game, Ike's speech, and other Homecoming activities. Present from all parts of the country were reporters, photographers, and newsreel cameramen representing AP, UP, INS, Time magazine, Newsweek, Life, Look, and many other magazines.

In 1950 and again in '52, William Sikes, '92-'94, K-State's oldest living alum, led the Homecoming parade on horseback.

String Quartet Recital Sunday

K-State's resident string quartet will present a recital in the All-Faith chapel auditorium Sunday, November 18, at 4 p.m.

Members of the quartet are George Leedham, assistant professor of music, first violin; Luther Leavengood, head of the department of music, second violin; Clyde Jussila, instructor, viola; and Warren Walker, assistant professor of music, violoncello.

Numbers on the program are: Quartet in C Minor by Mozart, Quartet Op. 10 in G Minor by Debussy, and Quartet in G Minor, Op. Posth. by Schubert.

What young people are doing at General Electric

Young engineer sells million-dollar equipment to utilities

Selling electric equipment for a utility substation—a complex unit used in power transmission and distribution—requires extensive technical knowledge of the products involved. Men who sell such complex equipment must also know a customer's requirements, what will best fill his needs, and how to sell the merits of their products to the executives who buy such apparatus.

One such man at General Electric is 31-year-old Allen J. Clay, an apparatus sales engineer serving the electrical utility companies in the Philadelphia-Allentown area.

Clay's Work Is Important, Diversified

For Clay, technical selling is not a door-to-door job. As a representative of General Electric, he must be ready to discuss customer needs with vice presidents or help solve intricate problems with skilled engineers. His recommendations are based on his own engineering background, and are backed up by the know-how of the Company's best application engineers. His interest in working with people carries over into his community life, where he takes a part in many local activities—Rotary, Community Chest, Boy Scouts, and his University Engineering Alumni Association.

27,000 College Graduates at General Electric

Allen Clay is a well-rounded individual who has come to be a spokesman for General Electric wherever he goes. Like each of our 27,000 college-graduate employees, he is being given the chance to grow and realize his full potential. For General Electric has long believed this: Whenever fresh young minds are given freedom to make progress, everybody benefits—the individual, the Company, and the country.

Educational Relations, General Electric Company, Schenectady 5, New York

Records Show Freshman Girls Have Edge in Homecoming Race

By P. A. YOUNG

The Homecoming queen this year will reign over the first Homecoming ball to be held in the new Student Union. Matt Betton's orchestra will play for the dance.

This will be the 20th year that K-State has crowned a Homecoming queen. The first K-State coed to be selected for the honor was Jeanne Underwood, a sophomore in home economics from Hoisington representing Chi Omega.

Each sorority sold tickets to that dance and a ticket sold was a vote for the group's candidate.

Last year's queen was Jean Cooper, representing Pi Beta Phi. She was a K-State cheerleader at that time, and now is married to Larry Hamilton, a graduate of Oklahoma university.

Through the past 10 years, the results seem to indicate that freshman girls have a slight edge in winning the honor. Only one senior has been chosen for the honor, while five of the winners were freshmen.

Marlene Young, EEd Jr, from Manhattan, was the 1954 Homecoming queen. She then was drum majorette of the K-State Marching band, and was a representative of Delta Delta Delta.

Another Tri Delt, Blythe Guy, was chosen Homecoming queen in 1953. She is now the wife of Jack Potts, a K-State graduate.

The only senior of the past 10 queens was Charleen Dunn, a representative of Kappa Kappa Gamma. The 1952 queen worked for the Hereford Journal until her marriage to John R. Fifield.

Doris Schawb, an Alpha Xi Delta, was Homecoming queen in 1951. She is now Mrs. Robert Yeager and lives in Wichita.

The 1950 Homecoming queen was Nancy Curtiss, a Chi Omega. She now is married to Chauncey Gundelfinger, who is in the Air Force.

The 1949 Homecoming queen, representing the Tri Delt's, was Jolene Esau, a freshman. She married Tom Wilson, a K-Stater, who was killed in a plane crash soon after they were married.

The 1948 Homecoming queen was Virginia Price, a sophomore representing Alpha Chi Omega. She is now Mrs. Phillip Day.

A Pi Beta Phi freshman from Kansas City won the honor in 1947. This queen pursued her studies until she received a PhD in chemistry. She was Phyllis Lou Johnson.

A junior representing Alpha Delta Phi was the queen in 1945. She was Louise Holdren, who is now Mrs. Gregg Chappell.

Circus Theme Is Slated For Halftime Band Show

By PAUL BOCQUIN

A circus theme is planned by the K-State marching band for its final outdoor performance this season—at the Homecoming football game.

The band will play four circus marches as it makes formations depicting a tent and a three-ring circus. Tumblers, jugglers, and clowns will appear. Three of the clowns will be twirlers Karen Blume, Sp Soph; Lynn Mechesney, EEd Soph; and Joyce Brower, HEN Soph; who will do special stunts.

As the band forms a circle around the Homecoming queen and her attendants, it will serenade her with "Will You Remember?"

Professor Hedlund has maps drawn up, showing the exact number of players for each formation. "One has to be a mathematician and geometrician if he expects to be a band director," he laughed.

The 123-piece band will lead the Homecoming parade Saturday morning at 10 a.m., when they will play several marches including "Wildcat Victory," "Hosts of Freedom," and "Men of Ohio."

Next week the band members will start rehearsing for their winter concert, scheduled for 4 p.m. January 13, in the College auditorium.

Queen Manages 'Thank You' Despite Being 'Speechless'

"I guess I'm supposed to say something. I'm speechless for words. I want to thank everyone for making this possible," Joyce Brower, BAA Soph from El Dorado, said after Walter Peirce, president of the K-State Alumni association, announced Joyce the 1956 Homecoming Queen during halftime at the Iowa State game Saturday.

Joyce is a member of Chi Omega sorority. She was "Miss El Dorado" in 1954 and also attended the American Royal as a queen candidate that year. She is a majorette in the K-State band and belongs to Angel Flight, Young Republicans, and the Business Students association.

The climax of the homecoming festivities was the crowning of Joyce by Mr. Peirce at the homecoming ball before a record breaking audience. Matt Betton and his band played for the homecoming ball in the big ballroom of the Union.

Miss Joyce Brower, BA Soph, was crowned Homecoming Queen at halftime ceremonies in a football game which saw K-State beat Iowa State 32-6.

The Queen was crowned before 12,000 fans by Walter Peirce of Hutchinson who is president of the K-State alumni association.

Four princesses shared the enthusiasm of the festivities as Dixie Brown, HDA Jr; Elin McCandless, HDA Jr; Connie Benjamin, HEN Soph, and Sandra Mueller, TxC Sr, assisted the Queen.

The Homecoming ball Saturday night found the largest crowd ever to attend an event in the Student Union enjoying the music of Matt Betton. About 700 couples were there, according to Darrel Miller, TJ Sr, Blue Key publicity chairman.

Crowning glory of the weekend came when the Wildcat grid team inhaled the Cyclones for their first home victory in two years.

Halftime festivities at the game found the K-State marching band giving vent to a circus atmosphere as they accompanied a troupe of 16 Manhattan tumblers led by Frank Anneberg, head of the city recreation department, who walked on his hands from the top of the stadium to the field. The tumblers were featured as a part of the band's three-ring circus performance.

A parade Saturday morning found close to 40 floats depicting a Cyclone defeat on the gridiron. Lambda Chi Alpha's Roman garrison took top float honors and Delta Sigma Phi's "Child's Play" float was second.

K-State's oldest living grad, William Sikes, 98, led the parade.

Alpha Chi Omega copped first prize in sorority house decorations with a gay nineties setting and Delta Tau Delta took fraternity honors with a highway of happy memories. Chi Omega was second among sororities and Sigma Alpha Epsilon was second for fraternities.

With the class of '51 being honored, the campus was a mecca for "old grads" and parents. Many visitors ate in the Union and then went to organized houses and dorms for open houses after the game.

The football victory marked only the second Homecoming victory in 10 years for the Cats, both of them against Iowa State.

Senior Invitations May Be Ordered

Seniors contemplating January graduation must order their senior invitations in Kedzie 101 during the week of November 26 to December 1. This is the only time the invitations may be ordered, according to George R. Eaton, head of the College press.

The limited time for ordering invitations is necessary to allow plenty of time for the manufacturer to produce and deliver the invitations.

As in the past, orders must be paid in cash. (No checks will be accepted.)

Invitation orders for seniors graduating in May will be taken next spring.

Y-Orpheum Set For March 22

The YMCA Cabinet and the Union Governing Board have agreed to co-sponsor the 1957 Y-Orpheum production, which has been definitely scheduled for Friday and Saturday nights, March 22 and 23, according to Bruce Wilson, general chairman of Y-Orpheum.

Applications for the six-sub-committee chairman positions can be made in the activities center immediately.

Y-Orpheum executive committee will be made up of six sub-committee chairmen; George Hooper, the representative from the YMCA; Bruce Wilson, general chairman; and Bob Alexander, faculty advisor. Various technical advisers for production will be available from the music, drama, and engineering departments.

The tentative schedule is as follows: the general theme will be announced as soon as possible after Thanksgiving vacation; the first meeting of the executive committee, technical advisers, and student directors of all interested organized houses will be held soon after Thanksgiving vacation; and announced date for scripts to be in will be announced later, but is tentatively set for mid-January; finalists will be announced at the beginning of second semester.

SGA Recording Secretary Is This Week's Personality

By JIM BELL

PAT McDERMOTT, BA Jr., was recently appointed as the Student Governing association's recording secretary by Pat Wilkerson, SGA president. She is the Collegian's featured personality for the week.

"Even though Pat had to take over in the middle of the year as secretary, it doesn't seem to handicap her," Wilkerson said. "The Council is certainly pleased with her work."

WILKERSON'S appointment of Pat was unanimously approved by the Council.

As secretary, Pat keeps an account of Council meetings. She dittos enough copies of the minutes to give to each representative and some faculty members. She also helps in the SGA office when needed.

PAT'S HOME is in Richland, Washington. Last year she attended Washington State college at Pullman.

Before school started this semester, Pat was notified by the Grand Council of her sorority, Gamma Phi Beta, that she had been selected along with Karla Bauer to help colonize the Gamma Phi's at Kansas State.

SHE IS serving the K-State colony as a Student Counsellor.

Pat is a charter member of the 2-year old Washington State chapter of Gamma Phi Beta. She has served her chapter as vice-president and social chairman.

AT K-STATE, Pat is a member of Angel Flight, Newman club, and Frog club ("I love to swim," she said). She is also a member of the Student Activities board.

She said that Washington State and Kansas State are "about alike," both offering much the same curriculum and being equally friendly.

AT WASHINGTON State, Pat held a similar post to the SGA secretary's job she holds here. She was recording secretary for the Washington State Board of Control.

She was the recipient of a General Electric scholarship during her freshman and sophomore years—15 similar awards are made nationally by GE each year.

PHI CHI THETA, professional business women's honorary, and Spurs, a national honorary for sophomore women similar to Chimes, occupied part of her time at Washington State.

Pat was a member of the Associated Women Student's Executive council, and the Social Skills committee, a student body committee.

PAT WAS vice-president of Fish Fans, a swimming club, and was chosen "Spur of the Moment" from the Spurs group by a sophomore men's scholastic organization.

Last summer, Pat worked in a camp for both handicapped and normal children in Idaho. Children ranging in age from 9 to 18 stayed at the camp—handicaps varied from blindness and deafness to cerebral palsy.

I'M IMPRESSED with the friendliness on the K-State campus," Pat said. "I like it here, and I feel very much at home already."

"The spirit of those working in student government is really terrific. It's wonderful to see so much enthusiasm. I'm honored to have the opportunity to attend K-State, and I know I'm going to enjoy it," she said.

High School Brains Are Flocking to KS, Emporia State College Research Indicates

A LITTLE more of the "cow college" taint washed down river last week when a research report released by Emporia State college revealed that 19 per cent more valedictorians from Kansas high schools enroll at K-State than at any other college in the state.

Figures taken from a "Report on Post-Graduate Activities of 1955 High School Graduates," show that of the 571 valedictorians and salutatorians who went to college in Kansas, 102 enrolled at K-State. This figure is 19 per cent more than enrolled anywhere else in Kansas. K-State's nearest competitor enrolled 86.

THIS IS a definite indication that the academic quality at K-State is receiving general recognition over the state and is attracting a large number of high ability Kansas high school graduates to the College.

Information for the Emporia State study was submitted by superintendents, principals, and guidance workers in 613 of the 649 public and private high schools which were operating in Kansas during the 1954-55 school year. Of 20,579 seniors who graduated from high school during this period, 19,349 or 94.0 per cent were reported on by school officials. This total coverage is exceptional in a study of this kind.

THE STUDY was undertaken in an attempt to supply basic information to aid in solving the problems of how to cope with the increasing demand for higher education. While many studies have been made on a nationwide basis, they are not too useful to persons immediately concerned with solving the problems taking into account the local situation.

The survey revealed that K-State attracts 15 per cent more students from Kansas than any other college or university in the state.

OF THE 6,591 members of the 1955 high school graduating class that went to college, 1,031 enrolled here. This is 133 more students than the 898 enrolled by our nearest competitor.

The study noted that 40.4 per cent of the high school graduates entered college. Compare this to the often quoted 35 per cent for the national average, and Kansas has well above the average number of students attending college.

IN POLLING the high schools, authors of the survey discovered that the nearness of a college or university played an important role in determining how many high school graduates attended college. Almost one-half of the graduates of schools with more than one college in the community continued their education. The percentage was only slightly lower for communities with only one college.

The average dropped from 49 per cent to 40 per cent if the college was within 10 miles of the community and fell to 34.9 per cent if the college was over 10 but less than 25 miles away.

ACCORDING TO the survey much of this seems to depend on the type of college or university available. Publicly supported institutions evidently have more influence on enrollment of nearby high school graduates than do private schools.

There are examples that are the opposite of this trend, the report said. The high schools in Douglas county which has a state university and a private four-year college, reported that only 35.9 per cent of their graduates enrolled in college in 1955.

In conclusion the survey recommended six steps to help Kansas educational programs.

1. A continuing study of post-graduation activities of Kansas high school seniors.
2. Comparable studies in other states should be made.
3. Encouragement should be provided certain groups of Kansas high graduates who are not attending college in sufficient numbers.
4. Contact should be maintained with capable high school graduates who do not attend college and they should be encouraged to do so.
5. Financial aid for superior students should be expanded.
6. All agencies and individuals who require college-trained people to go into professional and technical vocations should encourage high school graduates to go to college.

THE SURVEY also showed clearly that the potential supply of college-caliber students in Kansas is not being exhausted.

Kansas State, no doubt, will continue to be a main attraction for the top brains from the high school set.—George Vohs.

Thanksgiving Day, Time for Reviewing

By P. A. YOUNG

It is the usual pattern of most people at this time of year to take stock of their blessings and look to the future. To most college students it means a time of getting together with the family and eating a home cooked meal. To most people it means a time of taking stock of the many good things we are able to enjoy.

It might be interesting to look back into the past and compare the times of the Pilgrims to that of Thanksgiving 1956.

As the story goes, the Pilgrims invited the Indians to the Thanksgiving feast because in the new country every race was equal. Every man was considered to be of equal value and deeds of the past were forgotten. A man was measured by what he was worth and not the color of his skin.

The harvest which God thus gave to this pious people (the Pilgrims) caused them to set apart another day for solemn Thanksgiving. This was a written description giving an account of the first Thanksgiving day 335 years ago. This day was set aside by the Pilgrims to acknowledge their bountiful harvest to God.

The national celebration of the year's blessings was first recommended by proclamation issued from the city of New York in 1789 by George Washington. He set aside Thursday, November 26, of that year as a day of Thanksgiving. As a recurring festival it was first recommended by President Abraham Lincoln in 1863 to set the last Thursday in November as the day of Thanksgiving.

The Thanksgiving story tells of a bountiful woods and the great amount of food that was on the table. Although the American people have changed their agriculture methods from the woods to fresh from the store it still reminds many people of the rich natural resources of America. Americans have been eating turkey for Thanksgiving for 335 years but this one symbol is not enough to denote the real meaning of Thanksgiving.

As the Pilgrims sat down to the first Thanksgiving dinner in the new land many of them realized that sons would die in the cause of freedom.

In 1956, Americans must face a troubled world just as their forefathers did at the first Thanksgiving. We must seek the same power the Pilgrims prayed to in these times of world events. Everyone should take stock and see how rich he is blessed.

Student Catalogue Issuance Date Set

The 1957-1958 student catalogue is now off the press, according to E. M. Gerritz, director of admissions and registrar. For the first year the cover is a natural-color reproduction of Anderson hall, he said.

The catalogue is primarily for prospective K-State students. They will be ready for distribution the first week in December. Some 5,000 persons are already on the mailing list, according to Gerritz.

The catalogue contains all curriculums and required courses, information about fees and scholarships, and scenes from everyday college life.

GOING DOWN—Cat halfback Kenny Nesmith, No. 40, grapples as he is being thrown to the ground by Iowa State quarterback Jack Hansen, No. 27. Cat Ralph Pfeifer, No. 24, and Cyclones Gale Gibson, No. 83, Andris Poncius, No. 77, and Frank Powell, No. 56, watch the proceedings.

Former California Player Spanks PCC Footballers

San Francisco (U.P.)—Perry Schwartz, who starred at end for California's 1937 "thunder team" and then the old Brooklyn grid-iron Dodgers, had this bit of advice today for getting West Coast football out of the doldrums:

"Give a player his room, board, books and tuition without making him work at any job. Then maybe we'll be able to put together some squads on a par with the Big Ten."

The amiable, balding Schwartz made his comments as the Pacific Coast conference wrestled with several plans for revising the rules on aid to athletes.

Violation of existing regulations resulted in a summer scandal that left three schools suspended from the Rose Bowl for periods of two to three years.

"This business of saying that an athlete builds character by working while attending college is a lot of baloney," Schwartz continued. "Isn't the education he gets enough of a character-builder?"

Wildcats Prep for Spartans After Clawing I-State, 32-6

By ROGER MYERS
Collegian Sports Editor

"That win over Iowa State Saturday makes the trip to East Lansing next week a lot easier," Bus Mertes said after his Wildcats "flew" to a 32-6 win over the Cyclones. The Cats play Michigan State at East Lansing next Saturday in their season finale.

The win was the first K-State home victory in two years and was his first home ground victory since he took over the head football coaching reins at K-State. The win also helped keep a happy Homecoming spirit alive.

"It feels great to win at home," Mertes said in the glee-filled Wildcat dressing room after the game. "Winning automatically helps a team improve."

The two big factors contributing to the win were K-State's sudden rise as a passing team, and Gene Keady. K-State gained 153 yards passing and only 29 yards on the ground in the first half. The Cats ended up with 174 yards through the air.

"Passing got us out of the hole in the first half," Mertes said. "Last Saturday's game with Marquette gave our passers all the confidence they needed."

Keady, easily the outstanding player in the game, caught three passes for 105 yards and rushed 9 times for 29 yards to account for 134 of K-State's 331 total yards. He also intercepted a Cyclone pass in the third period.

With 13:52 left in the second quarter, Keady took a 28-yard pass from quarterback Dick Corbin on the K-State 45 and went the distance to score the Cats' first touchdown.

Keady caught his second touchdown pass with only 35 seconds left in the first half.

With the ball on Iowa State's 21-yard line, Corbin fired a perfect shot to Keady in the end zone.

"Gene is a fine athlete in several sports," Mertes said, "but he still has some room for improvement. He's got the equipment and temperament to make good."

Keady gave much of the credit for his scoring runs to the tough Wildcat line.

"My blockers had a lot to do with the touchdowns," he said. "The line held up, giving me a good chance to get down field."

"It felt good to win," he said. "I feel a lot better about going to Michigan State now. All of us are improved and our spirit is what kept us in there this season. We didn't let those losses get us down."

Mertes picked out two key plays in the game. The first came in the third quarter when Cyclone end Gale Gibson got a bad pass from center in a punting situation and was thrown for a 25-yard loss back to the Iowa State 32 to stop an Iowa State scoring drive.

The other key play was Keady's touchdown late in the second quarter. To set up the play, Nesmith punted to the Cyclone 47 on a fourth and five situation. Iowa State left halfback Chuck Lattig returned the ball to the K-State 47 where he fumbled.

Cat guard Don Martin, replacing the injured Rudy Bletscher this week, recovered the fumble and started K-State on a four-play touchdown march. Corbin completed a pass to Wilson for 18 yards and on the next play Corbin threw to Keady in the end zone.

K-State line coach Pat Naughton said, "I thought the kids played an aggressive game." We played extremely well except for a few tactical mistakes. I sincerely believe Iowa State had one of the finest lines we've played against all year, both conference and non-conference."

In winning his second Big Seven game of the season, Mertes said that his whole team played an outstanding game and praised the Wildcat backfield in particular.

K-State lumped all its points into two quarters—19 in the second quarter, and 13 in the fourth. The Cats outrushed the Cyclones 157 to 92 yards, proving that they could move the ball on the ground as well as through the air.

However, the story of the game can best be told in the passing statistics. Kansas State completed 6 of 14 aeriels for 174 yards, their highest single-game total of the year. The Cyclones got 24 yards passing on 2 of 12 attempts. The Cats racked up 15 first downs to 9 for the Iowans.

Iowa State scored its first and only touchdown with 7:40 left in the first quarter. The Cyclones took a punt on their 20-yard line and in six plays moved it to the K-State 40-yard line. The Cats committed a pass interference infraction that moved the ball to the Wildcat 12. Then Bob Hardin went over the left side for the touchdown.

The Cats got their first TD on Keady's run-pass play that covered 77 yards. K-State set up its second touchdown after Iowa State had punted to their 40.

A play later, Corbin threw a 31-yard pass to Nesmith on the Iowa State 2-yard line. Ralph Pfeifer advanced the ball to the one, and Nesmith carried for his first touchdown of the afternoon.

K-State got its third score with 35 seconds left in the half on a 21-yard Corbin to Keady pass. Ben Grosse converted and the Cats led 19-6.

In the fourth quarter it was Nesmith for his second TD of the day as he cut off the right side for six yards and the touchdown. The score capped a drive that carried for 13 plays and 52 yards. Keady kicked the extra point to make the score 26-6.

Carrington got K-State's fifth touchdown of the afternoon and his first of the season after five straight carries that netted five yards and a TD. It came with 3:30 left in the game.

On a fourth and inches situation, Carrington took the ball to the Iowa State two-yard line. Four plays later, quarterback Les Krull handed to the driving fullback who went through the right side and scored standing up.

Redskins Snap Giants' 5-Game Winning Streak

Washington's Redskins continued to play a spoilers roll in the National Football league with a 33-7 laocing of Eastern division leading New York Giants. The win ended the New Yorkers' five game winning streak.

The Cleveland Browns allowed Philadelphia only 71 total yards in winning over the Eagles, 16-0. The losers couldn't move the ball across the mid-field stripe.

The Chicago Bears won their seventh game against one loss to remain in a Western division tie with Detroit, as they coasted to a 30-21 victory over Los Angeles.

Detroit held to the tie with Chicago by winning 27-3 over the Baltimore Colts. The Colts could gain only 58 rushing yards for the afternoon.

Pittsburgh's Steelers upset the Eastern division second ranked Chicago Cardinals, 14-7. The loss deprived the Cards of a tie with the front running New York Giants.

PICKING UP A FIRST DOWN, Gene Keady, No. 12, Wildcat halfback, tries to find a way to pick up more ground, as he heads into a swarm of Iowans. Wildcats Ellis Rainsberger, No. 65, and Don Zadnik, No. 80, are also shown. Cyclone Bob Harden, No. 42, follows the play.

Harry Bennetts Wins Grid Poll

Harry Bennetts, FT Jr, won this week's Pigskin Prognostications contest by picking a 33-7 K-State win over Iowa State in the Wildcat Homecoming.

"It certainly is a wonderful feeling to win it," he said. "I gained some satisfaction in my ability to guess what the outcome of a game might be."

Bennetts topped 25 other entrants in the Collegian's football prediction poll. He selected the correct margin, but gave each team one more point than it scored. Final game score was 32-6, K-State.

Dennis Elliott, PrV Fr, was Bennetts' closest competitor. Elliott had the game tabbed, 34-7, K-State.

Each of the 26 entrants picked the Wildcats to win over Iowa State. Score picks ranged from 14-13 to Elliott's 34-7 prediction.

"I was sleeping Saturday, and didn't see the game," Bennett said. "A friend came up to wake me, and told me what the score was. I told him, then, that I'd won the contest."

Bennetts predicted 19 Cat first downs; they accounted for 15. He looked from 273 rushing yards, and the Wildcats got 157. He expected K-State passers to pass for 99 yards; they gained 174.

In explaining his predictions, Bennetts said, "I considered how Iowa State had played before, and how K-State had done. I felt that there would be lots of passing and lots of yardage gained."

Richards May Retire After 1956 Olympics

Melbourne, (U.P.)—The Rev. Bob Richards, the world's top pole vaulter, strolled slowly through the Australian sunshine today with his mind in California and decided that the approaching Olympics probably would be the end of his athletic career.

His thoughts were back in La Verne, Calif., with his wife and three children — eight-year-old Carolee Ann, six-year-old Bobby, Jr., and four-year-old Paul David.

"I miss them so much, I don't know what to do," said the second man ever to vault 15 feet, a height he has cleared 103 times. "I've sacrificed my schooling, my profession and my family for athletics. It's time to step down."

"I'd like to defend the Olympic championship," said Richards, who set the record of 14 feet, 11 1/4 inches in 1952. "I'd naturally like to compete at Rome in 1960, but you can't go on forever and then, too, there's those other things to be considered."

Richards' conscience bothers him because of the great deal of time he has given to athletics.

"I guess I've put in 10,000 hours training in the last 10 years. I've been at the top for a decade and I've spent too much time traveling to meets in more than 30 countries in the last five years," he said.

The vaulting parson plans to seek his doctor's degree at either Harvard or Duke.

"I've got to catch up on my education, get back to my profession—and spend my time with my family," he nodded. "So this looks like the end of the competitive road for me."

Olympic Coaches Predict U.S. Cage, Swim Wins

By UNITED PRESS

Melbourne—American coaches confidently predicted victory in both basketball and swimming today as the official program of the 1956 Olympic games got under way with the solemn opening of the 52nd meeting of the International Olympic committee.

Blaring trumpets and formal speeches opened the IOC conclave with 2,000 officials present in Melbourne town hall, although actual competition in the games does not begin for three more days.

The officials heard Avery Brundage of the United States call on "the politicians of the world" to follow the "good example" of Olympic fair play and sportsmanship so that "there will no longer be any necessity for wars."

Brundage, who many months ago aroused Australian anger by criticizing plans for the games, predicted great success for the Olympiad because he has found out that "Australians are different — while they do insist on doing things their own peculiar way, when they say a thing will be done, they mean it."

The meeting was officially opened by Gen. Sir Dallas Brooks, governor of the state of Victoria and Queen Elizabeth's personal representative at the games, who said that Australia feels it has "earned" the right to conduct the Olympics because "no country has been keener in supporting the Olympic ideal than Australia."

Meanwhile, U.S. basketball coach Gerry Tucker of Bartlesville, Okla., and swimming coach Bob Muir of Williams college summed up their squads' chances in the coming competition very optimistically.

Tucker, who scouted the highly-touted Russian team in a scrimmage against a local Aussie team, said, "I still think we should win the Olympics rather handily."

The Phillips Oilers coach sized the Russians up as a "fast-breaking team" that "handles the ball well and is in amazingly fine condition."

He added that the Soviets' seven-foot, two-inch giant, Yajou, "doesn't move very well" and predicted that "Canada also may beat the Russian team."

"Mrs. Pat McCormick should retain both the high and low board crowns in women's diving, with Gary Tobian taking the men's platform title and Don Harper tops in the springboard event," Muir said.

Advance Soviet Troop Units To Hungary in New Buildup

by Lance Gilmore

Budapest, Nov. 19—Advance units of an additional 200,000 Soviet troops streamed into Hungary where rebellious strikers indicated they would defy today's back-to-work ultimatum.

The vast buildup of Russian forces in Hungary was disclosed by sources close to the puppet Janos Kadar regime, two weeks after Soviet armed might deposed Imre Nagy's free government.

But since then, Kadar has failed to win the support of the Hungarian people. The strike front has held firm in spite of a long series of promises and concessions from him. And farmers were reported refusing to turn over produce to the Communists.

(Reports in Vienna said armed resistance also continued. A refugee Hungarian army officer said partisan bands battled Russian troops in the hills northeast of Budapest and in the vast Bakony forests to the southwest of the Hungarian capital.)

The government sources quoted Maj. Gen. K. Grebennyik, Soviet commander in Budapest, as saying 20 Soviet infantry divisions—an estimated 200,000 men—are on the way. They said Soviet troop trains are crossing the border at Zahony on the Hungarian-Soviet frontier in a steady stream.

Soviet armored forces of between 13 to 15 divisions, with 200,000 troops and 4,500 tanks, already are in Hungary.

The Soviet consolidation was taken here as a clear indication the Russians are in Hungary to stay.

Stern Warning by Dag

London, Nov. 19—Dag Hammarskjold returned today to New York preceded by an Egyptian warning that unless hostile troops leave Egypt at once—perhaps this week—the world will face a "great catastrophe."

The United Nations Secretary General spent two days in Cairo conferring with President Gamal Abdel Nasser and Egyptian Foreign Minister Mahmoud Fawzi on the critical Mideast situation. He will report directly to the U.N. General Assembly.

Hammarskjold said Egypt had accepted U.N. help in clearing the Suez canal of the 49 sunken ships blocking the waterway, but he had little else to say about his delicate mission which may determine the immediate future of events in the explosive Mideast.

Walkout on Khrushchev

Moscow, Nov. 19—Western envoys walked out on Communist party leader Nikita S. Khrushchev

last night for the second time in two days when he gave them another tongue lashing and said God would be on the Communist side if he believed in God.

"We will bury you," Khrushchev told the Western diplomats at a reception at the Polish embassy to mark the signing of a Soviet-Polish agreement giving Poland the right to pursue an independent course of Communism.

"If you do not like us," the vodka-drinking Khrushchev told the American, British, and other envoys, "do not accept our invitations, and do not invite us to you."

A Message from

Claude Ross

M.E., Kansas State

to K-STATE GRADUATING ENGINEERS

"More personal recognition and more chance for advancement makes Emerson Electric an ideal place for a young engineer to build a brilliant career."

"The advantages of working for a medium sized company are real. It may be trite to speak of getting lost in the shuffle of giant organizations . . . but it happens. I know from my own experience that a man has a strong feeling of belonging here at Emerson . . . a quality essential to a satisfying job. Here your work is a direct contribution to the team goals of your organization and is recognized as such. Moreover, our projects are distinctly non-routine, varied, and highly interesting. And the tangible rewards are in the above-average class.

"Emerson's planned expansion program is another very definite reason why a young engineer should be interested in Emerson. If he gets in on the ground floor now, he will enjoy unusual opportunities for fast advancement in responsibility, recognition, and compensation. Emerson is definitely a place where a man can make his mark."

Our vast expansion program, the most ambitious in our 66 year history, means one thing for the young engineer who comes in now . . . opportunity! Opportunity to grow with technology that's making tomorrow today. Opportunity to advance quickly into a fast moving series of more and more responsible positions with commensurably increasing rewards. Opportunity to profit from the cooperation of small teams of experts. Opportunity to move ahead without the constriction of clogged up top levels—such as you would encounter in companies which have already achieved their full growth.

Whatever your preferred field of engineering specialization (or generalization), there is a gateway to career progress waiting for you at Emerson. Commercially, since 1890, Emerson has been a leading producer of fans, motors, air conditioners, welders and power tools. The Electronics and Avionics Division, a leader nationally since 1940, designs, develops, and manufactures active defense systems for bombers, supersonic air frames, mortar locators, missiles and rockets like the Honest John.

You owe it to yourself to find out how you can get in on the ground floor of this fast growing, medium sized company. Meet Emerson's engineering representatives and talk over your career plans with them. Firm job offers can be made. If it's impossible for you to make a date, be sure to write A. L. Depke, Technical Placement Supervisor, for full details.

Alpha Chi's, Delta Tau's, Lambda Chi's Win Prizes

KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN
Monday, November 19, 1956-8

Alpha Chi Omega sorority, Delta Tau Delta fraternity, and Lambda Chi Alpha fraternity took top honors in house and float homecoming decoration awards Saturday morning.

The Alpha Chi Omega's won first place in the house decorations by depicting a gay-nineties scene with the theme, "There'll Be a Hot Time in the Old Town Tonight (After We Scorch the Cyclones)."

Their theme was illustrated by an old-fashioned parlor, with a group of people dressed in the current fashion of that era gathered around a piano singing "There'll Be a Hot Time in the Old Town Tonight." On the other side of the set was a girl who had just been scorched by a pot-bellied stove.

Delta Tau Delta's decorations featured model cars of different eras in automobile history which traveled "Along the Hiway of Happy Memories" around a rotating globe and through the K-State campus past Anderson and Fairchild halls.

Lambda Chi Alpha topped other entries in the homecoming parade with a float depicting a Roman galley sailing in "Just a Breeze." It was the third consecutive year the Lambda Chi's had won the first place award for their homecoming float.

The Lambda Chi's have won first place in the float awards four out of the last five years. Last year they won with the "Trojan Horse," and in 1954, they won homecoming float decorations with "Rockaway Iowa."

Oarsmen "rowed" the Lambda Chi float through the entire parade. "Not Enough Blow; Row, Cat, Row" was the slogan written on "waves" fastened to the ends of the oars.

The boat, "Victory II," was named to signify the coming Wildcat victory Saturday afternoon against Iowa State in Memorial Stadium.

Chi Omega was second in the house decorations competition, sorority division.

Candy canes, lollipops, and gum drops carried out the theme, "We'll Lick 'Em, By Gum!"

Second place in the fraternity division was won by Sigma Alpha Epsilon with the theme, "A Little Rain Stills a Big Wind."

The theme was illustrated by a cyclone in a stadium which collapsed when a wildcat dumped water on it from above.

Delta Sigma Phi fraternity placed second in the float decorations with the theme "Kids Play." A large wildcat was mashing the wind out of the cyclone illustrating that it was a simple matter for K-State to defeat the cyclones.

Kappa Sigma won third place in the fraternity division. The theme, "I Came, I Saw, I Conquered" was depicted by a giant wildcat dressed like a Roman warrior who jabbed at fallen Iowa State players.

The third place float was won by the Chaparajos club who used the theme, "He died with his cleats on." Everyone was dressed in black and was riding horses. A team of horses pulled a wagon which carried a dead cyclone football player.

Themes for the 1956 Homecoming house decorations were based on famous proverbs or slogans.

Last year Delta Delta Delta and Beta Theta Pi won first place with their house decorations in the sorority and fraternity divisions with Lambda Chi Alpha winning the float division.

THE K-CLUB float in the Saturday morning parade failed to place, however, it expressed the sentiment of many on-lookers.

Council Votes To Send $200 For Hungarian Student Aid

Kansas State will send $200 to the World University service for relief of Hungarian students as a result of action taken at Student Council meeting November 19.

The Council, acting on a motion by Jerry Holliday, ArE Soph, decided to use two-thirds of the $300 reserve or emergency portion of the United Fund drive receipts. The decision resulted from a letter from WUS requesting aid for students who have been "fighting for freedom in Hungary."

The Council, meeting at Dean Wunderlich's home, also passed a motion by Neil Scott designed to make more General Catalogs available to students. The motion reads "that the Council recommend to Dean Pugsley that the next printing of the General Catalog (1958) be of sufficient number so that each new student will receive a copy free of charge and any upper class student may receive a copy at a nominal charge of 50 cents per copy."

The Council will recommend to the traffic control board that the board consider erecting a stop sign at the intersection just east of the milling and feed wing of Waters hall, that the "Stop of Pedestrians" sign west of the engineering building be more strictly enforced, and that the board study the pedestrian traffic situation at the intersections of Manhattan and Bluemont, Manhattan and Vattier, and Anderson and Mid-Campus drive.

Holliday, also chairman of the newly-established children's safety committee, announced the appointment of four representatives to the temporary committee. Named to the group were Walt Kerr, West Campus courts; Robert Blaik, Hilltop courts; Tom Johnson, Hilltop courts; and Darrell Simpson, Elliot courts.

He also reported that the campus industry investigating committee had studied the possibility of a student weaving industry and that faculty members consulted thought the idea very feasible. Holliday discussed in detail how the industry might function and reported that progress was being made toward making the industry a reality.

Jack VanHorn, Ag Jr, named four steps that the Kansas State university committee was making toward investigating a possible name change: 1-to find the definite procedure that would have to be taken to change to KSU; 2-to determine alumni opinion of a name change; 3-to write to other schools that have made similar changes to find what problems they encountered; and 4-after information has been compiled, to publish non-partisan stories through the Collegian so that students might be informed of both sides of the issue to follow with a poll of student body opinion.

Writer Will Be Featured At Assembly on Friday

Louis Untermeyer, poet, biographer, essayist, literary critic, and anthologist, will speak at an all-College assembly Friday at 9:30 a.m.

Untermeyer is heralded as one of America's best known and most creative anthologists. He has "introduced more poets to readers and more readers to poetry, than any other American," according to advance publicity releases.

Untermeyer's latest book is "Makers of the Modern World," published in 1955, in which he recounts the lives of writers, scientists, and other cultural leaders.

Others of his 50 volumes include: "A Treasury of Great Poems," "A Treasury of Laughter," "Selected Poems and Parodies," and "The Book of Living Verse."

Another of his books, "Modern American and British Poetry," has been adopted by many American colleges and universities.

Untermeyer was born and reared in New York, and, he says, "miseducated" there. He worked his way up from office boy, to salesman, to manager in a New Jersey jewelry manufacturing plant before he was 37.

After traveling abroad, Untermeyer left business to devote all his time to writing. He now lives in Newtown, Conn.

At the beginning of World War II, he had just completed

"A Treasury of Great Poems," and he joined the office of war information. He served as publications editor and wrote numerous radio programs for foreign broadcast.

In 1944, he helped edit armed services editions, a non-profit organization which provided the army and navy with 40 different books each month of the war.

Recently he was editor of the Decca records cultural program.

Poet Amy Lowell called him "the most versatile genius in America." Helen Grace Carlisle

New Union Furnishings and Carpets Added to Main Lobby and Corridor

PEACE FOR TIRED TOES seems to be a welcome addition to the Union, since new rugs and furniture arrived yesterday. The toes belong to Linda Bair, HEA Jr, and La Rue Fikan, TxC Jr.

Various groupings of furniture and new carpeting delivered yesterday to the Student Union are now being arranged to further accommodate students, according to Loren V. Kottner, Union director.

Couches, chairs, tables, and foot stools are being grouped in the main floor lobby and the second floor corridor. Additional furniture is being added to the browsing library, art lounge, main lounge, and music rooms.

Carpets have been laid in the main lounge, browsing library, and music rooms. This additional furniture and carpeting, a part of the original interior design plan, was purchased from the Edward A. Roffman Associates, Inc. company of New York City, N.Y.

said that he was "the liveliest personality" that she has ever known.

Untermeyer is to speak at a faculty dinner Friday at 6 p.m. in the Union's west ballroom.

Y-Mart Sale Will Feature Foreign Gifts

Candy made from Kansas wheat, hand carved music boxes from Switzerland, stationery from China, and hand-carved ivory figurines and jewelry from India are among the items which the annual Y-Mart is offering to spice up student Christmas lists tomorrow from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. in Rec center.

The Y-Mart, an International bazaar, is a good chance for students to buy unusual Christmas gifts or items for themselves, according to Miss Helen Bocker, YWCA director.

Ten booths will each feature articles from a different country or articles of the same type in general. A new booth this year will be a Kansas booth, featuring specialties made in Kansas.

Other booths will feature items made in Switzerland, India, Japan, and China, and items made of brass, crystal, and pottery, woven handicraft, jewelry, and miscellaneous American products.

Home made candies, cookies, cakes, and nut breads will be sold at the food booth. Coffee and donuts will be sold all day and hot dogs and sandwiches will be offered during the noon hour.

Many Organizations Fail To File Activities Report

TWENTY-FIVE campus organizations have failed as yet to comply with regulations set forth in the Student Governing association constitution concerning reports to be filed with the student activities board in the Union.

Topping the list of these organizations are the Religious Coordinating council, Young Democrats, Whi-Purs, Interfraternity council, Home Ec Nursing club, Home Economics council, Chancery club, Cheerleaders, Arnold Air society, Alpha Phi Omega, and the Veterans organization.

OTHER organizations of importance on the campus who have failed to file reports are Alpha Delta Theta, American Chemical society, Canterbury club, Clinic club, College Baptist Student fellowship, Gamma Sigma Delta, Kansas State Engineers, Pi Epsilon Delta, Sigma Xi, Tau Sigma Delta, Theta Sigma Phi, United Presbyterian Youth fellowship, and the Wildcat Fencing club.

When such leading campus organizations as some of the ones mentioned above fail to file a report of their activities, then their purpose and leadership are open to doubt.

THE ORIGINAL deadline for these reports to be filed was October 15. When few organizations responded, the Union activities center reset the deadline to November 20, more than a month later. Since that time all of the above organizations have lost their scheduling privileges on the campus. They cannot schedule a meeting in any building on the campus until the report is filed.

A final deadline has now been set at December 22. If the organizations have not filed their reports by then, they will cease to be organizations unless they can strum up enough courage to face the activities board and ask for reinstatement.

ALONG WITH the revoking of the privilege of being a campus organization goes the return of any money that might have been allotted the organization by the apportionment board.

Since the organizations, all those who failed to report by October 15, evidently feel that the penalty for not filing is not too severe, perhaps the activities board could work up something a little stiffer like suspension for a year or even six months or a fine.

Because the organizations above are not allowed to meet or schedule a meeting on campus, this brings up a few juicy questions that need answering.

THE STUDENT Governing association filed its report yesterday afternoon. Under its judicial branch are the Tribunal and traffic control board. Could these organizations legally meet and are the projects they might have voted on and put into effect legal, during the period from November 20 to yesterday? The reason I raise this question is that the Traffic Control board met on campus yesterday before the SGA report was filed.

Also, if the reports aren't filed, can the cheerleaders legally meet in the Fieldhouse Saturday night and lead cheers for a K-State varsity basketball victory over Houston? And how about tonight at the Frosh-Varsity game? I trust that these events are regularly scheduled campus events for the cheerleaders.

And should the Whi-Purs, freshman women's pep club, be allowed to meet and occupy the pep club's reserved seats at the game Saturday?—George Vohs

Navy Drydocked While AF Enjoys Boating at Texas U

By Mary Beckmeyer

"RUB-A-DUB-DUB, Navy has no tub, but the AFROTC has," according to the Daily Texan. It's not always the navy that goes near the water. The University air force ROTC has a 14-foot sportcraft outboard motor boat, the seafaring naval ROTC doesn't even have a little rowboat.

The boat was bought from the local unit's financial fund and is used by detachment personnel.

"Air Force ROTC students are allowed to sail the boat as our guests," said Lt. Ross Selvaggi, assistant professor of air science.

THE WHITE DUCKS which traditionally swim in the Theta pond on the Oklahoma A&M campus have turned a grimy, oily black. A brand new oiling job on a campus parking lot was soaked by rains and the water floated some of the unsettled black material across a dormitory lawn and into the pond, leaving an asphalt trail all the way.

Most of the "messy goo" has been removed from the campus, thanks to the efforts of the Stillwater fire department, the Daily O'Collegian reports, but the ducks are still suffering and no one seems to know just how to remove oil from duck feathers.

AN ASSOCIATED PRESS release in the Michigan Daily reports that romance is strongly discouraged at universities in Red China. An observer from Tokyo university said he was told on a visit the official view is that student marriages "end with undesirable results." The University of Michigan paper headline read: "Et Tu, 'U'?"

AT OHIO STATE university, 111 student organizations were slapped with a social probation recently for not attending a meeting required by the social board. Just another case of a social board issuing an unsociable, "social probation." Such is society.

THE OKLAHOMA DAILY reports that "Our state collegiate cousins, the Aggies, are bragging disgracefully as they claim 'at least . . . one field in which we bet we have the University of Oklahoma beaten!'" Their campus has become overrun with queens and a check showed the Aggies have chosen royalty faster than a queen a week so far this year. OU, they feel, can't beat these statistics. "Alarmed, we (OU) suggest campaigning start immediately here on a Queen-a-day plan."

WHEN HAROLD POSEY, a University of Texas student, met a 3½-foot alligator in front of a classroom, it was hard to "figger" who was the more frightened.

But since Posey recovered his senses first and called for help, the alligator was captured and confined to the Pi Kappa Alpha fraternity house. It was soon discovered that the alligator is a mascot of the Phi Sigma Kappa fraternity.

It had escaped from its temporary home, a sunken bathtub with a wire fence around it Sunday morning. Members of the fraternity reported that they have fixed the pen so the alligator cannot escape again.

See you later alligator.

AT THE University of Alabama, the Crimson and White has a regular society column named "At the Pool." Very fittingly, pinnings are grouped under a subdivision titled "wading." Engagements are listed under "swimming," and newlyweds are reported under a heading of "drowning."

Record of 21 Consecutive All-American Ratings Is Big Worry Of This Week's Personality, Royal Purple Editor Gaye Fryer

By CAROL SITZ

BEING EDITOR of the 1957 Royal Purple is just one of the many activities of Gaye Fryer, HEJ Sr, who is the Collegian's featured personality for this week.

"The editor of the Royal Purple really has worries," exclaimed Gaye. "And when I say worries, I mean worries—especially with an unbroken string of 21 all-American awards behind previous Royal Purples.

"As editor, it's your year book, and your ideas that go into it. We use last year's Royal Purple as a guide, but of course some changes are made.

"I DO ALL the page lay-outs (placing of pictures and copy on each page) and editing of the copy that goes into the yearbook.

"A lot of my work consists of just overseeing the work of members of the Royal Purple staff. My two associate editors—Royanne McMullen, TJ Jr, and Marcia Boyd, TJ Soph—keep track of all the photographs and copy that will go in the Royal Purple, so I don't have to worry about that.

"AND OF COURSE, no one working on the Royal Purple could get along without the help of 'Chief.' (Prof. C. J. Medlin, faculty adviser for the Royal Purple.)

"This year the Royal Purple will have 496 pages. That's about a 10 per cent increase in the number of pages over last year's. Each year our yearbook appropriations increase or decrease with the student enrollment. The number of pages in each year's Royal Purple increases or decreases in the same manner.

"THERE WON'T BE any radical change in this year's Royal Purple," assured Gaye.

"This year's Royal Purple queen and her three attendants will be chosen by a famous Hollywood personality. The judge's name will be announced soon. The names of the queen and her three attendants will be disclosed at a special dance, to be held sometime early next year," Gaye said.

ACTING AS president of the K-State Panhellenic council is another of Gaye's many duties. Panhellenic council is made up of two members from each sorority.

An important function of the K-State Panhellenic council is that sororities can bring their problems and questions to be worked out or answered by the group.

GAYE'S ACTIVITIES do not stop with being editor of the Royal Purple and president of Panhellenic council. She also is reporter for Mortar Board, senior women's honorary; vice-president of Theta Sigma Phi, women's journalism honorary; a member of Omicron Nu, home economics honorary; and recording secretary for Alpha Delta Pi social sorority.

Last year some of Gaye's activities included being associate editor of the 1956 Royal Purple; vice-president of Panhellenic council; reporter for Chimes, junior women's honorary; a member of the home economics council; a member of the Board of Student Publications, and rush chairman of Alpha Delta Pi.

Massing of Syrian Troops Reported on Lebanon Border

By LANCE GILMORE

London, Nov. 28—Semi-official Turkish sources said today in Ankara that Syria was massing troops on the border of Lebanon in another threat to peace in the troubled Middle East.

The sources said Syria, backed by a flow of arms and ammunition from the Soviet Union, hoped to force its tiny neighbor into the Communist orbit.

In Beirut, the Lebanese parliament urged veteran UN diplomat Dr. Charles Lek to rush to New York and do his best to salvage the peace in the Mideast and prevent the area from becoming another Korea.

Turkey and Israel were both increasingly concerned with the reported buildup of Syrian armed strength. Israeli sources reported Turkey had itself moved 35,000 troops to the Syrian frontier, including an infantry brigade and an armored battalion.

An Israeli army spokesman announced last night Syrian troops opened automatic fire at noon yesterday on a public works engineer near Lake Huleh, the first border incident in weeks.

Iraq, a partner in the Baghdad pact with Turkey, already has warned Syria it will take any action necessary to protect itself against threats to its independence.

Albanian Terror Wave

Belgrade, Yugoslavia, Nov. 28—The Communist newspaper Borba today reported a wave of terror and mass arrests in Communist Albania. It said many persons were fleeing to the hills with rifles.

The newspaper's special correspondent filed a dispatch from Tirana saying secret police were sending many persons to concentration camps.

This was the first report of more trouble in Albania which is run by Stalinist Premier Enver Hoxha, a strong critic of Yugoslavia's Marshal Tito.

(Reports reaching the West a few weeks ago said Albanian workers struck at a number of government-operated mines and factories in protest against harsh treatment.)

The newspaper said many persons were moving into the hills with rifles "from which they traditionally seldom part." It reported most of them were from northern Albania where the population is "quite hostile to the Hoxha regime."

Borba reported economic conditions "desperate" in the north and said many persons were starving. But it said no Albanian dared show the slightest sympathy toward Tito for fear of arrest and deportation to a concentration camp.

Collegiates Battling On

Budapest, Nov. 28—More than 1,500 Hungarian college students are waging guerrilla warfare against the Russians with two 85 millimeter anti-tank guns they captured by getting Soviet soldiers drunk.

Sources in contact with the young Hungarians say the students of Sarospatak college have plenty of food, small arms and ammunition, a few shells for the anti-tank guns, and the protection of wild and broken country. The sources said the students can hold out indefinitely.

The students have rejected numerous Soviet appeals to surrender. They control the area near the Soviet border so thoroughly that Russian units can use only the main roads—and only in daylight.

Sarospatak college is near Satoraljaújhely, a twin city split by a river which divides Hungary from Russia's Caratho-Ukraine. It is a protestant school which specializes in the study of the English language, Anglo-American history, and related subjects.

Another 'Titoists' Arrest

Vienna, Nov. 28—Soviet-sponsored Premier Janos Kadar, backing up his "tough line" policy, today ordered the arrest of a prominent Hungarian Titoist.

Reliable sources said Andras Szandor, a writer and leader of the intellectual "Petoefi" club, had been detained by the Communist regime.

Szandor and Miklos Gimes, a journalist and recognized Titoist, were denounced by Kadar as representative of the "criminal and counter-revolutionaries" he warned would be hunted down and put on trial.

Hungarian strike leaders formally protested yesterday against the "big stick" policy adopted by Kadar. The council sent a copy of their protest to Kadar.

The protest said Kadar's speech "did not serve the interest of the Hungarian people and hindered a peaceful solution."

WEATHER

A fresh surge of cold Canadian air swept over the border into the northern great plains early today, while southerly winds warmed the eastern half of the nation.
Northwesterly winds, averaging 25-35 miles per hour, were pushing the new cold wave over the Dakotas and into northwestern Minnesota. The frigid air was to spread south and eastward into the upper Great Lakes and so far south as Missouri and northern Oklahoma during the day. Snow flurries accompanied the chilly air.

Cats Give Good Account But Lose Season Finale

Kansas State wrapped up the 1956 grid season at Michigan State last Saturday losing 38-17 to a strong Spartan team that had rolled over Indiana (53-0), Notre Dame (47-14) and Wisconsin (33-0).

While the loss left the Wildcats with a 3-7 season record, and came after K-State, leading 3-0 into the second quarter, had hopes of scoring the season's biggest upset, it left Coach Bus Mertes seeing the brighter side.

"Consider that with one exception we scored more points against Michigan State than any other team has in the past two seasons," he suggested. "Illinois beat the Spartans, 20-13, but no one else has got more than 14 points on them in two years."

Mertes pointed up the fact that the Cats scored 15 points or more in each of their last seven games, and developed a workable passing game in the last three.

But one of the high points of the entire year, the K-State coach said, was Saturday's tussle with Michigan State.

"Although we made mistakes and allowed Michigan State to score two easy touchdowns in the third quarter, our men never lost their poise. If they had, we might have been routed."

The Wildcats gained 121 yards rushing and 86 passing against the Spartans, and scored by passing for the fourth game in succession. Dick Corbin, junior quarterback, completed 7 of 14 throws against Michigan State.

"Looking at the season as a whole, the coaching staff has had many fine moments in connection with the Wildcat squad," Mertes summed up.

Soviets Win 4 Gold Medals To Outshine U.S. Olympiads

Melbourne, (U.P.)—Russia won four gold medals in the Olympics today, outshining the United States for the first time since the start of the 1956 games.

Thane Baker, former K-State dash great, finished second in the 100 meter dash and second in the 200 meter dash in Tuesday's games.

Vladimir Kuts, a hardy, 29-year-old Ukrainian naval officer, became the second double winner this year when he ran the 5,000-meter run in record time.

He won the 10,000-meter event last Friday.

Hurdler Lee Calhoun of Gary, Ind., and shotputter Parry O'Brien of Santa Monica, Calif., provided the United States with two more gold medals, swelling the American total to 18. Both Calhoun and O'Brien set new Olympic records in winning their specialties.

The Soviets' biggest day thus far earned them a total of 64 points which bit slightly into the U.S. lead in the unofficial team standings.

The United States, which scored 44 points in today's events, led the Russians in the team race, 262 points to 214, after five full days of competition.

This was Kuts' day, however, as he beat the world's best distance runners in the 5,000-meter run with an Olympic record clocking of 13 minutes, 39.6 seconds. He thus bettered the old Olympic mark of 14:06 set by Czechoslovakia's Emil Zatopek, who was a triple winner in the 1952 games.

Calhoun came home first in the 110-meter high hurdles at the head of the first three places. He ran the event in an Olympic record 13.5 seconds, barely beating Jack Davis of Glendale, Calif., in a photo finish.

Davis, also a second-place finisher in this event in 1952, was clocked in the same time and both will receive credit for a new Olympic mark.

O'Brien, the world record-holder in the shot put, and Bill Nieder of Lawrence, Kan., finished 1-2 in their specialty, but U.S. hopes for a sweep of the three medals was upset when Ken Bantum of New York could finish only fourth. O'Brien's toss of 60 feet, 11 inches, broke his own Olympic standard.

No Illegal Recruiting, Sooner Mentor Claims

Norman, Okla., Nov. 28—(U.P.)—Coach Bud Wilkinson maintained today that the University of Oklahoma is not out to recruit any Texas high school grid talent until after graduation.

Commenting on a critical report appearing in the Dallas Times-Herald, the Oklahoma mentor said he got a great deal of information from Oklahoma fans in Texas about football players in their local high schools.

He said questionnaires are usually sent to such players, but if they are not high school seniors they are not approached further.

Times-Herald Sports Director Jere Hayes said Oklahoma had been contacting Grand Prairie high school players prior to the end of the season and that one of them is still a junior. Wilkinson made this reply:

"In response to a written request from an Oklahoma follower, one letter was written to each (in Grand Prairie).

We get a great deal of information from our fans and followers in many Texas cities about their local high school players. When we do, we usually send out questionnaires.

"If the questionnaire reveals that the boy is an underclassman, we drop the matter as far as that boy is concerned. If he is a senior, we wait until the football season ends and then write him and his principal, asking permission to see him later."

KS Ag Mag Wins In Four Divisions At Chicago Contest

By winning three seconds and a fourth place award, the Kansas Agricultural Student was the only magazine in the nation to place in all divisions judged at the Agricultural College Magazines association in Chicago, November 23 and 24.

The K-State magazine placed second for general excellence, second for presentation of technical material, second for the best cover, and fourth for articles of interest to women.

Lowell Brandner, agricultural editor, said, "It was a remarkable group of winnings by the K-State students because they work almost entirely without faculty supervision and they are one of the smallest staffs in the nation."

Clayton Herman, editor, said the high standing of the magazine was in part due to the college press and "the excellent job of printing they do."

A Message from

Claude Ross

M.E., Kansas State

to K-STATE GRADUATING ENGINEERS

"More personal recognition and more chance for advancement makes Emerson Electric an ideal place for a young engineer to build a brilliant career."

"The advantages of working for a medium sized company are real. It may be trite to speak of getting lost in the shuffle of giant organizations . . . but it happens. I know from my own experience that a man has a strong feeling of belonging here at Emerson . . . a quality essential to a satisfying job. Here your work is a direct contribution to the team goals of your organization and is recognized as such. Moreover, our projects are distinctly non-routine, varied, and highly interesting. And the tangible rewards are in the above-average class.

"Emerson's planned expansion program is another very definite reason why a young engineer should be interested in Emerson. If he gets in on the ground floor now, he will enjoy unusual opportunities for fast advancement in responsibility, recognition, and compensation. Emerson is definitely a place where a man can make his mark."

Our vast expansion program, the most ambitious in our 66 year history, means one thing for the young engineer who comes in now . . . opportunity! Opportunity to grow with technology that's making tomorrow today. Opportunity to advance quickly into a fast moving series of more and more responsible positions with commensurably increasing rewards. Opportunity to profit from the cooperation of small teams of experts. Opportunity to move ahead without the constriction of clogged up top levels—such as you would encounter in companies which have already achieved their full growth.

Whatever your preferred field of engineering specialization (or generalization), there is a gateway to career progress waiting for you at Emerson. Commercially, since 1890, Emerson has been a leading producer of fans, motors, air conditioners, welders and power tools. The Electronics and Avionics Division, a leader nationally since 1940, designs, develops, and manufactures active defense systems for bombers, supersonic air frames, mortar locators, missiles and rockets like the Honest John.

You owe it to yourself to find out how you can get in on the ground floor of this fast growing, medium sized company. Meet Emerson's engineering representatives and talk over your career plans with them. Firm job offers can be made. If it's impossible for you to make a date, be sure to write A. L. Depke, Technical Placement Supervisor, for full details.

Seniors may pre-enroll on December 3, 4, and 5 from 1 p.m. to 4 p.m. Pre-enrollment for juniors will be December 6, 7, and 10, and any student may enroll from December 11 to 21. Classification will be as of August 1956.

Students must see their advisor and receive a signed proof ticket before going through the enrollment procedure in Anderson hall. Anyone who does not know the name of his advisor can obtain this information from the dean's office of his school.

Students who had failing grades at mid-semester will not be allowed to pre-enroll.

"Fees may be paid at the time of enrollment, but do not have to be paid until January 25, 1957. However, the student who pre-enrolls and pays his fees by January 25 will not have to return to the campus till January 31, the beginning of the second semester," said Gerritz.

The class cards of those who pre-enroll but do not pay their fees by January 25 will be returned for use by other students.

Directions to students and faculty for the complete pre-enrollment procedure are included on the inside cover of the 1956-57 second semester line schedule which will be on sale Friday at the information desk of the union, the post office in Anderson hall, and the hall of Anderson.

Joint Testing Program

KU, K-State Combine Tests for Scholarships

A joint scholarship testing program has been adopted by Kansas State and Kansas university, according to Max Milbourn, public service director.

"The schools plan to cooperate in selecting candidates for the Henry J. Putnam scholarship at K-State and the Summerfield and Elizabeth M. Watkins scholarships at KU," Milbourn said.

Charles Jacot, secretary of the K-State scholarship committee, said that the program was proposed several months ago, and that officials of both institutions believe it is worthwhile.

According to Jacot, this program will save high school applicants the trouble of taking three separate tests, all of which are similar.

"Officials of both institutions see advantages to testing at the same time and locations, using the same test materials," he said.

"Each institution will be provided with data needed to evaluate the academic aptitude of candidates for the scholarships at their schools," he added.

The joint testing program will be conducted at 9 of 10 centers throughout the state, February 18 and 19. Testing places will be announced later.

"To be eligible to take the tests, a student must rank in the upper five per cent of his graduation class. He also must be nominated by his high school principal as a person worthy of consideration for a scholarship," Jacot said.

"Applicants who do not pass these tests will be considered for other K-State or KU scholarships," he added.

Scholarship winners will be announced next spring. They may renew their scholarships throughout their undergraduate years in college.

Spencer Martin, director of the office of aids and awards at KU and Mr. Jacot are in charge of the joint testing program.

The counseling testing bureaus of the two schools will handle the actual administration of the preliminary testing in February.

Nomination blanks and information about the scholarships are being mailed to Kansas high schools this week, Jacot said.

High School Heads To Talk with Frosh

K-State freshman will meet with their high school principals December 5 at 11 a.m., according to E. M. Gerritz, director of admissions and registrar.

This is the fifth annual conference of freshmen students and high school principals on the transition from high school to college. Problems resulting from the change, and possible solutions will be discussed.

Those who wish to attend the conference will be excused from 11 a.m. classes.

Freshmen from participating schools have been sent a questionnaire which must be completed and returned to the dean of students office by Saturday, December 1. All freshmen who graduated from these schools are encouraged to attend:

U.S. a Country of Plenty, Prosperity to Graduate Student

By JIM BELL

"MY FIRST impression of the United States was that the people had so much plenty and prosperity. After a couple of weeks stay, I was really surprised to find they worked so hard to earn it," Theophilus Chellappa, Hrt Gr, from India, said.

Chellappa represents a small minority group in India. He is a Christian. Two per cent of India's total population of 30 million is Christian, he said.

The Right Reverend David Chellappa, his brother, is the first Indian bishop of the United Church of South India. Another brother is the chief medical officer of the American mission hospitals in South India.

Chellappa came to the United States for the first time in 1956. He hopes to be graduated with a master's degree in horticulture this spring.

He is vice-president of the Graduate Students' association and program chairman for the Cosmopolitan club on campus.

AT HIS HOME in the state of Hyderabad, Chellappa is a joint-secretary of the Agri-Horticultural society of Hyderabad. He is employed as the Fruit Development officer in Hyderabad. At the present time, he is on leave for higher studies from his job.

Chellappa said that he found K-State to be a friendly school—he commented that he thought the trend among foreign students was toward smaller, more friendly schools as compared with schools near the 20,000 enrollment bracket.

CHELLAPPA had not attended school for 14 years before this year. He earned his BSc (equivalent to a BS degree) in agriculture in 1942 in India.

In India, he attended two universities, Aligarh Muslim university (intermediate school in arts and sciences) and the Madras Agricultural college and Research Institute, Coimbatore, University of Madras.

Originally, he was scheduled to attend Kansas State in 1950, but a financial bind (not personal) prevented his coming until this year.

"INDIA HAS progressed very fast in the nine years of her independence," Chellappa said. "The influence of the British for a number of years has had a very strong impact on India, but now India is progressing in all directions."

Chellappa is attending K-State in connection with a Kansas State-India contract. Ohio, Illinois, and Tennessee are among other schools holding similar contracts. "They are doing a lot for India," Chellappa reported.

UNDER THE program, the American universities lend technical assistance to India. Dean Myers, formerly of Kansas State and now at the University of Arizona, and Dr. Roger Smidt of the entomology department were instrumental in Chellappa's attending K-State.

At the present time, Chellappa is working on flower and differentiation in French-American hybrid grapes.

$200 Relief for Hungarians Depicts Belief in Freedom

THE RECENT Student Council action to send $200 to the World University service for relief of Hungarian students puts K-State on the bandwagon with other colleges and universities in the United States.

Most institutions of higher learning in the U. S., have been asked to contribute to the fund and it is encouraging to note that many of them already donated.

YALE UNIVERSITY in New Haven, Conn., went so far as to organize a giant rally and collect some $3,500 for the Hungarian students.

Though $200 seems a small amount to pay to people who have fought and died for the same freedom that we enjoy, still it will be a small token of our understanding and appreciation.

The World University service plans to distribute the funds collected here and at other colleges to Hungarian students who have sought refuge from the Communists in Austria.

THE REVOLT in Hungary was short lived, but it is well to remember that the cause for which the Hungarians fought and died is one very close to every student in America. They paid the ultimate price for political freedom and for intellectual freedom. They died for the right to think.

Although we can't strike a physical blow at the Communists in Hungary, the $200 can do a little toward preserving the faith of those students who sought freedom.

OTHER COUNCIL action included a report from the committee for motor vehicle operation and parking which decided to set up a poll to determine the needs of the staff in regard to parking on campus.

This is all well and fine, however, shouldn't the committee be more concerned about studying the needs of the students in regard to parking?

After all there are some 3,800 student cars registered on campus to about 1,500 staff cars.

ANOTHER recommendation brought out by the committee and accepted by the Council was for more rigid enforcement of the "stop for pedestrian" zone west of the Engineering building. It is good to enforce this zone, however, a better cure might be to take a good look at the zone and see if it can be effectively enforced.

At best, the zone is set up in a confusing manner. An east-west cross street intersects the zone and there is no indication at the corner of the cross street that a zone exists. This endangers any pedestrian in the zone from cars turning the corner.

ALSO THE SHAPE of the signs (octagonal), according to the Kansas traffic laws, indicates that the "Stop for Pedestrian" signs are in reality "Stop" signs. This confuses the drivers entering from the cross street who can only see the back of the signs and must judge they are stop signs from their shape. The north-south traffic must stop only if there is a pedestrian in the lane. This situation could easily lead to an accident as well as a crushed pedestrian.—George Vohs.

KS Not Encouraging Enough Alumni To Enter Graduate Study, Bagley Says

By PAUL BOCQUIN

AN INSTRUCTOR is most capable of interesting his students to study for advanced degrees, Dr. E. S. Bagley, of the department of economics and sociology, said.

"A student seldom comes in contact with the head of his department or the dean of his school but he sees his instructors regularly," Dr. Bagley pointed out.

Recent studies have indicated that Kansas State may not be contributing as large a portion of her alumni to graduate schools as are other colleges of similar standards and size, he added.

A FACULTY committee, headed by Dr. Bagley, is studying the problem and developing a plan for stimulating a greater interest among K-Staters in pursuing graduate study here and in other institutions of higher learning.

"It is believed that if more departments offered PhD degrees, more graduates would remain here to further their education," he said.

Good jobs and salaries for students with bachelors degrees are believed to be some of the reasons for their lack of interest in graduate work, he added.

"MORE CAMPUS research might help encourage additional graduate students," Dr. Bagley said.

Many department heads, when interviewed by members of the committee, expressed the need for more teaching and research assistantships with larger salaries.

Dr. Bagley reported that most of the department heads said they were encouraging their outstanding seniors, either privately or in seminars, to further their studies at Kansas State or elsewhere.

THE EIGHT-MEMBER faculty committee is a joint subcommittee of the Graduate council and the committee on academic affairs.

Committee members are Dr. Bagley, chairman; Prof. R. V. Olson, agronomy; Prof. Borris Leaf, physics; Prof. Brewster Rogerson, English; Prof. Grayce Goertz, foods and nutrition; Prof. W. W. Kirkham, veterinary medicine; Prof. James C. Carey, history; and Prof. P. G. Kirmser, applied mechanics.

U.S. Lead Grows Bigger; Limey Wins Hard Way

Melbourne, (U.P.)—Charley Jenkins of Villanova college earned the United States' team's 19th gold medal of the Olympic games today in the 400-meter run. Britain's Chris Brasher won the 3,000 meter steeplechase gold medal after previously being disqualified.

Jenkins' victory and a fifth-place finish by Lou Jones of New Rochelle, N.Y., in the 400-meter race added 12 points to the American total in the unofficial team standings.

Russia scored only six points today, enabling America to widen its lead. The U.S. now leads Russia, 318-214.

Brasher finished first in the 3,000-meter steeplechase, but the judges disqualified him and placed him last because he had bumped into Norway's Ernst Larsen in the late stages of the race.

Sandor Rozsnyoi of Hungary, who finished second to Brasher, at first was announced as the gold medal winner.

British officials lodged a protest, however, and a special track and field jury held a conference a few hours after the race. In a seven-minute meeting, it was decided that Brasher's bumping had been "accidental"

Varsity Tops Hustling Frosh, 82-58

By JIM BELL

K-State's varsity basketball squad dumped the Cat frosh, 82-58, in a warmup last night for Saturday's opener against Houston university, after leading only 36-35 at halftime.

"The game was just what we needed," coach Tex Winter said after the contest. "However, we do need more outside competition if we are to improve."

"Parr was the big difference for us," Winter commented. "Our fast break was our strong point."

Winter said that the freshmen looked good while the varsity was relatively unimpressive. He pointed out that the freshmen had trouble penetrating the varsity defense, but added that they didn't need the close in shots because of their accurate outside shooting.

Bob Graham, 6-3 freshman forward, hit the game's first field goal after 40 seconds had elapsed. Two free throws by Glen Long and a set shot by Sonny Ballard made it 6-0 for the freshmen before the varsity could score.

Bob Boozer, 6-7 sophomore starter, laid in the ball with 16:39 left in the half, to cut the frosh margin to 6-2. The Wildcat varsity did not take the lead until Parr hit two quick fielders for a 12-11 margin with 12:58 left.

The lead changed hands four more times in the period, with Parr hitting from under the basket with four seconds remaining to give the varsity a slim 36-35 halftime lead.

Parr hit 16 of his 21 points in the first half on eight fielders. Ballard got 12 and Long eight points in the first period freshman effort.

The last frosh lead in the contest was 41-40 with 17:30 remaining. A frosh scoring drought of 5:26 duration saw the varsity jump to a 56-41 lead.

Boozer and Eddie Wallace, starting senior guard, backed up Parr's 21-point total with 12 each for the varsity. Larry Fischer got nine and Dean Plagge eight.

For the freshmen, Ballard was second to Parr for game scoring honors with 18. Glen Long got 12, and Wally Frank hit eight.

The Cats hit 33 of 84 field goal attempts for 39 per cent. The frosh got 21 of 67 for 31 per cent.

Howie Shannon, freshman coach, said, "I thought the freshmen played very well—possibly over their heads. I was well pleased with their performance."

"Ballard is one of the best competitors I've seen in a long time," Shannon said. "Wally Frank looked good under the basket. He didn't shoot a lot, but he was feeding the ball well. He helped keep the punch in our offense."

U.S. Cagers Down Reds

Melbourne, (U.P.)—Big Bill Russell led the United States Olympic basketball team to a surprisingly easy 85-55 victory over Russia today. But the one-sided score did not lull coach Gerald Tucker into believing the Soviets are pushovers.

The Russians, who already had qualified for the final four-nation round-robin pool along with the Americans, used second-stringers most of the way in losing to the Yanks.

Tucker interpreted the maneuver as a Soviet attempt to jockey for position in the final round-robin which starts Friday.

"We did not expect them to go all out against us today because we figured they were playing for a position in the ladder so that they could get back at us in the final," Tucker explained after the game.

HAPPY TALK

As we all know, conversation is terribly important on a date. When lulls in the conversation run longer than an hour or two, one's partner is inclined to grow logy — even sullen. What, then, does one do?

If one is wise, one follows the brilliant example of Harlow Thurlow.

Harlow Thurlow prepares. That is his simple secret.
Before the date, he goes to the library and reads all 24 volumes of the encyclopedia and transcribes their contents on his cuffs. Thus he makes sure that no matter what his date's interests are, he will have ample material to keep the conversation alive.

Take, for example, Harlow's first date with Priscilla de Gasser, a fine, strapping, blue-eyed broth of a girl, lavishly constructed and rosy as the dawn.

Harlow was, as always, prepared when he called for Priscilla, and, as always, he did not start to converse immediately. First he took her to dinner because, as everyone knows, it is useless to try to make conversation with an unfed coed.

So he took her to a fine steak house where he stoked her with gobbets of Black Angus and mounds of French fries and thickets of escarole and battalions of petits fours. Then, at last, dinner was over and the waiter brought two finger bowls.

"I hope you enjoyed your dinner, my dear," said
Harlow, dipping into his finger bowl.

"Oh, it was grandy-dandy!" said Priscilla. "Now let's go someplace for ribs."

"Later, perhaps," said Harlow. "But right now, I thought we might have a conversation."

"Oh, goody, goody, two-shoes!" cried Priscilla. "I been looking everywhere for a boy who can carry on an intelligent conversation."

"Your search is ended, madam," said Harlow and pulled back his sleeves and looked at his cuffs to pick a likely topic to start the conversation.

Oh, woe! Oh, lackaday! Those cuffs on which Harlow had painstakingly transcribed such diverse and fascinating information — those cuffs were nothing now but a big, blue blur! For Harlow — poor Harlow! — splashing around in the finger bowl had gotten his cuffs wet and the ink had run and not one word was legible! And Harlow broke out in a night-sweat and fell dumb.

"I must say," said Priscilla after several silent hours,
"that you are a very dull fellow. I'm leaving."

With that she flounced away and poor Harlow was too crushed to protest. Sadly he sat and sadly lit a cigarette.

All of a sudden Priscilla came rushing back. "Was that," she asked, "a Philip Morris you just lit?"

"Yes," said Harlow.

"Then you are not a dull fellow!" she cried and sprang into his lap. "You are bright! Anybody is bright to smoke such a perfect doll of a cigarette as today's rich, tasty Philip Morris, which is brimming-full of natural tobacco goodness and fresh unfiltered flavor.... Harlow, tiger, wash your cuffs and be my love!"

"Okay," said Harlow, and did, and was.

Increasing Signs Middle East May Explode into New War

London, Nov. 29—Egypt reported that two "enemy" aircraft strafed Egyptian troops in the Sinai desert today, and there were increasing signs the uneasy cease-fire might explode into a general Middle East war.

Israeli sources accused the Soviet Union of conspiring with Syria to wreck the Baghdad pact and overthrow the government of Iraq. Moscow retorted that Israel was "digging its own grave" by preparing a new conflict in the Middle East.

The threat to the Baghdad pact was so grave a top-level Turkish mission flew to London to seek means of counteracting the rapid buildup of Soviet arms in Syria which Turkey saw as a threat to it and its Baghdad pact partner, Iraq.

Washington was increasingly concerned over shipments of the Soviet arms to Syria.

New Communist-inspired riots were reported sweeping Iraq.

The official Egyptian press stepped up its offensive against the Baghdad pact with a slashing attack on Pakistan and said that nation was conducting a hostile campaign against Egypt.

In Amman, Jordan, the government announced plans to "start immediately" to break the Anglo-Jordan treaty which for years gave Britain important military bases in that kingdom. Jordanian plans called for ousting all remaining British troops there.

Egyptian Brigadier Amin Hilmy, chief of staff of the eastern command, announced the air attacks. He said two planes strafed Egyptian trucks and gun positions in the Sinai desert 7 miles east of Ismailia, and that two others flew over Ismailia and were driven off by Egyptian anti-aircraft batteries.

He said the air attack was carried out by "enemy" Venoms and Mysteres — British-and-French-built aircraft used by the Israeli air force. He said casualties had not been reported.

The Soviet attack on Israel—the second in two days—was printed in the official government newspaper Izvestia. It said Israel was acting as a "pawn and puppet of Anglo-American imperialists" and hinted Israel was preparing to attack Syria and Jordan.

Israeli sources were worried by the belligerent tones of the Moscow statements, following earlier Soviet threats to send "volunteers" to the Middle East. Egypt announced last night its plea for volunteers still stood.

Norway was heading toward a diplomatic struggle with Egypt over Egypt's refusal to allow trapped Norwegian ships to leave the blocked Suez canal through a passage cleared in the Port Said area by Anglo-French forces. A Norwegian source said Egypt was clearly violating the international traffic rights on the canal.

Kadar Nixed UN Entry

United Nations, N.Y., Nov. 29—A radio Moscow broadcast said today Soviet-backed Premier Janos Kadar had refused to permit the entry of U.N. observers into Hungary.

The broadcast quoted Kadar as saying he rejected UN request "because many people no longer are clear about the difference between American and UN forces."

"That is why the arrival of UN representatives in Hungary could throw the people into confusion," Kadar said, according to the broadcast monitored in London.

Sources here said Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold definitely had decided to report to the General Assembly on his efforts to persuade the Kadar regime to allow UN observers to investigate the situation in revolt-torn Hungary. His report has been hanging fire for several days.

The sources said Hammarskjold would go before the General Assembly today with a report on his negotiations regardless of whether he receives a formal reply from the Soviet-puppet Budapest regime.

Western delegations have been pressing Hammarskjold for the report. Cuba and Argentina yesterday demanded the Secretary-General give it "forthwith." But Hammarskjold held off in hopes of receiving a reply from Budapest.

Defends Soviet Action

Vienna, Nov. 29—Soviet-puppet Premier Janos Kadar said today that intervention of Russian tanks and troops in the Hungarian freedom revolt "helped stop bloodshed."

Kadar stoutly defended Soviet armed intervention in an interview with the Soviet Communist party newspaper Pravda. The interview was broadcast by Radio Moscow.

He also said the Soviet action averted the dangers of war between a counter-revolutionary Hungary and its East European neighbors.

Trial Run Planned

Commercial Weaving Seen As Possible K-State Industry

By ED KOCHER

The Campus Industrial Development committee yesterday began plans for a new commercial weaving industry at K-State.

At present, the main problem is obtaining finances for the industry. Plans are being made to obtain $200 for a trial run, before any large investment is made.

The object of the trial run is to determine the retail value of fabrics, the mark-up in price that the retailer must have, the cost of producing fabrics, the amount and cost of yarn needed, labor cost per yard of fabric, and how to obtain orders for drapery and upholstery materials.

This trial run will cost $100 to buy materials to produce finished fabric samples. The other $100 probably will take care of labor costs for weaving the samples, plus travel costs of the salesmen.

The salesmen will take the samples to interior decorators, and to large department stores and furniture stores.

Size of orders obtained will depend on the amount of money invested for the purchase of looms and the other weaving equipment. Orders will be taken for two- and three-month delivery.

"The cost of a 45-inch loom will run around $165, and a 60-inch loom will cost around $250 delivered in Manhattan," said Prof. Kurt J. Matzdorf, assistant professor in art.

"There are only very small repair bills on the looms. The College still has its 20-year-old looms, and they are in good shape," he added.

A subcommittee is to be named to aid in developing the weaving industry.

Bruce Burkholder, ArE Sr, reported on the campus research project. The amounts companies have given, and what companies have given money, for research at K-State in the past six years will be set up for Manfax, Manhattan industry committee, he said.

Chairman Jerry Holliday, ArE Sr, said a 25-foot by 25-foot room could be rented at $50 a month with all utilities paid. It contains excellent lighting and has a tile floor, he said.

Refugee Aid Funds Sought

K-Staters are being asked to contribute to a Red Cross fund to send relief to Hungarian refugees in Austria. Riley county has been assigned a $925 quota in a national drive for $5 million.

Donations may be left at the information desk in the Student Union or in the Dean of Students' office in Anderson hall.

More than 83,000 refugees reportedly have crossed the Hungarian border into Austria, and additional refugees pour into Austria every day, the Red Cross says.

Traffic Board Asks Review Of Traffic Violation Cases

The Traffic Control board passed a motion this week that the board chairman present a list of traffic violators to the Dean of Students and request that the dean review why this group has not been restricted from driving on campus.

The board also recommended that a sidewalk be constructed along the east side of the football practice field from College Heights road to the military drill field along 17th street.

A motion was passed to make a loading zone out of a 42-foot space west of the agricultural engineering barracks.

A request for a faculty-staff sticker was refused to a K-State student who works at the Union and has errands to run in his car.

A student employee of Blaker studio who takes pictures for the Royal Purple was refused the right to park in the faculty-staff area.

The board appointed Arthur L. Hjort, administration assistant, as chairman of a subcommittee to consider developing the present football practice field into a parking lot.

The board voted to recommend to the city commission that a sidewalk be built on both sides of College Heights road from Denison to Lee. It also will ask that parking be restricted on the north side of College Heights between Denison and Sunset.

Board members are to check trouble spots on campus before the next meeting, when action will be taken.

Some trouble spots to be considered are Manhattan Avenue and Claflin road, Mid-Campus drive and Claflin, 17th and Claflin, 17th and Anderson, and 17th and College Heights.

Senior Invitation Order Deadline Is Tomorrow

Seniors have until tomorrow noon to order their commencement announcements, according to George Eaton, superintendent of the K-State Press.

Cash orders now are being taken at K 101.

Author Tells K-Staters To Avoid Self-Satisfaction

The human race should never be satisfied with itself, Louis Untermeyer, poet, author, and critic, said at this morning's assembly. He pointed out that there is a constant need for men who will fight for what they believe.

"Every step of progress has been achieved at the expense of scorn and ridicule," Untermeyer said. "There is never an end to something; there is always something bigger and better."

Untermeyer spoke before a nearly filled Auditorium using his book, "Makers of the Modern World," as his subject material.

"In America of all places, as well as the rest of the world, there is this need for probing for daring new paths," he said.

Untermeyer defined the "modern world" as the world in which we have lived for the past 100 years. "It has been the most exciting 100 years in man's history—more things have happened in more different fields than in any other similar period," he commented.

"I think of it as the age of experiment," he said. He pointed out that he had selected 92 men and women as "Makers of the Modern World" for his book.

"These people are not just great men but 'Makers,' he said. 'They've influenced all of us. They've altered our way of looking and thinking—our very culture.'

Students May Choose Prof They Wish by Using Lists

STUDENTS, choose your instructor. It may be one of the most important selections of your college career.

Lists of instructor's names and their line numbers are being posted by various campus departments before pre-enrollment begins so that students can choose what instructors they wish to take classes under.

SOME DEPARTMENTS still refuse to post such lists despite the approval of the plan by President McCain. Others are undecided whether they will or not and some just plain say the same instructors as always will be teaching the courses and students should know who they are by now.

If your department is not listed, they didn't know if they would post a schedule. They will be asked again.

FOLLOWING is a list of each department and where, if, and when their schedule is posted.

Agricultural Economics—will post a schedule after the line schedules are distributed.

Farm management and marketing departments say the same thing.

Education—posted their schedule on the main floor bulletin board in Holton.

Applied mechanics—will have tentative list next week.

Architecture and allied arts—will post after line schedules are out.

Home Ec art department—second floor of Anderson as soon as line schedules are out.

BACTERIOLOGY—posted on bulletin board across from offices in Vet hall

Botany and plant pathology—posted on bulletin board in Dickens.

Business administration—will be posted by Monday on bulletin board in business administration barracks.

Chemical engineering—as soon as line schedules are out in chemical engineering building.

Civil engineering—is posted on civil engineering board in Seaton hall.

Clothing and textiles—as soon as line schedules are out on clothing bulletin board in Calvin.

Electrical engineering—sometime this week in EE office.

English—early next week.

FAMILY ECONOMICS—no list, but they say information can be obtained from the department.

Milling—said posting a list wasn't necessary because the students know all the instructors and what they teach.

Foods and nutrition—no, because they haven't in the past.

General studies—won't know until today if they will or not.

Geology and geography—will be up before pre-enrollment for advanced courses but not for beginning because physical world and beginning geography courses will be balanced according to individual teacher's loads.

HISTORY—is posted on second floor of Eisenhower hall.

Horticulture—posted in Waters 215.

Journalism—posted on main bulletin board in Kedzie.

Mathematics—posted for courses above differential equations in Math hall.

Mechanical engineering—don't know but doubt it because they didn't do it before.

MUSIC—no, because have the same instructors as before.

Physics—will do it before pre-enrollment begins.

Poultry husbandry—will be posted today on bulletin board on the second floor of West Waters

Speech—students can obtain the information in the speech department except for oral communications I classes.

Vet medicine—no, because there is no choice anyway.

Zoology—will be up before pre-enrollment in Fairchild 104.

Some of the answers to the Collegian's inquiry about the lists of instructor's names really showed thoughtful consideration toward student interests.—gfv

Cat-Cougar Fight Renewed As Basketball Season Begins

KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN
Friday, November 30, 1956-4

By PAUL DEWEESE
Sports Publicity Director

A pair of last season's conference champions take up where they left off when K-State meets Houston in basketball here in Ahearn Field House Saturday night. Tipoff is at 7:30 p.m.

The two closed out last season in the consolation game of the Western Regional tourney of the National Collegiate playoffs at Lawrence. K-State took an 89-70 win in that one to gain a split in two meetings with the Cougars last season.

Houston won an earlier season game 86-79 at Houston. Those are the only two previous games between the two teams.

For both teams this is a chance to test six weeks of drilling with new men. Houston has just one starter back from last season's Missouri Valley champions; and the Cats show two new faces among the starters.

Three Wildcat regulars from last season may get starting jobs in the season-opener. They are Jack Parr, 6-9 center who was named all-Big Seven center as a sophomore last season; Roy DeWitz, 6-3 guard; and Hayden Abbott, 6-3 forward.

Probably joining that trio will be Bob Boozer, 6-7 sophomore forward, and Eddie Wallace, 5-10 senior guard. Wallace bloomed late last season, hitting 39 points in two NCAA playoff games to be named to the Western Regional tourney team.

Boozer is a smooth performer who promises to add rebounding and scoring punch to the Wildcat front-line.

Houston has only Dan Dotson, 6-3 guard, back from last season's starters. Dotson averaged 13 points a game last season, fattening his average against K-State. He hit 22 against the Wildcats in the first game, and added 14 points in the NCAA playoff game.

Houston's new coach Guy Lewis has shifted newcomers into the gaps left by graduation of six Cougar lettermen—one of them Don Boldebeck. Ray Patosty, 6-7 sophomore, will move into Boldebeck's center position.

Other help should come from junior college transfers—Russell Boone, 6-5 forward, and Doc Jones, 6-0 guard. Boone was two-time all-American at Tyler (Texas) Juco before transferring to Houston this season.

All told, however, the Wildcats should own a slight edge in height. Boozer will boost that department considerably.

For K-State this opener marks the first of two closely-spaced tilts against defending conference champions.

The Cats meet Texas Tech, last season's Border conference champs, next Monday at Lubbock.

Later this month (Dec. 22) K-State faces its third crown defender—Iowa U.

Houston, meantime, is playing the first of a quick two games against top Big Seven teams. The Cougars meet Iowa State at Ames Monday.

Youth-Years Square Off For Heavyweight Crown

Chicago, (U.P.)—Light heavyweight champion Archie Moore, ancient gypsy of the boxing trails, and youthful Floyd Patterson, the "kangaroo kid," fight tonight for the vacant world heavyweight crown.

The winner will be either the oldest or the youngest heavy ruler in ring history.

In the dazzling cone of light at Chicago stadium, Moore of San Diego, Calif.—39 or 42—is slated for 15 rounds with Patterson of Brooklyn—21 or 20—to determine which shall take the throne left vacant by Rocky Marciano's retirement last April 27.

Each principal in this historic age-vs-youth contest has so many ring assets but also so many possible handicaps that the heavy betting by supporters of each has reached a stalemate of "even money." Bookies are quoting "6-5 and pick 'E'."

Promoter Jim Norris expects a crowd approaching 18,000 to pay between $250,000 and $300,000 for the privilege of live-viewing the fight, which will be televised and broadcast nationally (NBC) at 10 p.m. (EST). It will be blacked out on a 150-mile radius in the Chicago area.

Norris indirectly denied reports that colorful Archie, still equipped with mustachio and little goatee, has been guaranteed $200,000 for the fight.

Norris said, "It's the first I've heard of it. As far as I know, each fighter is getting 30 per cent of the net gate and 30 per cent of the $180,000 TV-radio money."

On that 30-30 basis, each purse should reach at least $130,000.

Moore will not be risking his own light heavyweight (175-pound) crown while getting his second shot at the far more valuable heavyweight laurels.

But if he should win tonight, his light-heavy championship will be vacated automatically and immediately—and it will be up for grabs among the light-heavy contenders.

National Boxing association rules no longer permit one man to wear two world crowns simultaneously.

If Archie wins, he will be not only the oldest man to achieve the fight game's most precious crown, but also the first light heavyweight champ to ascend the heavy throne.

The oldest winners were Jersey Joe Walcott, 37, and Bob Fitzsimmons, 39.

If Patterson wins, he will be the youngest heavy champ—beating Joe Louis' accomplishment at 23 and Jack Dempsey's at 24.

Decathlon Crown To U.S. For 20th Olympic First

Melbourne, (U.P.)—Mighty Milt Campbell, a husky 22-year-old sailor from Plainfield, N.J., won the classic decathlon today with feats of strength, speed and versatility unsurpassed in the recorded history of the Olympic games.

The decathlon crown, bringing America's 20th gold medal in eight days, carries with it unofficial recognition as "world's greatest athlete."

During the 10 events crammed into two days of muscle-torture Campbell was all of that, even though he fell 48 points short of the world record. He led from the start of the first event yesterday.

The former Indiana football star, a bitter second to Bob Mathias of Tulare, Calif., in the 1952 games at Helsinki, today broke big Bob's Olympic record by 50 points with a total of 7,937.

Among the 15 international stars he defeated was world record-holder Rafer Johnson of Kingsburg, Calif., a sophomore at UCLA. Johnson won the second place medal with a total of 7,587 points despite an injury suffered yesterday.

Johnson was hampered by a pulled stomach muscle received during yesterday's broad jump and as they rested between events today Campbell did his best to cheer up his dejected buddy.

Despite the 1-2 American finish in the decathlon, Russia cut into the U. S. lead in the unofficial team race with a 1-2 finish in the women's shot put won by Tamara Tychkevitch with a record heave of 54 feet, five inches, and a total of 18 points in canoeing.

Campbell actually had only one bad event. He had bad luck in the pole vault, clearing only 11 feet, 1 1/4 inches. It so infuriated him, he flopped on blanket and hit his head against the ground several times.

On the first decathlon day, Campbell ran the 100-meter dash in 10.8; broad jumped 24 feet, 1/2 inch; tossed the shot 48 feet, five inches; high jumped six feet, 2 1/4 inches, and ran the 400-meters in 48.8 seconds.

Then today, as some of his rivals came down with various limps and muscular strains, the 205-pound Campbell skipped over the 100-meter hurdles in 14 seconds flat; hurled the discus 147 feet, 5 1/4 inches, pole vaulted 11 feet, 1 1/4 inches; fired the Javelin 187 feet, 3 1/4 inches, and then made 4:50.6 in the 1500 meters.

JUST PRACTICING—Mrs. Clem Darrow, HEJ Soph, tries out a recipe she plans to use for the Lutheran Student association's Swedish smorgasbord to be held December 16.

Swedish Foods Planned For LSA Smorgasbord

By KATHY SCHULTIS

Pickled herring, potato sausage, rye bread, and cheese are among the Swedish foods to be served smorgasbord style at the Lutheran Student association meeting December 26 at the First Lutheran church.

Swedish costumes in gay reds, yellows, and blues will be worn by the LSA girls who will be waitresses. Many of the costumes, which were borrowed from parents of LSA members, were brought over from Sweden. There will also be a display of Swedish clothes for both boys and girls.

Students from foreign countries have been invited to the smorgasbord. They will explain how Christmas is observed in their home countries to carry out the program's theme, "Christmas Around the World."

LSA members will prepare and serve most of the food for the smorgasbord, according to chairman Darlene Nelson, EEd Sr. However, the Swedish breads will be baked by Manhattan women. The girls who planned the menu are Miss Nelson; Karen Gottfrid, DIM Soph; and Bernita Owen, Psy Gr.

Appetizers starting the feast include olives, pickled beets, cole slaw, pickles, cranberry salad, and various Swedish delicacies. Roast turkey, mashed potatoes, gravy, and dressing comprise the main course.

Soviets Begin Mass Propaganda Attack on West

By LANCE GILMORE

London, Nov. 3—The Soviet Union unleashed a massive propaganda attack today against the United States and its allies. It was a cold-blooded return to the cold war.

In the space of a few hours Moscow radio, the Soviet press, and Red diplomats loosed an avalanche of charges against the United States, Britain, France, Iraq, and Turkey.

Observers here said Moscow, stung by world condemnation of its action in Hungary and the possible loss of a foothold in Egypt, was returning to the tough Stalin-Molotov foreign policy line.

The Soviet assaults ranged from the Mediterranean through Syria and Turkey into Austria. They included these charges:

1. Western "imperialist" powers and Iraq are planning armed intervention in Syria. The presence of the Turkish Foreign Minister in London "goes hand in hand with diplomatic and political maneuvers" against Syria.

2. The activities of the U.S. 6th fleet in the Mediterranean are "provocative." This came from Sovietski Flot, organ of the Red fleet, which said the U.S. fleet was being reinforced, was almost constantly on the move and was soon beginning massive maneuvers which "pursue obviously provocative aims."

3. The United States is planning to violate Austrian neutrality and re-establish American air bases there on the "pretext" of flying out Hungarian refugees. That came from Radio Moscow.

War May 'Save' Syria

London, Nov. 30—Authoritative sources in London said Turkey will advise Britain today that an invasion of Syria by Iraq may become necessary to prevent Syria from becoming a Soviet satellite.

The report coincided with a Moscow radio broadcast accusing Western "imperialists" of plotting armed "intervention" in Syria in hope of strengthening the anti-Communist Baghdad pact.

The sources said Turkey's warning would be delivered (at 7:30 a.m. EST) to British Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd by Turkish acting Foreign Minister Ethem Menderes at a lunch.

The Soviet broadcast followed an American warning to the Soviet Union, Syria, and other countries against any attack on Middle East members of the Baghdad pact—Iran, Iraq, Turkey and Pakistan. Britain also is a member of the pact.

Meanwhile Egyptian objections in the Suez canal zone halted the UN police force today before it could move into the no man's land between British-French and Egyptian forces to prevent further incidents.

A Message from

Claude Bass
M.E., Kansas State

to K-STATE GRADUATING ENGINEERS

"More personal recognition and more chance for advancement makes Emerson Electric an ideal place for a young engineer to build a brilliant career."

"The advantages of working for a medium sized company are real. It may be trite to speak of getting lost in the shuffle of giant organizations . . . but it happens. I know from my own experience that a man has a strong feeling of belonging here at Emerson . . . a quality essential to a satisfying job. Here your work is a direct contribution to the team goals of your organization and is recognized as such. Moreover, our projects are distinctly non-routine, varied, and highly interesting. And the tangible rewards are in the above-average class.

"Emerson's planned expansion program is another very definite reason why a young engineer should be interested in Emerson. If he gets in on the ground floor now, he will enjoy unusual opportunities for fast advancement in responsibility, recognition, and compensation. Emerson is definitely a place where a man can make his mark."

Our vast expansion program, the most ambitious in our 66 year history, means one thing for the young engineer who comes in now . . . opportunity! Opportunity to grow with technology that's making tomorrow today. Opportunity to advance quickly into a fast moving series of more and more responsible positions with commensurably increasing rewards. Opportunity to profit from the cooperation of small teams of experts. Opportunity to move ahead without the constriction of clogged up top levels—such as you would encounter in companies which have already achieved their full growth.

Whatever your preferred field of engineering specialization (or generalization), there is a gateway to career progress waiting for you at Emerson. Commercially, since 1890, Emerson has been a leading producer of fans, motors, air conditioners, welders and power tools. The Electronics and Avionics Division, a leader nationally since 1940, designs, develops, and manufactures active defense systems for bombers, supersonic air frames, mortar locators, missiles and rockets like the Honest John.

You owe it to yourself to find out how you can get in on the ground floor of this fast growing, medium sized company. Meet Emerson's engineering representatives and talk over your career plans with them. Firm job offers can be made. If it's impossible for you to make a date, be sure to write A. L. Depke, Technical Placement Supervisor, for full details.

Cats Win 97-78; Texas Tonight

By JIM BELL

Collegian Sports Writer

K-State's basketball team takes on Texas Tech tonight at Lubbock after trouncing another Texas team, Houston university, in the season opener, 97-78, in Ahearn Field House Saturday night.

"The first one is always a good one to get out of the way," Cat coach, Tex Winter, said. "We had 'em badly outmanned, and in the first half we played particularly fine ball."

"We won't have seen Texas Tech until we play them, but we're going to Lubbock anticipating a good game."

"This win continues our record of never having lost a season opener in Ahearn Field House," Winter commented.

Bob Boozer, 6-7 sophomore, and 5-10 Eddie Wallace led the Cats to the Saturday win. Boozer dumped in 19 points and speared 12 rebounds while Wallace hit 16 points.

Boozer, who was tied for game scoring honors by Houston's Doc Jones, hit 14 points in the Cat's big first half. Wallace had 11 during that period.

Although K-State's 6-9 Jack Parr scored only eight points, he grabbed 15 rebounds to lead both teams in this department. "Boozer and Parr dominated the boards," Winter said.

"Parr had a sore throat and a 100-degree temperature before the game, but he wanted to play, so I let him," Winter said.

"We were well pleased with the first half, but we played raggedly in the second," he said. "Any time you run up against a press—particularly a zone press—play is going to be a little ragged. The press opened the game up and, I thought we handled it very well." Houston coach Guy Lewis had nothing but praise for the Wildcats.

"K-State has a terrific ball club. They're well-coached and a fine bunch of guys," he said. "K-State's rebounding and shooting in the first 10 minutes finished us. After that we were completely out of the game."

"K-State certainly looks stronger than the ball club that won the Big Seven last year," the Texas mentor said.

The Cats drew first blood as Hayden Abbott hit a jump shot with eight seconds gone. Parr hooked one in to make it 4-0 before Houston could score.

Andy McElveen of Houston hit a free throw on Eddie Wallace's foul, and Ray Patoprsty hit a fielder with 18:30 left to narrow the Cat margin to 4-3, and to pose the only threat of the evening to the K-State lead.

K-State hit 12 straight points before Houston could score again and led 16-3 with 14:50 left in the half.

The Wildcat margin ballooned to 27 points at 47-20 with 1:10 left in the first half, but a Houston layup by Larry Byrd, and a pair of free throws by Sam Sells narrowed the margin to 47-24 at intermission.

Reserves finished the first half for K-State and played the final 12 minutes of the second half.

The Cats' largest lead of the game was a 30-point spread at 60-30 with 14:35 left, and at 66-36 with 12:21 left.

The Cougar's full court zone press and a substitute guard, Doc Jones, helped outscore K-State in the final half, 54-50.

Speech Contest Set for Tuesday

The preliminary rounds of the Larry Woods Memorial speech contest will be held tomorrow for those students who have been chosen to participate in the event.

The 48 contestants will begin the contest at 4 p.m., in J 20, 21, 22, and 23, according to Charles Goetzinger.

Each semester, one student in each section of oral communications I is selected by his class to participate in a preliminary contest. The participants speak in preliminary contest before three members of the K-State department of speech who act as judges for the event.

Speakers who win the preliminaries compete in the final contest for the three cash prizes, $30 first prize, $20 second prize, and $10 third prize.

After Larry E. Woods, a former speech major at K-State, lost his life in World War II, his parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Woods of Independence, established a memorial in his honor. Mr. and Mrs. Woods gave the College a sum of money, and its annual income finances the semi-annual Larry Woods Memorial Speech contest.

Pre-Enrolling Set To Begin Today

Pre-enrollment begins in Anderson recreation center today at 1 p.m. for seniors, according to E. M. Gerritz, director of admissions and registrar.

Seniors may pre-enroll December 3, 4, and 5; juniors on December 6, 7, and 10; and anyone from December 11 to 21.

Students must see their adviser and receive a signed proof ticket before going through the enrollment procedure in Anderson.

Students who had failing grades at mid-semester will not be allowed to pre-enroll.

Fees may be paid at the time of enrollment but do not have to be paid until January 25. Those who do not pay their fees by January 25 will lose all pre-enrollment advantages, and their class cards will be returned for use by other students.

Gingrich Says

Ag Engineering Wing Bids To Be Called Next Month

Bids for agricultural engineering's first permanent home will be let the middle of January, according to R. F. Gingrich, superintendent of the physical plant.

Plans for the $500,000 wing were drawn by Vincent Cool, architect of K-State's campus planning department, in cooperation with Dwight C. Brown, state architect. The plans are now in the state architect's office, in Topeka, being blueprinted and checked.

The 134-foot by 152-foot wing will be connected to the north side of the newest portion of Seaton hall and will come within 85 feet of the Power plant. A new driveway will be constructed between the Power plant and Seaton hall, which will also service the proposed student hospital.

The completion of this wing will allow the ag engineers to move out of the 1918 barracks which the student training corps used as living quarters during World War I," Gingrich said.

The exterior of the new portion will be smooth-sawed limestone, matching the color of the adjoining building. The main entrance will be where the new and old wings join.

The basement floor will contain a hydraulics laboratory, farm mechanics and machinery lab, research lab, and a painting shop.

On the first floor will be a tractor lab, farm machinery lab, vocational agricultural lab, and a library. The second floor will house a soil and water conservation lab, farm processes lab, rural electrification lab, drafting room, and a student reading room.

In addition to these, there will be 12 offices and six classrooms. A freight elevator will be installed for transportation of heavy equipment.

There will be an extensive duct system for expelling fumes from the farm machinery labs. Heating will be from the central power plant. No air conditioning is proposed.

"This is a comparatively low cost structure because of the large labs with no partitions, and only electrical utilities will have to be installed," said Gingrich. "However, the connected electrical load will be one-third of the total college load."

An additional $50,000 will be requested from the 1957 legislature to cover increased building costs, he said.

Artist Series Tickets On Sale for Tonight

Student tickets will be sold today for $1.00 in M 108 for Michael Rabin, violinist, who will be presented by the Manhattan Artist Series tonight in the College auditorium at 8:15 p.m.

Rabin's program will include numbers from Mozart, Romanian Folk Dances, and selections from the "Baal Shem" Suite by Bloch.

Rabin made his debut on the Telephone Hour in 1950, at the age of 14, the youngest soloist ever to appear on the program. Since then, he has soloed with many orchestras throughout the country.

'Miss Wildcat' Contest Closes

Today is the last chance for students to place orders for their favorite "Miss Wildcat" candidate.

Orders for calendars are being taken at booths set up on the main floor of the Student Union and Anderson hall. The calendars are 25 cents apiece. Each calendar ordered entitles the student to one vote. The booths will close at 5 p.m.

The candidate receiving the most votes will be named "Miss Wildcat." Her picture will appear on the front of the calendar. Pictures of the 11 runners-up also will appear on the calendar.

Students May Pre-Enroll After Many Years of Wait

IT TOOK YEARS to get it, but pre-enrollment for all students is finally here.

Seniors began pulling cards at 1 p.m. today and will continue to do so through Wednesday. From then on until December 21 any student can take advantage of the privilege.

New freshman students who came to the campus during the summer for orientation have been allowed to pre-enroll for about two years. The plan has proved very successful with them and we expect it to prove itself again this semester.

E. M. GERRITZ, registrar, estimates that the time spent in pre-enrolling will be about 30 minutes including pulling class cards and filling out the volumes of information cards. This is a tremendous saving in time for many students who had to spend anywhere from an hour to four hours enrolling under the old system.

The plan should also save steps and delays if everyone cooperates and follows the procedures outlined by the Registrar for pre-enrollment.

One foresighted aspect to the plan that is exceptionally good for students is the fact that the enrollment fee will not have to be paid before January 25, 1957. This will allow students to work over the Christmas holidays and save the necessary money.

IN THE PAST, when the plan was a much-discussed topic on campus, students and faculty alike were strongly in favor of the pre-enrollment. A few faculty members feared the pre-enrollment would take up more of their time than did the previous enrollment process, however, even they thought it would be advantageous to the students.

The plan, as currently set up, is optional. Students don't have to pre-enroll unless they want too. However, if they don't they will have to take what is left in the way of class cards.

AT ANY RATE, a period of testing lies ahead for the pre-enrollment system. I feel certain that many methods of improving the new system will be discovered during this first trial. I feel just as certain that they will be noticed and properly taken care of when the next pre-enrollment session rolls around.

The present pre-enrollment system may not be perfect nor the final answer to K-State's enrollment problem, but it is definitely a decisive step in the right direction.—George Vohs.

WE'LL HAVE to be on our toes, Harry. The student council passed a new resolution. From now on cars must stop at STOP signs, and there will be no parking at NO PARKING signs.

Turk Troops Sent to Iraq To Aid Pact, Reds Say

By LANCE GILMORE

London, Dec. 3—Moscow Radio said today Turkey had sent two battalions of troops to Iraq to bolster the government of Premier Nouri El-Said against "popular demands" for withdrawal from the Baghdad pact.

There was no official confirmation of the reports. Moscow has beamed a steady propaganda barrage at the Mideast in recent weeks in an effort to break up the Baghdad pact and cause the downfall of the El-Said government.

The Moscow broadcast quoted "well-informed sources" in Damascus on the alleged Turkish troop movements. It said Iraqi troops stationed in Jordan "have refused to obey an order from the prime minister demanding their immediate return home."

The Moscow broadcast coincided with diplomatic reports in London that the United States and Britain planned to strengthen the Baghdad pact nations to counteract Soviet arms shipments to Syria.

The development came as Britain and France prepared to announce today their withdrawal plans from the Suez canal in hopes the United States would take a leading role in the United Nations in solving the Suez problem.

Baghdad repeatedly has denied reports of any major disorders in the country. On Saturday Iraqi King Feisal told Parliament martial law had been declared throughout Iraq to "protect the rear" of Iraqi troops stationed in Jordan.

Cuban Rebels 'Pulverized'

Havana, Dec. 3—Cuban warplanes and ground troops annihilated the 40-man high command of the revolutionary "26th of July" movement, including rebel leader Fidel Castro, almost as they set foot on Cuban soil, unimpeachable sources said today.

The government admitted the rebel landing and the air attack but would neither confirm nor deny the other reports.

The sources told the United Press that Castro led his lieutenants ashore last night in southeastern Cuba to lead his "fight to the death" to overthrow the government of President Fulgencio Batista. At least 11 persons had died previously since the rebellion flared Friday.

According to the sources, rebel leaders landed from a Mexican yacht between the Port of Niquero and Manzanillo in Oriente province. Castro had been in exile in Mexico since he led an abortive attempt against Batista in 1953.

Brace for More Uprisings

Budapest, Dec. 3—Soviet armored units hovered today on the outskirts of Budapest ready for action should Hungarians rise again as they did Sunday to stage mass anti-Russian and anti-government demonstrations in open defiance of Soviet guns.

The tanks, parked in less conspicuous positions during the past week of comparative calm, rumbled back into the capital to take up posts at strategic points while Russian troops also tightened security checks on all movements in restless sections of the country.

Anti-Russian demonstrations broke out on Lenin street in downtown Buda under the muzzles of Russian machine guns while across the Danube river in Pest workers demonstrated against the puppet government by burning copies of the Communist publications.

The armored units withdrew to the outskirts when the demonstration died down last night.

Writer Suggests New Titles for Themes Like 'That Big All-Night Beach Party'

By Mary Beckmeyer

THE ASSOCIATED Collegiate press reported recently that Charles Thomas, who writes in the Richmond Professional Institute's Proscript, doesn't like some theme assignments given to freshman English students.

More specifically, he rebels against themes with titles such as: "How I Spent My Summer Vacation," or "An Interesting Place I Visited on My Summer Vacation" or "My Happiest Day This Summer."

As substitutes, Thomas suggests titles like: "How to Sponge Off Your Parents for a Summer," "How I Rammed My Motorcycle Through a Police Roadblock," and finally, "That Big All-Night Beach Party" would make for some interesting reading.

SIX FRESHMAN coeds at Southern Methodist university each invested $12.50 to purchase a 1939 Oldsmobile, which was promptly christened "the Grey Ghoul."

They have been stopped five times by the police for driving with 1955 Texas license plates. When, for the fifth time, the girls repeated a heart-rendering "just bought it yesterday" alibi, the policeman replied, "That's what you said last week," and proceeded to write the ticket.

STUDENTS AT the University of Texas seem to have a fondness for hanging in effigy. The latest victim was the Austin mayor. It seems the city is planning to install a stretch of parking meters. On the back of the dummy it said—"Rob someone else for a change." Recently the students also hanged their college president in effigy.

THE DAILY Tar Heel editor at the University of North Carolina found considerable irony in the situation when he sat through the football game in a cold drizzle and performing bands played "Somewhere Over the Rainbow" and "Look for the Silver Lining."

THE WOMEN'S League senate at Ohio university voted to permit wearing short socks with Bermuda shorts on campus. Present rules state that knee socks must be worn. The new ruling does not permit Bermudas to be worn with flats without socks.

Not much sock in that decision.

Weather

An Arctic air mass punched into the northern plains today bringing with it warnings of the coldest weather of the season.

The frigid air mass broke through a wave of relatively mild weather. It sent readings plunging 35 degrees in four hours in Cutbank, Mont., as it overspread northwestern Montana.

The new cold blast is expected to edge southeastward by nightfall. Weathermen issued cold wave warnings for Illinois, Wisconsin, Iowa, Nebraska, Minnesota, the Dakotas, Kansas, Wyoming, and Montana.

Weather is expected to turn colder and become cloudy over Kansas this evening and night reaching cold wave proportions with strong northerly winds 30 to 40 miles per hour. Occasional snow is expected in the northwest this evening spreading over the state except for the extreme southeast by tomorrow morning.

Continued fair and warm today. High today will be 60, northwest, to 70 to 75, east. Low tonight will be 35, extreme southeast, to 5, elsewhere.

EAT, DRINK, AND BE MARRIED

On a recent tour of seven million American colleges, I was struck by two outstanding facts: first, the great number of students who smoke Philip Morris; and second, the great number of students who are married.

The first phenomenon—the vast multitude of Philip Morris smokers—comes as no surprise, for what could be more intelligent than to smoke Philip Morris? After all, pleasure is what you smoke for, and pleasure is what Philip Morris delivers. Try one. Light up and see for yourself.... Or, if you like, don't light up. Just take a Philip Morris, unlighted, and puff a couple of times. Get that wonderful flavor? You bet you do! Even without lighting you can taste Philip Morris's fine natural tobacco. Also, you can make your package of Philip Morris last practically forever.

No, I say, it was not the great number of Philip Morris smokers that astounded me; it was the great number of married students. Latest statistics show that at some coeducational colleges, the proportion of married undergraduates runs as high as twenty per cent! And, what is even more startling, fully one-quarter of these marriages have been blessed with issue!

Now, to the young campus couple who are parents for the first time, the baby is likely to be a source of considerable worry. Therefore, let me devote today's column to a few helpful hints on the care of babies.

First of all, we will take up the matter of diet. In the past, babies were raised largely on table scraps. This, however, was outlawed by the Smoot-Hawley Act, and today babies are fed a scientific formula consisting of dextrose, maltose, distilled water, evaporated milk, and a twist of lemon peel.

After eating, the baby tends to grow sleepy. A lullaby is very useful to help it fall asleep. In case you don't know any lullabies, make one up. For example:

Go to sleep, my little infant,
Goo-goo moo-moo poo-poo binfant.

A baby sleeps best on its stomach, so place it that way in its crib. Then to make sure it will not turn itself over during the night, lay a soft but fairly heavy object on its back—another baby, for instance.

All you need is a little patience and a lot of love.

So, as you see, raising a baby is no great problem. All you need is a little patience and a lot of love. Also diapers, rompers, soakers, crib, mattress, sheets, bumpers, blankets, high chair, diapers, talcum, baby oil, fish liver oil, paregoric, diapers, safety pins, cotton, cotton covered toothpicks, bottles, diapers, nipples, diapers, bottle brushes, booties, diapers, nighties, wrappers, diapers, rattles, teething rings, pacifiers, diapers, and unlimited funds.

© Max Shulman, 1956

When Baby is fast asleep—the little angel!—why not relax and give yourself a treat? With Philip Morris, of course! Made in long size and regular by the sponsors of this column.

Aussie Swim Team Beats States in Relay

Melbourne, (U.P.) — Australia's crack 800-meter relay swimming team whipped the U. S. by a solid 20 yards in the only Olympic championship decided Sunday night, but Mrs. Pat McCormick of Lakewood, Calif., headed for the third gold medal of her career by rushing into the lead after six rounds in springboard diving.

Smashing anchor leg swimming by Jon Henricks, handsome 21-year-old Olympic 100-meter freestyle champion, gave the Aussies a new world record of 8:23.6. Only four yards ahead of Ford Konno of Honolulu when he started his final leg, Henricks splashed so quickly he left Konno as if he were treading water.

The U. S. was second by five yards over Russia with Japan a fast-closing fourth.

Mrs. McCormick, a 26-year-old housewife who won two gold medals in the 1952 Olympics, easily led the 12 qualifiers for tomorrow night's springboard final.

Redwine, 6-5 center; Sterling Gibson, 6-3 forward; Royce Elam, 5-11 forward; Bobby Wilson, 6-4 forward; and Logan Cummings, 6-3 guard.

Last season the Red Raiders won the Border conference championship for the third successive year. This year they are operating as independents, since they will be unable to compete in the Southwest conference until next season. Tech was accepted by Southwest conference schools as a new member.

Giants Near Pro Crown

By UNITED PRESS

Frank (Merriwell) Gifford of the New York Giants will provide a big problem for the Detroit Lions or Chicago Bears in the National Football league's championship game Dec. 30 at Yankee stadium.

New York isn't counting play-off swag yet, but it virtually clinched the Eastern division title Sunday by defeating the Washington Redskins, 28-14.

The Green Bay Packers gave Gifford and his teammates a hefty assist by edging the second-place Chicago Cardinals, 24-21 to enable New York to take a 1½-game lead with only two games remaining.

Detroit showed the spirit and skill that helped it rule the league two years ago while regaining the Western division lead with a 42-10 triumph over the Chicago Bears.

The Lions, trailing the bears by a half-game, had to win and did it handily as Bobby Layne passed for two touchdowns and ran for another. The Lions now lead the Bears by a half-game and each club has two more games.

Pre-Enrollment Favored By Senior Pre-Enrollees

"Are we all through?" This show of amazement expressed the thoughts of many of the 316 seniors who took advantage of the first day of pre-enrollment yesterday, according to E. M. Gerritz, registrar.

All 316 were processed in three and one-half hours, he said. "We are well pleased with the pre-enrollment process so far, and the students seem to be too."

After the first big rush at 1 p.m., the stream of students steadied down and the process speeded up considerably, Gerritz said.

"I timed one student who came in the door at 2 p.m. He was finished by 2:22 p.m.," he said.

The 300 processed yesterday is about the average number expected to pre-enroll each day until December 21. "We figure about 4,000 students will take advantage of the plan," he said.

Figures released by Gerritz this morning show that 91 Arts and Sciences students pre-enrolled, 92 Engineering and Architecture, 62 Agriculture, 36 Home Ec, 25 Vet Medicine, and 10 Graduate students. Of these figures, 259 are men and 57 are women.

Gerritz suggested that students come at a later time than 1 p.m., to make the process move along faster and at a more even rate.

UGB Will Host Region Confab

The program council of the K-State Union will host the Association of Colleges and Universities regional conference here December 7 and 8.

About 70 delegates are expected from the four-state area which includes Kansas, Missouri, Iowa, and Nebraska, according to Loren Kottner. K-State was selected as the site for this year's conference by the delegates at Pittsburg last year.

Special entertainment and hospitality will be provided delegates by members of the ten Union committees.

President McCain will be the keynote speaker at the Friday night banquet. Staff members on the program are A. L. Pugsley, dean of academic administration; Herbert J. Wunderlich, dean of students; Prof. John F. Helm, architecture and allied arts department; Bob Alexander, program adviser; and Loren V. Kottner, Union director.

Cats Win 90-84 Over Texas Tech

Jack Parr and sophomore Bob Boozer scored 27 points apiece last night at Lubbock, Texas, to lead K-State to a 90-84 basketball victory over Texas Tech and gain its second straight win of the young season.

It was Parr who carried the load in the second half after the Texans had slowed Boozer to only free throws in the final half. Parr's field goal and free throw in the final minute of play provided the needed margin for the Wildcat win.

The Cats got off to an early lead and were tied once, 2-2, after less than a minute had gone by. After the knot, K-State was never again headed although Tech drew to within one point late in the second half.

K-State completely dominated the first half play hitting over half its field goal attempts and going out at intermission with a 61-48 bulge.

The Cats hit 48.5 per cent of their shots in the game. Texas could do no better than 40 per cent of its field goal attempts.

In the second half the tables turned as Texas Tech blistered the boards while K-State controlled the ball with a semi-stall with about six minutes left in the game that turned into a full scale freeze as the final buzzer neared.

Hayden Abbott made 16 points to be third high scorer for the Wildcats and guard Eddie Wallace grabbed 11 points to be the fourth Cat in the double figure scoring.

But it was Parr with his 18 rebounds that kept the Cats going in their cold second half.

Manhattan Audience Likes Violinist Rabin

By MARCIA BOYD

Violinist Michael Rabin, presented by the Manhattan Artist Series, gave an excellent performance before an enthusiastic crowd of 1,000 in the College auditorium last night.

The attentive audience gave young Rabin two encores. The numbers played in addition to his regular program were "The Maiden With the Flaxen Hair" by DeBussey, and the "Habanera" from Carmen by Bizet. "Habanera" was exceptionally well-received by the audience.

Rabin was assisted by Leon Pommers at the piano who was also well-liked by the audience.

Rabin, now only 20, appeared as the youngest soloist on the Telephone hour in 1950. Since then, he has soloed with many orchestras throughout the country and has successfully toured Europe.

Last night's program was: Adagio in E major by Mozart; Sonata, Op. 13 by Faure; Poeme, Op. 25 by Chausson; Slavonic Dance-No. 2 by Dvorak-Kreisler; Burleska, Op. 17, No. 4 by Suk; Nigun, from "Baal Shem" Suite by Bloch; and Romanian Folk Dances by Bartok.

Entomology Professor Died Last Evening

Harry R. Bryson, 64, associate professor of entomology at Kansas State College, died at his home in Manhattan Monday evening.

He had been in ill health for some time, but still taught part time at the College.

Bryson joined the K-State staff in 1924 as assistant in entomology courses. He was active on several campus committees and did research on chinch bug control. A national authority on soil insects and ecology, Bryson was co-author of two state board of agriculture bulletins and wrote many articles for scientific journals.

Bryson is survived by his wife, Gladys Musser Bryson, formerly of Jewell, and two children, William Ronald, a K-State student, and Gladys Kathleen, junior at Manhattan high school, all of the home at 1821 Leavenworth.

Burlew-Cowan funeral home is in charge of arrangements.

SC Will Hear ROTC Change Motion Tonight

A possible alternation of ROTC requirements for K-State students will be proposed at a Student Council meeting tonight.

If the proposal is passed, a committee of three Council members and three other students will be chosen to investigate possible changes such as shortening the two-year required ROTC training.

A committee for motor vehicle operation and parking will recommend to the Council that all proposed buildings with access to a street have a drive-in similar to the one in front of the Student Union.

The campus industries committee and the KSU committee will also make reports at the meeting.

The campus industries committee will report on its efforts to get a weaving industry established in Manhattan. The committee will also report on a survey which will be made during enrollment. The survey will give information such as student skills, time available, and the number of students available for jobs.

The KSU committee has been working on the possibility of a name change for K-State. President McCain told the committee that at a recent meeting with the presidents of other land grant colleges, he found no definite trend toward a name change at this time.

Barbara Starnes Elected 'Miss Wildcat'

Barbara Starnes, DIM Jr, representing Alpha Delta Pi, was elected "Miss Wildcat of 1957." Her picture will appear on the cover of the K-State calendar and as Miss January.

The 11 runners-up, whose pictures also will appear on the other 11 months are:

Becky Culpepper, EEd Jr, Kappa Kappa Gamma; Lois Schick, HT Soph, Kappa Delta; Joan Smith, ChW Sr, Waltham; Judy Gladish, BMT Soph, Delta Delta Delta; Kay Chamness, EEd Soph, Chi Omega; Ilene Davey, HT Soph, Clovia; Dee French, EEd Soph, Alpha Xi Delta.

Mary Eaton, BMT Soph, Van Zile; Charlotte Strah, HEA Fr, Pi Beta Phi; Sandra Tenerio Ar 01, Northwest hall, and Donna Geis, PEW Soph.

About 1,000 votes were cast in the "Miss Wildcat" competition, according to Darrel Miller, TJ Sr. The calendars will be available sometime before Christmas. Calendars may still be ordered in Kedzie 103A for 25 cents each.

Finalists Chosen For Military Queen

Five finalists for Military ball queen have been chosen by members of Scabbard and Blade, honorary army ROTC fraternity.

The finalists are Sherri Shellenberger, EEd Soph, Chi Omega; Marlene Young, EEd Jr, Delta Delta Delta; Karen Skiver, Soc Jr, Pi Beta Phi; Donna Sarge, Psy Soph, Waltham; and Doris Geis, PE Soph, Van Zile.

The queen will be announced at the ball, December 14. Besides reigning as queen at the ball, she will be regimental commander at the annual spring army ROTC review.

The Military ball, which is a formal affair, will be in the Student Union at 9 p.m. Jimmy Kieth's orchestra will provide the music.

Indonesian Affairs Directed By Non-Partisan President

By MARCIA BOYD

INDONESIA HAS 15 political parties in contrast with the United States two-party system, according to Mo An Thio, ChE Fr.

"The main parties include the Nationalist, the Moslem, called Mnashume, Socialist, and Communist. But when the president is elected, he is to be the head of all parties and not show any partisanship," Thio said.

THIO SAID that the Communist party in Indonesia has a lot of members, but since President Subarno is a Nationalist, they have little direct government control.

Thio, a native of Semarang, Indonesia, is attending Kansas State on a scholarship from the Standard Vacuum Petroleum company where he has been employed for the past six years. After his graduation, he will return to the company's affiliate in Indonesia.

HE ALSO attended the Technical University of Indonesia in Bandung for one year before he was employed by Standard Vacuum.

"The studies at K-State are easier, but the language barrier makes it harder for me. At the Technical University, Dutch was the leading language. However, the instructors spoke Indonesian, German, and English as well," said Thio.

THIO SPEAKS two languages as well as his native Indonesian. Dutch was taught to school children in the lower grades, and he learned English from the Standard Vacuum company.

"Indonesian schooling is now compulsory, and illiteracy is slowly being wiped out," Thio said. "We have six years of elementary education and six years of high school which is split into junior and senior high. If the student knows he doesn't want to go on to college, he can enter a trade school where such subjects as business administration, carpentry, and machine shop are taught," he said.

INDONESIA IS a young island republic which includes over 1,000 islands in the East Indies. The nation proclaimed their independence from the Dutch in 1945, and was recognized by the world several years later.

"The Dutch are still in the country giving us technical assistance and their troops are still stationed on the islands," Thio said. "We have our own army and although it is not now organized so that everyone must serve a few years, we expect it soon," he added.

INDONESIA HAS a rather diversified economy. Illustrating this, Thio said, "We export large quantities of coffee, tea, and rubber; and tin, oil, tobacco, sugar, and spices are also a main part of our economy."

Thio said he was well orientated before coming to the U.S., but expected to be in a larger city. "Other Indonesians who had come to the United States on the same scholarship as mine came home to visit and told much about this country," he said.

"THERE ARE a lot of differences, but I wasn't surprised at them." One thing Thio found most outstanding was the differences in food. "Rice is our main food as opposed to meat in the United States." As to climate, Thio said the weather is warmer and more humid in Indonesia which makes Kansas seem very comfortable. "I've never seen snow," he said.

"The differences I see aren't actually differences because I was expecting them. I haven't been here long enough to say yet just how I feel about the United States, but it won't take too long to become accustomed to your country," Thio said.

Kissing Ban Taken 'Tongue-in-Cheek'

By UNITED PRESS

MILWAUKEE—Good night kisses are taboo at Marquette university, but coeds are taking the ban in better spirits than their escorts.

Mrs. Mabel McElligott, dean of women, said "absolutely no loitering will be permitted around buildings and vestibules" is the rule and it applies to good nights at the girls' dormitories.

"IT'S THE SAME as any other rule—just like having to mark your sheets for the laundry," said one dorm resident, who admitted her fiancé was not in the city at the moment.

The Marquette Tribune, the student newspaper, which set off the reaction to the no-kissing rule with a lead story last week, has taken a tongue-in-cheek stand on the problem.

JINNY SIMPSON, an editorial columnist, advised her fellow coeds:

"Ladies: once inside the door wait for it to slam shut between you and your date. Then turn quickly and press nose against the glass, staring wistfully after him. When he turns to look back, wave pensively, longingly. Then run upstairs and wait for the phone to ring."

A COED who had transferred from another college said last night she hoped the Dean's edict "doesn't make us look like prudes here."

She said the good night situation at Marquette was neither better nor worse than at her former college.

"Girls just know what they should and what they shouldn't do," she said.

MRS. McELLIGOTT said, "The reason behind the action (stricter enforcement of dorm rules) is that we have to point up rules of good conduct and behavior. We are taking the place of parents and we are pointing out to the girls, just as parents wouldn't want their daughters bringing discredit on their individual homes, so we're trying to show them that by their behavior they bring credit or discredit to residence halls."

Miss Simpson summed up her editorial in the Tribune advising coeds that "for a week night date, nothing beats a good sturdy handshake."

A TIGHT SITUATION developed when both the car and the truck parked illegally. This traffic violation occurred just east of Anderson hall at the start of the daily noon hour traffic rush. Directly in front of the truck can be seen a no parking sign.

At Least 9 Dead, 400 Hurt In $15 Million Bronx Blast

By LANCE GILMORE

New York, Dec. 4—Federal and local authorities searched for evidence of sabotage today in the flaming wake of a $15 million Brooklyn waterfront explosion which destroyed the city's largest pier, killed at least nine persons, and injured some 400 others.

Two seamen were questioned about a mysterious telephone call made before the blast.

Fireboats and hundreds of firemen still fought the blaze this morning more than 12 hours after it broke out on the Luckenbach steamship line pier about 3:15 p.m. EST, yesterday.

Fire commissioner Edward F. Cavanaugh, Jr. described the disaster as the "worst fire in the history of New York harbor." He said he thought the bomb-like explosion was too tremendous to result from even the highly flammable cargo stored on the pier.

FBI agents, navy intelligence men, police detectives, and fire department officials joined in an all-out, "scientific" investigation of the possibility of sabotage.

One important lead was an anonymous telephone call received by the New York Times two hours before the fire. A male voice promised that "something big" would happen on a Brooklyn pier during the afternoon.

UN Troops Effect Withdrawal

London, Dec. 4—United Nations emergency forces (UNEF) poured into the Sinai desert and the Port Said area today to enforce the withdrawal of British, French, and Israeli invasion forces. The Arab world hailed the move as a monumental victory.

But danger flags still flew in the volatile Middle East. Egypt and the United Nations were in disagreement over means of reopening the Suez canal. Israel indicated it would not give back to Egypt all of the Sinai desert.

The United States said work on clearing the canal should go ahead "without delay" and that operation of the canal should be independent of Egyptian politics. Egypt reaffirmed its sovereignty over the canal zone and said salvage work would not start until the last invader left.

The tension between Syria and Israel remained high and there was still the danger of an outbreak involving those two nations and possibly Jordan, Iraq, and Turkey. The United States and its south European allies were alerted for possible new emergencies in the Mediterranean.

Beat Negro-Aiding Minister

Clinton, Tenn., Dec. 4—A young white Baptist minister was severely beaten by a group of pro-segregationists today after he led a "safety brigade" that returned six Negro students to integrated Clinton high school.

A witness to the attack on a downtown Clinton street said six white men and one woman pursued the Rev. Paul Turner, 33, "like a pack of hounds" and cornered him in front of the local Southern Bell telephone exchange.

Turner was beaten harshly on the face. His nose was dripping blood, one eye was pink, and his nose was cut. One man was arrested after the fracas.

A few minutes before the attack, Turner and two volunteer aides escorted six Negro students back to classes at the racially-troubled school that has been a hotbed of tension for three months. The school's nine Negro students have remained away from classes for four days because of threats and harassment by whites.

Sigma Chi Beats Acacia To Keep Record Clean

Sigma Chi knocked Acacia from the unbeaten ranks, 33-26, last night in intramural basketball play.

The win left Sigma Chi with a perfect record with only Beta Theta Pi and Phi Kappa Tau barring the way to a Group IV championship.

Jim Shields pumped in 14 points for the winners to nose Acacia's Larry Harding for scoring honors. Harding had 12.

Sigma Chi led 16-14 at half-time, and did not break up the game until the closing minutes of play.

In other action, YMCA led 19-12 at half-time over the Jones Boys, and increased that margin to 36-26 by the game's end. Darrell Rosenow hit 16 YMCA points for game scoring honors.

Delta Tau Delta overcame a 7-6 Theta Xi halftime lead to win, 33-27. Bill Patton hit 12 points for the Delts.

Pi Kappa Alpha took a 16-5 edge at intermission, then added two more points to their lead to beat Delta Sigma Phi, 28-15. Mike Rankin scored eight points for the Pikes.

Alpha Gamma Rho out-pointed Kappa Sigma, 6-4 in the second half, but could not overcome the 13-10 Kappa Sig halftime margin and fell, 17-16.

Sigma Phi Epsilon allowed Farm House only six points while winning 24-6. Charles Carl hit 11 Sig Ep points. Halftime score was 8-4, Eps.

Mack Boelling guided Delta Upsilon to a 25-5 win over Alpha Epsilon Pi with 10 points.

Tau Kappa Epsilon held on to a 14-5 intermission lead, to win 22-21 over a rallying Alpha Tau Omega team. The ATO's hit 16 points to eight for the Tekes in the last period.

Beta Theta Pi ran up a 22-6 halftime lead, then coasted to a 35-9 win over Phi Kappa Tau. The Betas allowed Phi Kappa Tau just three second half points while getting 13.

Wilt Stilts KU Score with -52

Lawrence, (U.P.)—Wilt (The Stilt) Chamberlain made his varsity debut for Kansas last night and immediately started to re-write the basketball record books with a sizzling 52-point performance in the 87-69 victory over Northwestern.

His brilliant display shattered the Kansas individual scoring record of 44 points set by Clyde Lovellette in 1952.

Buff Coach To Speak at Banquet

Dal Ward, Orange-Bowl bound coach of Colorado's Buffaloes, will be featured speaker at K-State's annual football awards banquet here today.

The Buffaloes won bowl honors and second place in the Big Seven with an impressive 4-1-1 record.

The Wildcat banquet, held in K-State's Union starting at 6:30 p.m. is a cooperative venture of the Manhattan Chamber of Commerce and the Wildcat athletic department.

Both varsity and freshman football players will be honored at the event. The Cats' "Most Inspirational Player" will be named; and next season's grid captain will be elected by the squad. K-State completed the 1956 season with its Michigan State game, November 24.

Toastmaster for the banquet will be Dr. Howard Hill, former head of the K-State speech department.

Tickets for the occasion (priced at $2.50 each) are on sale through the Wildcat ticket office and the Manhattan Chamber of Commerce office.

$450,000 Needed

Kansas State May Receive New Student Health Soon

The tentative construction date for a new 40-bed, two-story student health building is next spring or summer, according to Dr. Benjamin Lafene.

Preliminary plans have been completed, but final agreement must yet be reached and specifications are to be drawn up at a later date. Charles and John Shaver of Salina are the architects.

"We're asking the 1957 legislature for $450,000 to construct the building," said President McCain.

The building will be T-shaped, 170 feet long by 170 feet wide. It will be constructed on the site where the student health building is now located.

"We plan to build and still maintain service," said Lafene. "We've considered removing the wing up to the waiting room and east end of the present hospital wing. As soon as these are replaced by the new building we'll move into them and tear down the remainder of the old portion."

The second story will extend only over the north and south wings of the building, an extension over the west wing is proposed shortly after construction is completed to meet the demand of expected increased enrollment, according to Lafene.

The entrance will be a one-story extension facing Farrell Library, and will contain the lobby and business office.

Eight foot wide corridors extending through the three wings can provide waiting room space outside the various offices.

The south wing will contain doctor's consultation offices, five examination rooms, director's and secretaries' office, and a departmental library. The director's office can be used for an examination room if the demand is great enough. The library will eventually be moved into the basement when the necessary funds are available.

The one-story west wing will be occupied by an emergency room, kitchen, staff rooms, and a dining room.

The north wing will provide two physical therapy rooms for men and women which will provide space for short wave and infra-red diathermy treatment. There will be one hydrotherapy room with a whirlpool bath, and a room for ultraviolet treatment.

The second floor will be equipped to accommodate 40 patients. There will be two beds to a room, arranged in two room units. Each unit will be serviced by a toilet. Each room will be equipped with its own lavatory. Centrally in each wing will be a bath with two showers and a tub.

An elevator and stairs will give access to the second floor. A 20 foot by 16 foot sundeck will be constructed near the stairway. A nursing station will be centrally located on the second floor.

Student Council Lacks Quorum; Nothing Done

No official action was taken last night at Student Council meeting because the group lacked a quorum. The Council had decided to meet last night because of the Artist Series program on Monday, but several members were ill and others had conflicting activities.

Several items were discussed, but no action will be taken until Monday night.

Neil Scott reported on the regional National Students association conference at Atchison, December 1. Scott said that because the conference covered only the Kansas area, KU and K-State had more to offer concerning ideas on student government, but that these two schools did not benefit greatly.

Danforth Grants Offered To 1957 Grad Students

The Danforth foundation, an educational trust fund, is offering fellowship grants to men planning to enter graduate school in September, 1957. Dr. Earl Edgar, Danforth liaison officer, has announced. All applications and recommendations must be completed by January 31, 1957.

"The foundation welcomes applicants from the areas of natural and biological sciences, social sciences, humanities and all fields of specialization to be found in an undergraduate college," Edgar said.

A Danforth winner is free to use his fellowship at any accredited university in the United States. Appointment is for one year but may be renewed if his grades are satisfactory.

Edgar explained that a Danforth fellow is allowed to carry other scholarship appointments, such as Rhodes, Fulbright, and Woodrow Wilson. However, he must complete them before he is entitled to receive Danforth benefits.

"The maximum annual grant is $1800 for single men and $2400 for married men, with an additional stipend for children. Students with or without financial need are invited to apply," he said.

Candidates will be judged on the basis of academic ability, personality, integrity, and character. Consideration is given to applicants with deep rootage in a non-Christian faith if they are willing to accept fellowship in a Christian group.

Winners are expected to attend the annual Danforth foundation conference, September 28, at Camp Miniwanka, Michigan. Their traveling expenses will be paid for by the foundation, Edgar said.

STUDENT ART on display on the second floor of the Engineering building is looked over by Dick Scrogin, ApM Jr, and Jerry Exline, Ar 02. The display includes several examples of sculpturing, in different mediums, and works done in pencil and other flat-work tools.

Student Art Exhibit Is Largest at KS

Art work done by 100 K-State College students will be placed in the K-State Union from December 7 to 20.

The art objects are now on exhibition in the galleries of department of architecture and allied arts on the second floor of the engineering building.

This is the largest display of student art ever assembled at the College. All of the work was done this fall in drawing, painting, composition, and sculpture classes.

The display is a representative cross-section of the work being taught in the department. The exhibit includes 5 oils, 31 watercolors, 26 figure drawings largely in charcoal, 95 beginning class drawings in charcoal, pencil, and pen and ink. It also contains 17 sculptures in limestone, plaster, wood, and tile mosaic.

Students in beginning drawing classes start out using the A B C's of art. They begin with the basic forms of blocks, balls, bottles, cylinders, cones, and cubes. Gradually, they go into more complex compositions with tone values.

Students in basic composition start on simple arrangements in line and mass, and later study color theory. The creative approach is stressed in all classes.

Oscar V. Larmer, assistant professor in architecture and allied arts said, "It's not just a matter of reproducing, but good hard thinking."

Staters Are Well Pleased With Pre-Enrollment Plan

By MARY WEILAND

TWO DAYS of pre-enrollment are over, and most K-Staters who have gone through the process are strongly in favor of it.

The time previously spent on enrolling has been cut down, they say. They are looking forward to the between-semester vacation which has always been cut short by enrollment.

"I like it! It took me only 20 minutes to get through," was the reaction of Karen Chapman, Sp Sr.

DONALD CANFIELD, AEd Sr—It's a very fine idea. It saves a lot of time and probably a lot of mix-ups.

NORMA BROWN, HDA Sr—It's one of the best things that has happened to K-State in a long time. It helps us get the schedules we want. And it sure save a lot of time.

MARILYN HOON, HT Sr—Good idea. I'd rather do it this way than come back between semesters to enroll. It'll make vacation longer. I think if we pulled course cards like before, it would go even faster. When I enrolled there was a line waiting to pull theirs.

WAYNE KINCAID, AEd Sr—Pretty good deal. It only took me 20 minutes. We've needed it for a long time.

JANICE GROH, HT Jr—I think it's good. The method of pulling cards could be better organized.

LAWRENCE STOVER, ChE Sr—There's no comparison to the time saved—from three hours to 25 minutes. It's really great!

MARY LOU VOGELMAN, DIM Sr—I think it's an excellent idea. I hope they continue it.

DALE MIKSCH, AH Sr—It's alright—a lot better than the way it used to be.

MARGUERITE HOON, HT Sr—I think it's a good deal. I was one of the first to go through and it took me over an hour, but after they got organized it was fine.

ROBERT ELGAARD, BA Sr—Alright except for pulling cards. As a whole it's a lot better. We don't have to come back before school starts now.

NADINE OLTJEN, SED Sr—It really was terrific! I was one of the first ones through.

WENDELL COLE, CE Sr—There was some time saved but it doesn't make too much difference. Most of our courses are lined out anyway.

VIRGINIA ADAMSON, DIM Sr I think it's wonderful! It's so nice not to have to stand in line. I don't know why they didn't do it before.

Docking Concerned Over Tax Sources

By UNITED PRESS

TOPEKA—Gov.-elect George Docking, expressing concern with the picture of Kansas burning its tax dollar at both ends, today indicated financial woes may shove into the legislative background his project for a constitutional convention.

The incoming governor said he doubted if he would propose any measures in the January legislature to call a convention which would sit to the task of rewriting the state's 98-year-old constitution.

HE HAD pledged to work for a convention call in general election stumping, saying that such men might be asked as convention delegates as Gov. Fred Hall, former Gov. Alf Landon and former Democratic governor Harry Woodring.

"The big problem now is getting this budget ready," Docking said.

"THE GEOGRAPHICAL makeup of the state, the variance of the economic life, the size alone of Kansas make the work of writing a new constitution a tremendous problem," he said.

"To coordinate all this and write it into a new constitution would take a good deal of thought and time."

DOCKING HAS warned of a "government of austerity" for Kansas since budget hearings formally opened last Wednesday. He will prepare his budget for submission to the 1957 legislature based on testimony from department heads being interviewed now.

The first Democratic governor in Kansas, in 20 years said his administration "inherited a state without money."

HE HAS SAID "new sources of revenue must be found" if current expenditures are to continue, but has made no definite commitments on whether this means new or arised taxes would be in his budget message.

The incoming banker-governor said "members of both parties" have made suggestions about new tax sources,

CONFRONTED BY a picture of the Kansas tax dollar starting to shrink at one end because of lessening revenues and at the other end of more demands due to expanding services, Docking says some signs he will pare to the bone all money requests.

This would, in effect, hand the legislature the problem of meeting the cries of need from such departments as education, health, and highways.

CURTAILING the expenditures of these and some other departments would mean Kansas would have to bypass or limit participation in several lush federal programs, which are offered on a matching basis, with the state putting up so much of the program's funds.

I REALLY hate to do this, kids, but George Vohs thinks we should crack down on traffic violators.

Dead Week' Would Lighten Burden of Final Cramming

Dear Editor:

AS THE END of the semester nears, we are bound to be faced with the same problem we encounter every semester . . . the last-minute cramming for finals further confused by the inevitable written reviews and makeup quizzes. Not all students are burdened with this time-consuming problem, but this issue was brought up in a coffee hour "gripe session" at the Student Union.

The University of Texas has found a satisfactory solution in what they call "Dead Week." The following statement is contained in their General Information Catalogue: "To encourage preparation for examinations, the faculty has further ruled that during the last six class days of each semester, before examinations, no written examinations or reviews shall be given."

THIS ATTACHED statement also appears in the University publication, Final Announcement of Courses.

I think that Dead Week is an excellent suggestion for any college not only for students, but also for the faculty. By this method, students can devote their full time for studying exams unhindered by works other than preparation for daily classes.—Sally Carney, Eng Soph.

Last Week Before the Final Examinations

The last seven days before final examinations in each semester have come to be designated as "Dead Week." Desiring to allow students a week for review unhindered by work other than the preparation for their daily classes, the University has adopted the following regulations:

1. These practices are not permitted during Dead Week:
 - a. The giving of quizzes or written reviews covering more than half that day's assignment.
 - b. The giving of make-up quizzes (except as noted below under 3b).

- c. The giving of any part of a final examination.
2. These assignments must be handed in before the beginning of Dead Week:
 - a. Term papers, including all essays, theses, synopsis, and the like.
 - b. Term projects, including any type of project which is assigned for completion outside regular class hours.
3. These practices are permitted during Dead Week:
 - a. Assigning advance work daily (including daily problems), and the giving of a short quiz covering the assignment for that day.
 - b. Giving postponed quizzes for individual students who present acceptable excuses for not having taken the regular quiz.
 - c. Accepting postponed papers and projects from individual students who present acceptable excuses for delay.

Humor, Career Work Win Honors for Staters

On the heels of being named an All-American newspaper, the Collegian has been honored for having two of the "funniest" writers in the country.

Darrel Miller, TJ Sr, and Gary Haynes, TJ Sr, have received word that they have won the Joel Walperin award for humorous writing, given by the Comedy Workshop of Chicago.

Columns by Miller and Haynes on college life appearing in "Wise and Otherwise" columns last spring won the first prize, a $25 bond. Miller, who was editor of the spring Collegian, received an additional $5.

"I guess the editor gets paid for having enough courage to print some of that stuff," Miller commented.

The judges, not knowing which of the five columns entered had been written by whom, gave up the ship deciding who to pay, and made the check out to the registrar.

The two winners could not be reached for further comment. It is reported they were in the registrar's office trying to cash the check.

Wilma Ludwig, HET Sr was awarded the Delta Kappa Gamma $100 scholarship at a meeting of the honorary professional organization of women teachers Wednesday. Applicants were judged on academic ability, professional promise and merit.

Barbara David, HDA Fr, is one of 12 national winners in 4-H club clothing projects.

Announcement of the award came at Chicago Monday where Miss David attended the National 4-H club Congress as state award winner in clothing. Her award is a $300 college scholarship.

K-State Rated 18th in Nation, Wilt, Jayhawks Picked First

New York, (U.P.)—In an amazing tribute to a basketball player who had yet to appear in his first college game, the United Press board of coaches today chose Kansas, with Wilt (The Stilt) Chamberlain, as the No. 1 team in the pre-season national ratings.

K-State, with two wins out of two tries so far this season, was picked number 18th in the nation.

Louisville, winner of last year's National Invitation tournament and still boasting 6-foot-8 star Charley Tyra at center, was picked second in the ballots and North Carolina nosed out Illinois for the third spot.

The board, made up of 35 outstanding coaches whose ratings have become accepted as a standard in the game, thus put an unqualified stamp of approval on Chamberlain, the 7-foot Philadelphia who is so good that a professional team drafted him while he was still in high school.

The coaches cast their ballots before any games had been played this season—before Chamberlain made his brilliant varsity debut Monday night by setting school records of 52 points and 31 rebounds in an 87-69 rout of Northwestern.

Louisville has virtually the same squad as last year's N.I.T. champions, less Phil Rollins, but is under an NCAA ban from any post-season play this year.

Cach Frank McGuire of North Carolina has a solid squad built around 6-5 Lenny Rosenbluth, who averaged 26.7 points a game last year.

Kansas received the first-place votes of 19 of the 35 coaches, while Louisville received 13, and one each went to North Carolina, Illinois and Cincinnati.

Dayton, runner-up in last year's N.I.T., nabbed sixth place as the only other squad to top the century mark in points with 103.

Temple took seventh place as San Francisco, national champion for the last two years, sank to No. 8 with the graduation of all-American Bill Russell and K. C. Jones. St. Louis was a close ninth and Western Kentucky edged into the top 10.

The second 10 included, in order: West Virginia, Oklahoma City, Oregon State, Kentucky, Washington, a tie for 16th between St. John's and North Carolina State; then Kansas State, Wyoming, and Vanderbilt.

U.S. Swimmer Sets Mark

Melbourne, (U.P.) — Husky George Breen of Buffalo, N.Y., shattered the world record for the 1,500-meter freestyle swim tonight. He won his qualifying trial for the Olympic championship with a spectacular clocking of 17:52.9.

The burly blond cracked the old record of 17:59.5 set earlier this year by 17-year-old Murray Rose of Australia and thereby became the second man in history to swim the "metric mile" under 18 minutes. Rose set the Olympic record this afternoon at 18:04.1.

That trial heat victory by Breen made him a favorite to snatch a gold medal for the U. S. in Friday night's final, but by then the Russians were expected to have a solid lead in the team race.

The U. S. scored 17 points in yachting today, including one victory for its 30th gold medal of the games.

Rainsberger Captain; Nesmith 'Inspirational'

With the announcement of Kenny Nesmith as the recipient of the Most Inspirational Player award and a repeat of team captain honors for Ellis Rainsberger, the 1956 football season came to a close with the banquet in the Student Union last night.

Nesmith joins four other former Wildcats that have been presented the highest football award at K-State. The award is given annually to the senior member of the squad getting the highest number of votes by his teammates. Nesmith was alternate captain of the Cats during the past season.

Rainsberger, who was praised by Coach Bus Mertes for his splendid leadership during the past season, was selected to captain the team again next season by a vote of the members of the football team.

Capping off the evening program was a speech by Dallas Ward, head coach of the Orange Bowl bound Colorado Buffaloes, who told the 350 guests attending the 38th annual football banquet, that his Colorado team finished their season a year ago with the same type record as K-State had this year.

"Our only goal this season was to make the Orange Bowl trip and although our sights were set high, they were never out of reach," said the Colorado grid coach.

"This Kansas State club can set the same goal for next season and with a lot of work can make the trip next year," remarked Ward.

Speaking of the Orange Bowl, Ward pointed out that the Colorado team was going to the bowl game with the idea that they were representing the Big Seven conference in Miami and that his team would play the type of game that would make the selection committee want to keep the contract with the conference. There has been some talk of dropping the agreement.

Speaking just before Ward, Mertes reviewed the past season and told of the teams "ups and downs" of the campaign.

He emphasized the way the club continued to work hard and keep "up" for coming games after suffering three opening setbacks, followed by a single victory and then three more defeats. "This is the sign of a great club," remarked Mertes.

Two other awards were also made with captain-elect Rainsberger making the presentation.

The first was an autographed football to be given to McDill Boyd, Mankato, a graduate and former athlete at K-State for being the "most loyal K-State fan."

KENNY NESMITH, right, and Ellis Rainsberger hold the "Most Inspirational Player," award given to Nesmith last night at the annual football banquet in the Student Union. Rainsberger was voted 1957 grid team captain.

UN Demands Consent To Hungary Observers

By LANCE GILMORE

United Nations, N.Y., Dec. 5—The General Assembly demanded early today that Russia and Hungary consent by Friday to let United Nations observers onto Hungarian soil.

The assembly overwhelmingly adopted a 14-nation resolution containing the ultimatum as Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjöld waited for a reply from Budapest on his request to go to Hungary December 16.

Hungarian Foreign Minister Imre Horvath relayed the request to his government after a 20-minute conference with Hammarskjöld last night. He had hoped to get an immediate reply but when the General Assembly broke up at 2 a.m. CST today he still did not have it.

Hammarskjöld also asked Horvath for permission to send Philippe De Seynes, U.N. deputy under-secretary for economic and social affairs, to Budapest this Sunday to make advance arrangements for the secretary-general's visit.

The vote on the resolution, which the United States co-sponsored, was 54 to 10 with 14 absences. The nine-nation Soviet bloc and Yugoslavia opposed it, India and 12 other Afro-Asian nations abstained and Finland joined them. South Africa was absent.

Satellites Alarm Russia

Soviet Russia is showing signs of acute alarm over the situation in Romania and Bulgaria.

Widespread unrest is reported also in Albania, the tiny Communist satellite country on the Adriatic sea opposite Italy.

Communist leaders in East Germany and Czechoslovakia seem to be increasingly nervous over the possibility of outbreaks in their countries.

Taken together, dispatches indicate strongly that Russia's grip on its satellite empire is being challenged all over Eastern Europe as the result of the revolts in Poland and Hungary.

It is reported that a large part of the Romanian army is being disarmed as a safeguard against its possible participation in a popular uprising. A Moscow communique announced on Monday that Soviet troops sent to Romania during the Hungarian revolt will remain there "temporarily."

Strong forces of Soviet troops have been moved into Bulgaria. Dispatches say a number of Bulgarian army officers have been dismissed as untrustworthy. There is a split in the Bulgarian Communist leadership.

In all of the chief satellite countries, Red leaders are watching students closely. The revolts in Poland and Hungary started with student demonstrations.

FBI Segregation Move

Clinton, Tenn., Dec. 5—A mass federal roundup of segregationist trouble makers was expected to begin here today.

Clinton high school was closed yesterday after segregationists beat a young white minister who escorted Negro students to the newly integrated school. Violence erupted again last night with a dynamite blast in a Negro neighborhood at nearby Oliver Springs.

In Washington, U.S. Attorney General Herbert Brownell Jr., warned that the government would prosecute "all persons" trying forcefully to prevent Negroes from attending Clinton high, the first state-supported school in Tennessee to attempt integration.

It was the strongest federal move yet to back up the U.S. supreme court's 1954 and 1955 school desegregation rulings.

It was reported that FBI agents had targeted as many as 18 persons for arrest by this afternoon in connection with organized molestation of the Negro students and attempts to intimidate their parents.

'Ditch Eden' Campaign

London, Dec. 5—Right-wing Conservatives opened a "ditch Eden" campaign today at start of a two-day debate in the House of Commons on Britain's unconditional withdrawal from Egypt.

Their strategy was to refuse to vote in support of Prime Minister Sir Anthony Eden's Suez policy at end of the debate tomorrow, and simultaneously to plug for a new Conservative prime minister.

They would support Eden in a vote of confidence sponsored by the opposition labor party, since failure to do so would cause the government to fall and bring on new general elections.

But they would abstain on a Conservative party resolution immediately afterward expressing confidence in Eden. Thus the conservatives would remain in power but Eden himself would be doomed.

Probe Explosion Crater

New York, Dec. 5—Divers probe an underwater crater today for clues to the Brooklyn pier explosion that killed 10 persons.

Fire Commissioner Edward F. Cavanagh Jr., said a team of experts who examined the wreckage yesterday concluded that the blast could not have been caused by any of the pier cargo listed on manifests.

Col. Joseph A. Petrolino, ordinance chief for first army headquarters, said the explosion was a "high-order detonation." He said the blast which tore a hole downward through 14 inches of asphalt and steel-reinforced concrete of the pier's deck had the force of two 4,000-pound World War II blockbuster bombs.

The explosion, which followed a fire, blasted a 75 by 100-foot hole in the reinforced pier and gouged a crater in the floor of New York Bay, 35 feet under water.

Cattle Barn To Be Finished in Spring

K-State's $79,652 animal husbandry barn, which will house the College's purebred beef cattle, is scheduled to be completed next March or April, depending on the weather, according to R. F. Gingrich, director of the physical plant.

The barn will replace the building which was destroyed by fire September, 1955. Since then, temporary buildings and any available sheds have been used. Construction of the new building began last month.

The building will be used primarily for classes in cattle judging.

The barn will be T-shaped. The portion which will house the cattle will be 148 feet by 35½ feet, and the extension containing the offices and storage room will be 48 feet by 40 feet.

In the barn will be 28 metal pipe and rod stalls. Each will have an automatic electrically heated drinking fountain. The barn will have dirt floors, according to Gingrich.

The building will be constructed of concrete blocks with a galvanized roof. It is located north and west of the veterinary research labs, and one mile from the north edge of the campus, Gingrich said.

There will be a classroom and office in the building and living quarters with accommodations for a maximum of four. Also included will be a feed storage area and a washroom for the cattle, he said.

Above the housing quarters will be a haymow serviced by a sack elevator for hauling grain.

The water line will come from the main campus lines, and the electricity will be transmitted from the central power plant.

Plans for the barn were drawn by K-State's campus planning department and the state architect, Dwight Brown. Hunter and Lundberg, Manhattan contractors, are constructing the building.

First Reaction of 'Miss Wildcat' Was Surprise

By CAROL SITZ

"Surprise" is the word that best describes the first reaction of Barbara Starnes, DIM Jr, on being elected "Miss Wildcat of 1957."

"Of course I was happy to learn I had been chosen. I also was surprised to pick up Tuesday's Collegian and see the story and picture on the contest. I had been notified of my winning, but I didn't think it would be in the paper so soon," Barbara explained.

"This was a typical contest, where you don't have any idea who will win, so you don't think about winning."

"I think all of the candidates were pretty girls. Every one of the organizations picked girls with the right qualifications for the honor of being named 'Miss Wildcat,'" she said.

As "Miss Wildcat," Barbara will appear on the cover of the 1957 Sigma Delta Chi-Theta Sigma Phi calendar and also for the month of January.

Photographs of the 11 runners-up in the contest will appear on each of the other 11 months.

Barbara has never won a beauty contest before, but she came close in 1955, when she was a finalist in the "Miss Coffeyville" contest.

Barbara attended the junior college in her home town of Coffeyville during her freshman year. Last year she transferred to K-State to major in dietetics and institutional management.

"I just think cooking and collecting recipes is fun," Barbara exclaimed. "I love to make pizza and watch television on Sunday night at home. My brother and I sit there in front of the TV set and eat pizza until we're stuffed."

Barbara confesses she is an avid television fan. Alfred Hitchcock rates high in her book for TV entertainment.

After she graduates, Barbara plans to take her required year of hospital internship in Colorado.

"This year of internship is to give dietetics and institutional management students a chance for practical experience in handling and preparing food in large quantities. We also will learn how to oversee the kitchen staff in the preparation of the food," she said.

Grades are important to Barbara, so she has not had much time to devote to clubs and other organizations.

This year she is a member of Angel Flight, the Student Union coffee hours publicity committee, and Purple Pepsters. She also is secretary for the dietetics and commercial demonstration club and assistant social chairman for Alpha Delta Pi.

Communist Party Interest Is Waning in Hongkong

By SUE GOSS

INTEREST IN the Communist party in Hongkong is waning according to Eva Cheung, DIM Jr.

"You notice that by the number of flags that are flying on their national days," said Miss Cheung. "There are many flags on the Nationalists' days, but you don't see many flags flying on the Communists' national days."

Miss Cheung is Chinese and was born in Hongkong. She lived there all her life, except three years during the Second World war, when she and her family moved to the country.

SHE HAS FOUR sisters and a brother who live in Hongkong with her parents. Mr. Cheung is principal of a high school there. Miss Cheung's older sister is planning to come to the United States next year.

A British citizen, Miss Cheung came to the United States in August of 1954, and she has not seen nor talked to her family since that time. "It was kind of bad the first year, but I am getting used to it now," she commented.

HER FIRST TWO years of college were spent at the University of Chattanooga in Tennessee, she transferred to K-State this September. "I transferred here because of the Home Economics school and I just want to change to a different school," explained

I am still confused sometimes as to which side of the road I should look at before I cross.

"AT HIGH SCHOOL and college there are as many extra-curricular activities. Of course, we have some, but there are not as many. Here there are so many you can hardly find time to go do everything you want to," she said.

The United States has a few different holidays, too, Miss Cheung explained. Citizens of Hongkong don't celebrate Thanksgiving or Halloween, but other days, such as Christmas, are special events there, too. The festivities are about the same for both countries, she said. Both of her Christmases in the United States have been spent with Chinese families.

ACTIVE IN Dietetics club and the Lutheran Students' association, Miss Cheung likes K-State and the students. "I think the Union is very nice," she commented. "Of course, the Home Economics school is very good. Students are friendly and a lot of them go out of their way to meet foreign students and make them feel at home."

Miss Cheung has travelled extensively during her stay in the United States and was impressed with the use of science throughout the country. "I have been to quite a few places, both the east and west coast. The scientific advancement is very evident all over the country, with all the modern conveniences," she said.

AFTER GRADUATION in 1958, Miss Cheung plans to work a year in a hospital or institution. She will return to Hongkong to work following this year of internship.

Eva Cheung

Miss Cheung.

When comparing the two countries, she noted little difference, primarily because of Britain's control. "It has kind of modernized or 'westernized'," she said.

"THERE ARE A few differences," Miss Cheung pointed out. "Very few people in Hongkong have hot water heaters and whenever you wanted hot water you had to boil it on the stove."

"We drive the other way around."

Students at Michigan Dorm Rebel Against 'Canine Food'

By Mary Beckmeyer

MEN'S DORMITORY meals touched off a near-riot at the University of Michigan.

Officials said the demonstration began in one men's dormitory when the diners began banging silverware and cups on the table in prison fashion and stamping their feet. The disturbance spread and the original demonstrators were joined quickly by hundreds of other students who paraded through the streets shouting "we want good food" and "no more dog food."

Police, whom the students bombarded with snowballs, managed to break up the demonstration in about an hour. A large group marched to the home of university president Harlan H. Hatcher, who was not in, and stood in front of the house chanting "we want good food."

University officials minimized the disturbance and told the students that if they had any complaint about the food to take it to the proper officials.

The meal which touched off Sunday's near-riot consisted of swiss cheese, corned beef, asparagus, vanilla pudding and milk. Monday night the students had a roast beef dinner, but of course, officials said this was not a result of the demonstration.

SEVERAL WEEKS AGO the Daily Californian had an editorial on a committee entitled "committee on occasional silence," which was waging battle against the omnipresent Hound Dog.

Joseph Cohen, head of the committee and a member of the philosophy department, had placed a novel record in the cafeteria juke box. It was a silent record—almost silent, except for a short introduction.

A member of the occasional committee or any of its supporters can place a nickel in the record machine, and a soft soothing voice will announce to the noise eaters that, "The next three minutes of silence have been paid for by a lover of silence."

As George Bernard Shaw said, "There is no accounting for tastes." It just depends on whether you enjoy eating with the gasping and sighing of Elvis in the background or if you enjoy the maturated sounds of people slurping soup and crunching celery.

Two-Thirds of Hungary Olympic Team Decide Against Returning to Homeland

by LANCE GILMORE

Melbourne, Australia, Dec. 6—More than 100 members of the Hungarian Olympic team will refuse to return to their embattled homeland and will seek political asylum in Australia and the United States, a team official said today.

Australian government sources said the immigration office was flooded with applications from Hungarian team members who wish to remain here. The Hungarians' hatred of Russia was plainly shown during a 4-0 Hungarian victory over Russia in water polo today when several fights broke out.

Hungary Total Strike Asked

Budapest, Dec. 6—Defiant calls for a "mighty" demonstration and another

"total" strike today against the Soviet-backed Janos Kadar regime threatened Hungary with a new round of hopeless bloodshed.

Tension reached fever pitch in the wake of two days of near-riotous protest demonstrations by the women of Budapest under the very guns of Russian tanks and armored cars.

Hungarians were urged to demonstrate today—St. Nicholas day—in leaflets scattered through the streets. The leaflets called also for an armed uprising but set no date.

Other posters and leaflets urged workers to walk out today in a "total" strike. Even workers in such public utilities as gas and electric power plants who remained at their posts during the previous general work stoppages were asked to strike.

Amateur Golfer Has Been Teeing Off for Ten Years; Professional Golf Grind Is Too Strenuous for the Pay

By MARCIA BOYD

"GOLF IS a real great game which can be played competitively and for enjoyment all your life," said Mary Faye Frazier, HEA Jr.

Miss Frazier is one who should know, for she has been runnerup in the women's state golf tournament three times, in 1953, 1954, and 1955, and won the Topeka women's city championship the same years. She also holds the women's course record at the Shawnee Country club in Topeka with a score of 74, three under par.

"MY FATHER started teaching me how to play golf when I was 10, but I didn't take the game seriously till I was 14," said Miss Frazier. "When I was little, I always used to follow my father around the course, and it looked like it would be a lot of fun.

MISS FRAZIER has played in seven state women's golf tournaments. Over the years, she has won nine trophies and various silver pieces.

"There wasn't any age limit for the State women's tourney when I started playing. Now any age can play in the championship flight, but if the girl can't qualify and is under 16, she must play in a separate age bracket," she said.

"My biggest thrill was playing Judy Bell of Wichita in the state finals in 1953 at the Topeka Country club. She had been the 1952 state champion, and I was amazed to think that I was able to get that far. We were both 16 at the time," said Miss Frazier.

THE LONGEST golf trip Miss Fraizer took was to the Western Junior girls tourney in Chicago four summers ago. "The Sunset Ridge golf course where we played was probably the best course I've played on, but I like the Manhattan Country club course best," she said.

Miss Fraizer has played in exhibition matches with professionals Marilyn Smith of Wichita at the Manhattan Country club, and with Patty Berg, and Betsy Rowals at the Shawnee Country club in Topeka.

She said, "Miss Berg is a lot of fun to play with, and she's a real showman during a match.

"But I don't want to be a pro because it's too hard, a grind with not enough pay. I just want to play for fun now," said Miss Frazier.

"KNITTING CAN be fun," says Marilyn Moore, MAI Soph. Marilyn learned to knit while she was recovering from an attack of scarlet fever when she was seven. "Knitting is a valuable resource, but girls don't seem to realize it," she says.

Knitting Sweaters Is Serious Business To K-State Coed Marilyn Moore

By JANICE GRAHAM

THOUGH MANY college men can boast that the brightly-colored argyles they wear are a "hand-knitted masterpiece" of a girl friend, few coeds have realized the valuable resource they have at hand if they just take the time to "knit one, pearl two, and progress," says Marilyn Moore, MAI Soph.

When Marilyn was seven years old she was stricken with scarlet fever and her mother taught her the fundamental stitches of knitting.

"I was in bed for 3 months, and mother wanted me to keep my hands busy so I wouldn't get restless. I didn't do it exactly right at first, but I thought I was knitting. Anyway, it wasn't very difficult.

"I USED UP scraps of yarn at first, and knit a long scarf. Mother and I both wore it, even though it wasn't very pretty," said Marilyn, laughingly.

WHEN ASKED if she had been discouraged in the learning process, Marilyn replied, "Oh yes, many times. I begin and never finish things. I've always liked it, though, and it's more interesting now because I like to make things for myself."

TO INTERESTED professors, Marilyn claims that her hobby does not interfere with studying. She can knit and study or watch television at the same time.

I'VE NEVER taken any of my projects to the movies, though, Marilyn said, laughingly recalling a friend who got excited as the plot developed and ended up with extra-long argyles!

Marilyn's hobby can be an advantage to girls who desire the special quality of hand-knit clothing. The cost of sweaters ranges from $30 to $40, but when she does the work herself the cost is about $7. "It really doesn't cost me much because mother owns a yarn shop," stated Marilyn.

After seeing a sweater she likes, Marilyn goes to work on it. "I design most of my clothes, sometimes they don't work out, but it's all lots of fun!" Her talented fingers are not only good at knitting, she also plays the piano and organ, sketches, and paints.

K-STATE STUDENT Gary Gruendel, IE Fr, is a typical camera bug. "Probably the most interesting experience I've had with photography was at the Baker university panty raid last year," Gary said.

Gary was a student at KU last year and heard about the plans for the infamous raid. He and several friends went to Baker with cameras and equipment.

"BY HOOKING up two big flash attachments and having my friends hold them, I photographed the scene. The Daily Kansan paid five dollars for the picture. I was the only photographer there," said Gary.

GARY'S BROTHER encouraged him to take up photography as a hobby, and taught him most of the important details. Gary learned a lot from photography books and bulletins distributed by photography companies, however, he assures other amateur photographers that experience is the best teacher.

During the summer Gary does all of his own darkroom work at his home in Kansas City.

"BY DOING your own developing and printing, you gain a better idea of what should really be in a good picture," he says.

In his darkroom, the crew-cut camera bug has his own enlarger, developing tanks, and a ferrotype print dryer. His two best cameras are a graphlex and a Weltie 35 millimeter. He estimates he has over $450 invested in this equipment.

In spite of the high expense involved, his parents don't seem to mind his hobby.

"MY PARENTS really like photography. They have never admitted it, but I imagine they think it keeps me out of trouble. I don't know, maybe it does."

Gary has turned photography into a profit several times. Insurance companies pay $2.50 for an eight-by-ten-inch glossy picture of highway wrecks. "There is quite a race to beat the newspaper photographers to the scene," says Gary.

"A LOT OF people ask me to develop their pictures for them. Too darn many! They say, 'I just took a few on my vacation.' I usually do it for them, unless they have a bunch of roll film, which is harder to develop," Gary says.

"HOLD IT for just one more shot," says Gary Gruendel as he works at his hobby. Gruendel, IE Fr, is a transfer student from the University of Kansas. He spends about five hours each week in taking and developing pictures.

American, British Athletes Cause Sydney Disturbance

Sydney, (U.P.) — British and American track and field athletes took over Coogee beach for a midnight nude swimming party early today and set off police investigations of reported boisterous conduct and drunken revelry.

Both police and American consular officials said members of the visiting track and field teams had swum nude at the suburban Sydney beach after the Commonwealth vs. United States track meet last night.

The athletes had stopped first at their hotels. Officials denied, however, that attempts had been made to overturn a taxi and tear up stop signs and bundles of newspapers.

A sergeant at the Randwick police station said complaints had been lodged by irate Coogee area residents, but he said the athletes had obediently returned to their hotels when asked to by police.

An American consular official described the revelry reports as "bunkum." Another consular official said he was "disturbed" but refused to comment further.

Randwick police inspector R. O'Neill said the complaints were when the athletes returned to their hotels and began partying.

Residents said the athletes roamed through the streets in bands, littering the premises, tearing up property and attempting to overturn a taxi.

Police closed hotels in the area, and forbade the further sale of liquor.

Reds Cinch Olympic Win

Melbourne, Dec. 6, (U.P.)—Russia clinched the team championship in the Olympic games tonight with an avalanche of points that the U.S. cannot match in the remaining two days of competition.

The U.S. team failed to win a single gold medal today but lodged an official protest against a Russian woman judge whose consistently low scores for American and Hungarian divers enabled Mexico's Joaquin Capilla to win the high dive by .03 point from Gary Tobian of Los Angeles.

With most events completed for the night, the Soviet team was on top with 637 points to 558½ for the U.S., which has a chance to increase its total only in tomorrow night's three swimming events.

Russia's team victory on its second try in the Olympics was only the second time the U.S. failed to win the unofficial count but generally recognized overall title. In 1936, Germany picked up scores of points in minor events to top the U.S., 628½ points to 451½. Polo and handball were on the official program that year.

Four years ago, the U.S. overcame Russia's harvest of points in Greco-Roman wrestling and gymnastics to win the team title. But, this time Soviet athletes also were strong in some of the major events. Though outscored in such spectacles as track, rowing, swimming, and basketball, the Soviets were in position to nail the championship when their turn came up tonight.

Russians won or shared seven of eight gymnastics championships. They also won five of the eight championships in Greco-Roman wrestling.

In the men's high dive, cheers mingled with boos as Capilla nosed out the favored Tobian.

Olympic Greco-Roman Sport Looks Like Waltzing Contest

Melbourne, (U.P.) — "Waltzing Matilda," the Australian version of "Oh, Suzannah," finally found its proper medium in the current Olympic games.

It is a swinging folk song dear to the hearts of the Aussies, who break into its solemn lament at the drop of a Sour tenor. But it's gone today as the private property of the Anzacs.

Nobody, but nobody, needs it as much as the Greco-Roman wrestlers.

Greco-Roman wrestling, in case you've never seen it—and congratulate yourself if you haven't—is a cross between a dance marathon and a leap frog contest by two waltzing bears. If this is a "sport" of Olympic proportions then so is mattress turning.

To begin with, and already it's time it stopped, in Greco-Roman rasslin' the "athletes" are not permitted to use their legs for anything but the waltzing. That is, no leg holds offensively or defensively.

This means that for six minutes they stand toe to toe like a couple of inebriated lodge brothers Indian wrestling for the tab. At this point, everyone throws up his hands and they go to the mat. But, oh brother, you never saw anything like this.

One of the two characters gets down on his hands and knees and for three minutes the other rassler, approaching from south of the defiant derriere of the man on the deck, tries to roll him over so the shoulders touch.

At times the attacker looks like an awkward father trying to apply his first diaper.

When his three minutes are shot, the attacker has to flop down on hands and knees, and the defender goes on offense.

This period of bronc busting is known as "Par Terre," which is French for "on the ground." That's a combination right there which gives you the whole scoop.

After this combined six minutes of scrabbling on the canvas, if neither man during his attacking period succeeds in bull dogging the other, they stand up with a sigh of relief and go back to cuffing each other for three final minutes. This is when the most furious bit of arm-grabbing and whirling goes into effect, like the windup of a riotous rumba.

JUMP BALL? NOPE—A TKE and a Farm House man go high to pull down a loose rebound. The Farm House rallied from a halftime deficit of 9 points to win, 23-20.

Sig Alphas Win Crown In Group I Intramurals

Sigma Alpha Epsilon buried Beta Sigma Psi under a 42-17 score to win the Group I championship Wednesday night in intramural basketball.

Jim Allen was high scorer for the Sig Alphas with 11 points and Bill Sinderson followed with 10.

The Oldtimers rebounded from a 7-8 halftime deficit to creep by Newman Club, 17-16, and to remain undefeated.

Jim Lyle led the Newman Club with seven points, all free throws. Bill Blume had eight points for the winners.

Trailing 15-6 at intermission, the Farm House came roaring back in the second canto to net 17 points to Tau Kappa Epsilon's five for a 23-20 victory. Raleigh Flanders was high for the Farm House with eight.

Rho Alphas edged the Wesley Foundation, 20-19, after leading 8-4 at the halftime. Duane Engle got nine points for the Rho Alphas while Alonzo Jamison meshed eight for Wesley.

Delta Tau Delta kept its winning skein going whipping Alpha Tau Omega, 33-14, by following up a 11-8 halftime margin. Joe Kashner was the big man for the Deltas with nine counters.

Ahead 20-13 at the half, Phi Kappa ran over Lambda Chi Alpha, 33-25, as Jim Peterson paved the way with 18 points. Jim Niernberger was second for Phi Kappa with 11 points.

Using a five-point intermission bulge, Sigma Phi Epsilon pushed to a 31-16 victory over Theta Xi. Jim Schafer had seven for the Sig Eps.

Going from a 16-8 intermission lead, Alpha Gamma Rho trounced Alpha Kappa Lambda, 26-15. Harry Todd got seven points for AGR.

Sigma Nu mauled Phi Delta Theta, 41-12, behind Darold Barb's 15 points. Sigma Nu led 21-3 at the mid-way mark. Bob Turley ranked second in scoring for Sigma Nu with 11.

Johnny Majors Is Grid Champ

New York, (U.P.)—All-American Johnny Majors, Tennessee's pint-sized triple-threat tailback, today was voted the United Press Back of the Year for the 1956 college football season.

Majors, the dominant factor in Tennessee's surprising perfect-record campaign, was honored in a nationwide poll of 232 sports writers and radio and television broadcasters who voted for the United Press All-American team.

The 5' 10", 165-pound halfback attracted 79 votes in the open-ticket balloting to beat out Tommy McDonald, Oklahoma's All-American halfback by 20 votes. Jimmy Brown of Syracuse, another All-American selection, was third with 38 votes.

Despite his comparatively small size in this era of the specialized hefty, college football player, Majors was a standout at rushing, passing and punting. In Coach Bowden Wyatt's "old-fashioned" single wing offense, Johnny had to be versatile and the Volunteers clicked.

Baggy Sweaters Are Out

By MARY WIELAND

Sloppy joe sweaters are on their way out of the fashion picture on the K-State campus. Baggy sweaters and skirts are being replaced by tailored cardigans or pullovers dyed to match their companion skirts. They give a dress-like rather than a chopped-up appearance. This is especially true of knit wool skirts that are dyed to match the sweaters.

Many of the outfits have details to match, such as a fringe on the pocket of the skirt and on the collar of the sweater.

We see the always-popular plaid skirts worn with sweaters matching one of the colors in the skirt. Often collars or other details are made from the same material as the skirt. This is easy for those who sew. It takes just a few scraps to make a matching collar or tie to accent an outfit.

Although standard cardigans and pullovers are most popular, novelty styles are common. Among the variations are batwing sleeves, pockets, and cuffs. Collars range from tiny peter pans to huge sailors and include turtle neck and bateau styles.

Not to be left out of the popular campus look are the sweaters that display the ivy league flavor. Middy styles with turtle necks blend well with this casual look.

These more boxy styles, however, are not as common in shop windows as the soft, feminine, fitted dressmaker styles.

PiKA's, Sig Ep's To Combine Duad, Olympiad Weekend

This being an Olympic year, Pi Kappa Alpha and Sigma Phi Epsilon have combined to bring something socially different to K-State, the Olympiad. It will follow the annual Duad on this Saturday afternoon.

The two Greek houses will revive the days of Caesar and Brutus with a myriad of festivities designed to give all Greeks and independents alike a good laugh.

Due to the fact that Cleopatra was also a prominent figure in Roman gladiatorial contests (she was pinned to Caesar) there is a queen contest involved in the Olympiad.

Nine coeds, one representative from each K-State sorority, will vie for the title of Miss Olympiad.

The Olympiad games will be held on the site of the proposed new Pi Kappa Alpha house just west of Quivera Acres drive in.

The games will consist of events of skill, strength, both mental and physical, and ability of all kinds including shinnying up a greased pole and a tug-of-war between the Pike and Sig Ep pledge classes. The losing team in the tug-of-war will be pulled through a ditch filled with mud and slime.

A greased pig will be turned loose in another of the events.

The featured event of the "Olympic" games will be a gladiatorial battle between the two biggest men in the two houses and will be a fight to the bitter near end, especially if it's below zero weather.

Bleachers will be erected at

After the game the toga-clad mob will go to Potorf hall for a Roman style banquet with all the accessories.

John C. Weaver, dean of the Schools of Arts and Sciences, was reported in "very satisfactory condition" by his attending physician last night after undergoing surgery yesterday morning.

Dean Weaver already is able to get out of bed, and is expected to be released from Riley County hospital in less than a week, the physician said.

Weaving Loom Loaned to KS Industry Group

The Campus Industrial Development committee announced yesterday that a weaving loom and a 50-yard loop had been loaned to the committee by Mrs. Merrill Noble, former commercial weaver.

The loom will be used to make sample fabrics. A salesman will use the fabrics in obtaining orders during a trial run of the weaving industry.

Mrs. Noble also has offered to help the College when the industry is ready to start production. She also has offered use of her contacts in the New York City and Detroit areas.

A new subcommittee was named that will be in charge of the weaving section of the campus industries committee. The new members are Marcia Boyd, TI Soph; Marlon Cleveland, AEd Fr; George Bennett, ME Soph; and Steven McCarl, ME Fr.

The committee discussed an upcoming Union display of sample weaving fabrics. It was decided to place the display in the Union before Christmas if possible.

There was some discussion of finding a room at little or no cost for housing the loom until enough orders are received to buy more looms.

A total of 706 seniors and 50 graduate students had taken advantage of pre-enrollment at the close of the senior period Wednesday afternoon, according to E. M. Gerritz, director of admissions and registrar.

Graduate students are encouraged to pre-enroll, but only 50 of the 450 K-State grad students had done so. Pre-enrollment for them will continue through Monday.

About 170 seniors didn't take advantage of early enrollment. These students still may pre-enroll from December 11 to 21.

The number of students enrolled so far in each school is as follows: Agriculture, 125; Arts and Sciences, 266; Engineering, 192; Home Economics, 79; Veterinary Medicine, 44; and Graduate, 50.

'Gold Cadillac' Proves To Be Solid Entertainment

By P. A. YOUNG

An amusing, well-acted comedy played in a tongue-in-cheek, almost burlesque manner—that describes "The Solid Gold Cadillac," presented by the K-State Players in the Auditorium last night.

The second and final presentation of the play will begin at 8:15 tonight in the Auditorium. Students will be admitted by showing their activity cards.

Louann Oberhelman, Sp Jr, stole the show with a convincing portrayal of a frustrated actress who becomes a small stockholder in a big corporation. She needles her way into the firm and gains control by proxy vote.

Helping the leading lady gain control of the firm is Ken Nakari, Phy Soph, a government official who has turned honest. He kept the audience in an uproar with a sketch from an old school play in which he jumps up and down and waves his hands like a "big chief."

Adding a bit of cheesecake to the scenes was Barbara Baumann, Sp, who demonstrates the corporation's products in an interesting manner.

A foursome of Gordon Jump, Sp Gr; Charley Peak, Sp Soph; Jerry Hager, Sp Soph; and Darwin Klein, BA Fr, added distinctive mannerisms to the dishonest board members who are in control of the firm.

Aided by the expert advice of a smooth lawyer and member of the board, they keep a battle going over the control of the firm being taken away from them by the leading lady.

Name Change Is Possible, But Not Wise at Present

K-STATE COULD change its name to Kansas State university if students really want too, however, it would be wise to wait until the 1959 Legislature meets.

This echoes the sentiment of President McCain who recently returned from a meeting of the presidents of all land-grant colleges in Washington D.C.

THE PRESIDENT feels that if we do change, other colleges will also. He said, that the water shouldn't be muddied now by such a proposal when the top administrative problem is getting enough money from the legislature to take care of increasing enrollments.

"Many college presidents expressed the feeling that they might change the names of their colleges in four or five years, but felt that this was not the time because of increasing enrollments," McCain said.

THE PRESIDENT said that only one land-grant college was openly moving to have their name changed at this time. That college is Colorado A&M.

Colorado has already cleared the proposal with their Board of Regents and will present it to the Colorado legislature this session, he said.

HE INDICATED that two other land-grant colleges are contemplating a name change and will be watching the Colorado outcome closely. One might present such a proposal to their legislature this session, however, it is more likely they will both wait until 1959.

"The South is definitely not interested in any kind of name change," McCain said.

OF THE four major land grant schools, Kansas State, Iowa State college, Washington State college, and Oregon State college, one definitely does not want to change and the other three have experienced some sentiment for a change.

President McCain said that President August L. Strand of Oregon State expressed the feeling that the words college and president of a college do not mean much to foreigners who feel that university and chancellor are tops in educational importance.

PRESIDENT STRAND found this out on a recent trip to India where the fact that he was president of Oregon State college meant little but Chancellor of Oregon State university would have meant a lot.

In view of the fact that education in the United States is taking on world significance, any proposal for changing K-State's name should take this into consideration, McCain said.

ABOUT SIX to eight months will be necessary before we can place a name-change proposal before the Regents in order to educate the alumni of K-State and Kansas university to prevent hard feelings about the change, he said.

"One thing to remember," he said, "is that if we did change to a university, we would still be K-State and Kansas university would still be KU."

ANOTHER TIME lapse would be involved because the proposal would have to go through the President to the Board of Regents. If the Board approved the change, the proposal would have to be acted upon by the Legislature. All this takes time.

K-Staters should decide now if they want to make a change in the College's name. If we do, then we better begin a campaign with a view toward presenting such a proposal to the 1959 Legislature.—George Vohs.

Personality for This Week Is Man of Many Activities

By ED KOCHER

NEIL SCOTT, personality of the week, is vice-president of the Student Council, chairman of the elections committee, chairman of the SGA student gripe assembly, and is the Student Council representative to the leadership training school planning committee.

He was also just recently named to the executive council of the Integrity party.

"WORKING part-time, participating in extracurricular activities, and going to school keep me busy," Neil said.

Concerning this year's SGA gripe session, Neil said, "I think the session went very well, and I am satisfied with its results, but I think that it can be improved in another year. During the assembly I thought of some ways to improve next year's session."

NEIL, BETTER known as "Scotty," said, one possible revision is handing out a paper at the door to each student in order that he may write down his gripes.

There is also a possibility of the students going into buzz sessions in order to screen out the irrelevant questions, and get a more representative sample of the students' opinions, he said.

AS CHAIRMAN of the elections committee it is Neil's job to supervise elections.

He said during the senior elections they did not catch anyone voting twice, but the committee tried to keep at least one student at the booths for a half day at a time in order to watch more carefully. Any person caught would have been turned over to the tribunal for action, he said.

Neil said, he feels that the students at K-State don't know enough about the College, its functions, and its national prestige. "Do they know what school is the first land-grant college, what it means to be a land-grant college, and how they are set up?"

"I THINK that the lack of knowledge about the school is the cause of the lack of spirit, and the cow paths that we have."

As a freshman Neil played the trumpet in the band, and last year was president of the conservation club. He was also attendant to FMOC. He thinks that the ROTC requirements should be optional, and that it could be one of the biggest Council accomplishments this year.

Kansan To Take Stand on Politics

THE KANSAN BOARD, KU's governing body for the University Daily Kansan, voted recently to amend their constitution which would allow the student newspaper to take sides in any national or campus political issue.

The vote of 16 to 4, with one member absent, came after Burton W. Marvin, dean of the William Allen White school of journalism and public information at KU told the student board members that such an amendment would not be permitted.

THE AMENDMENT was first proposed a week ago and Marvin restated his views on the matter Tuesday before the board voted.

The Daily Kansan has the present policy whereby it remains neutral on political matters. This was established by an amendment in the late 1930's.

IN EXPLAINING his reasons for being against the policy change, Marvin said, "It is essential that the Kansan be neutral in politics both on and off the campus, for the sake of the University and for the sake of the University Daily Kansan."

"The citizens of Kansas would assume immediately that the present rule was being removed for a reason, and those interested in seeing it removed intended to mount some sort of political attack," Marvin said.

"I FEEL that there is no such motive, but I am convinced that this motive would be read into the action," he added.

A spokesman for a five member committee which drafted the amendment said the ruling by Marvin was a denial of the students' rights to amend their own constitution.

LEO FLANAGAN, a 25-year-old Air Force veteran now majoring in advertising sequence, member of the Kansan board and former chairman, said, "we have acted in accordance with our constitution. This constitution as recently as September 1955, was revised and brought up to date with the concurrence of Dean Marvin. Either this constitution is a binding, valid document, or it is a sham."

Flanagan said "no laws were broken and no one's toes were stepped on." He emphasized that their constitution gives them the right to amend the constitution.

FLANAGAN SAID it would be gross hypocrisy for the Kansan board through the Daily Kansan to criticize the actions of others or even to attempt to govern The Daily Kansan if it is not capable of governing itself.

The amendment is to become effective January 7.

Hungarian Secret Police In New Mass Arrests

By LANCE GILMORE

Vienna, Dec. 7 — Hungary's hated secret police have returned to power and are carrying out mass arrests in an attempt to end anti-Soviet demonstrations, reports from Budapest said today.

Hungarian puppet Premier Janos Kadar unleashed his "terror troops" in the wake of violent demonstrations in Budapest and other cities during the past three days.

At least four persons were killed and scores wounded when Soviet tanks and Red Hungarian police fired on demonstrating Hungarians in Budapest yesterday.

The Red-controlled Budapest radio admitted opposition elements were active in other scattered areas of Hungary. It said a curfew was clamped on Eger, north-east of Budapest, because of "the presence of provocative elements."

The Hungarian AVH secret police were detested even more than the Russians by the Hungarian freedom-fighters.

Nix-Eden Move Fizzles

London, Dec. 7—Sir Anthony Eden will remain Britain's prime minister and lead the nation in an all-out drive to restore a sound economy weakened by the Suez invasion. Conservative party sources said today.

Fifteen "Suez rebels" abstained last night when Eden won a vote of confidence on his Middle East policies, but political sources said the Conservatives would treat the revolt as one that has fizzled and continue to back Eden.

It was believed Eden's stand was strengthened by U.S. Vice President Richard M. Nixon's declaration in New York last night that it is vital for the United States to aid Britain in the "financial plight" the nation suffered as result of the Suez crisis.

'Massacre' Is Feared

London, Dec. 7—The international Red Cross was expected today to appeal to the Egyptian government to prevent any "massacre of Christians" when the last British and French troops leave the Suez canal zone.

Maurice Thudicum, Swiss representative of the international Red Cross committee, said in Port Said that reports about threats to foreigners were reaching "alarming proportions" and that there were hints a massacre of non-Moslems was possible.

Powerful Offenses To Collide As Cats Host Drake Bulldogs

By KEITH KEMPER

K-State hosts the Bulldogs from Drake university Saturday night in Ahearn Field House in a game that will feature two high-scoring offenses. Game time Saturday is 7:30 p.m.

The Cats own successive wins over Houston and Texas Tech, both winners of their respective conferences last season. The Cats have shown a high-scoring offense that has totaled 187 points for the two games.

K-State took the season opener from Houston 97-78 and last Monday downed Texas Tech 90-84 in Lubbock.

The Houston victory avenged one of last season's setbacks and tomorrow night the Cats will have a chance to even things with the Drake Bulldogs. Drake defeated K-State last year, 70-64.

Drake's opening game of the season emphasized the outstanding scoring ability of the Bulldogs. Led by Red Murrell, 6-4 Drake forward, the Bulldogs took a 102-85 decision from Grinnell.

That 102 points scored against Grinnell set a new scoring mark for the Des Moines, Iowa, team. K-State meanwhile has also set a scoring record. Scoring 61 points in the first half of play against Texas Tech last Monday, set a new Wildcat record for most points scored in one half.

Murrell and Jim Carey are the only returning lettermen from last year's squad and are expected to be the big guns for Drake. Along with these two, Drake will start Marlow Eckhoff, 6-4 junior center; Bill Linke, 6-2 junior forward; and Dan Callahan, 6-0 junior guard.

The invaders will be playing under the direction of a new coach, John Benington, former star at San Francisco university and assistant coach at Michigan State.

Leading the Wildcats will be Jack Parr and Bob Boozer. Parr was all-Big Seven last season as a sophomore while Boozer is playing his first season on the K-State varsity.

In the first two games for the Cats, Boozer was either high scorer or tied for high honors with Parr in both games. In the opener against Houston, the 6-7 forward pushed in 19 points for the game's high and then against Texas Tech scored 27 to tie for top honors with Parr.

Going along with Boozer and Parr will be Hayden Abbott, 6-3 forward; Roy DeWitz, 6-3 guard; and Eddie Wallace, 5-10 guard. Boozer is the only non-letterman in the starting lineup.

K-State will go into the game with an edge in both the height and the experience departments. Drake will start a team averaging 6-2 while the Wildcats will have a team average of 6-4. In experience, the Cats lead in lettermen by a 9 to 3 margin.

Following Saturday night's action, the Cats wait a week before taking on the Hoosiers from Indiana in the Field House.

400 Meter Olympic Swim Won by Australian Miss

Miss Lorraine Crapp, a chubby 18-year-old Australian, spent the first 100 meters of the 400-meter race catching up to her springing teammate, Miss Fraser, who favors the shorter distances. They were head and head at the 100-meter mark but from then on it was Miss Crapp all the way.

Ercole Baldini, 23-year-old Italian butcher, earlier won the gruelling 116-mile cycling road race and Russia picked up another gold medal in Gymnastics.

The feature of the reduced afternoon program in the next to last day of competition was the 11-lap road race over rugged countryside.

Baldini, the Italian favorite, rode a beautiful race and paced himself so well he won going away when he turned on the pressure on the last two laps. His time was five hours, 21 minutes, 17 seconds.

Arnaud Geyre of France was second, Alan Jackson of Great Britain third

Olympic Peace Dove Fluttering

Melbourne, (U.P.)—The Olympics are supposed to promote international friendliness but the dove of peace is fluttering nervously over the games today with scorched and tattered wings.

The British are complaining that their Australian cousins haven't been friendly enough. The Japanese receive cheers here and there but their reception is cool on the whole from a people who still remember all too vividly the perils of a decade ago.

And all the bitterness and hatred which flamed in the streets of Budapest are felt whenever the Hungarians "play" the Russians.

The most violent contest of the Olympics undoubtedly occurred in the Hungarian-Russian water polo match. It started in tense bitterness and ended in bloodshed and a near riot.

It was like watching a pool full of tiger sharks. The water in the Olympic pool was chilly but it didn't cool the tempers of the seven determined Hungarians from the moment they looked down the watery field and locked eyes with the Soviet swimmers.

Then they went for the Russians and it was a real battle all the way, above and below both the water line and the belt line.

In the first scrimmage a Hungarian whipped an elbow into a moustached Russian's stomach and the man spouted water like a harpooned whale.

The Russian threw a punch and, as he was sent to the penalty box, a powerfully built man in the stands rose in his seat and his face was purple as he shook furious fists at the Russians.

An angry Russian drove a heel into a Hungarian's stomach and smiled happily as the Hungarian sank with a grimace of pain, bobbing up with a dazed look on his face.

Eighteen Cat Grapplers To Invitational Tourney

Eighteen K-State wrestlers, representing the Manhattan club, local businessmen's organization, left today to compete in the annual pre-season AAU invitational tourney at Cedar Falls, Iowa, Saturday.

Gary Haller, 167 pounds, and Marvin Everist, 137 pounds, are the club's co-captains for the tourney, which will be hosted by Iowa Teachers college.

The squad, except for Haller and Everist, is composed entirely of freshmen and sophomores. The club was unable to get several wrestlers who haven't had enough time to get in shape because of football.

"More contestants than ever before are expected to enter the tourney," club coach Fritz Knorr said.

"Two of the usual three AAU tourneys in that section of the country have been cancelled this year, and the usual competitors in those matches will probably come to Cedar Falls," Knorr is also the K-State wrestling coach.

Wrestlers from these schools are expected to be at the tourney: Iowa State college, Iowa university, Minnesota university, and Cornell college.

Two members of this year's team, Haller and Billy Youngers, 123 pounds, gained second places in the finale of last year's Cedar Falls tourney.

decision, and Youngers lost a 5-2 decision.

The squad:
115 pounds: Robert Cervantez, Billy Youngers; 123 pounds: Gary Darter, Russell Grant, and Ken Shaw; 130 pounds: Darrell Huggin, James Miller; 137 pounds:

Marvin Everist, Larry Fanning, James Hurtt.

Two Cross-Country Men To Get Varsity Letters

Two K-State cross-country runners have been named for varsity letters by Coach Ward Haylett for their 1956 performances. Tom Rodda, Wichita sophomore, and Jesse Unruh, Pretty Prairie junior, were named to receive "K" awards.

Rodda led the Wildcat team consistently, and in one meet set a new K-State varsity record for the three-mile distance. He was timed in 15:30.3 in a three-way meet against Colorado and Iowa State.

The Wildcat cross-country team finished the season with a record of three wins and four losses, but managed only one victory in four dual meets against Big Seven opponents.

Named for freshman numerals in the distance sport are K-State yearlings Duane Holman and Julius Lincoln, both of Topeka.

Sigma Chi's Beat Beta's, 20-19; Group III Title To Kappa Sigma

Darrel Smith hit a jump shot with seconds remaining to pull Sigma Chi from a one-point deficit to a 20-19 win over Beta Theta Pi in last night's intramural basketball play.

The win boosted Sigma Chi's record to 4-0 with a win over Phi Kappa Tau (1-3) needed to clinch the Group IV championship.

Sigma Chi fought rallies that gave the Beta's 17-16 and 19-18 leads in the closing minutes of play. After Smith's winning shot, Beta Theta Pi took the ball down court, but could not score before the game's end.

Gene Ismert led Sigma Chi scoring with seven points although Beta George Serpan took game honors with nine.

Kappa Sigma won the Group III title with a 34-18 victory over Pi Kappa Alpha. The Kappa Sig record is 4-0.

Bill Bloxom took game scoring honors with 17 Kappa Sig points.

The Pikes trailed, 16-11, at half-time.

The Rebels won the independent Group II title and their fourth game without a loss, 35-23, over the Cretins.

Lee Hoyt, Ron Radford, and Bill Crowder had eight points apiece for the Rebels. Halftime score was 17-8, Rebels.

Darrell Rosenow scored 21 points for YMCA in a 27-18 win over OK House. YMCA held a 19-8 intermission margin.

Acacia built up a 31-15 half-time lead, then coasted to a 36-23 victory over Delta Upsilon. Acacia's Larry Harding and Delta Upsilon's John French had 11 points, each, for top scoring honors.

Phi Kappa Tau beat Alpha Epsilon Pi, 12-3. The victors led 4-1 in a low scoring first half.

Maurice Hubbs hit 10 points for Kasbah in a 22-13 win over the Aces.

The Hot Shots jumped to a 29-12 first half lead on the way to a 35-16 win over Sigma Phi Nothing.

Wesley 'Adopts' Boy

Letters postmarked Germany arrive each month for Wesley foundation members from 12-year-old Karl Amstader. Karl, who knew nothing but war during his early childhood, receives 15 dollars a month aid from Wesley.

Karl lives with his father, who is unable to work. His mother was killed during the war.

"Karl himself has sight in only one eye. He lost his other eye while crossing over into Germany from a neighboring country," said the Rev. B. A. Rogers, director of Wesley activities.

Karl attends school in Germany. His teachers report that he has outstanding ability in art. Wesley began to help provide care for Karl last year, and will probably continue as long as help is needed, stated the Rev. Rogers.

Houseboy's Life Isn't All Fun; There's Work Too

By SHARON TOTTEN

Unusual and amusing experiences are few and far between in the life of a houseboy at Northwest hall, women's dormitory, according to Laurice Margheim, PrV Soph, who is playing nursemaid to the 222 girls living there this year.

However, when quizzed further, he was able to recall one incident which he felt might be worth a laugh. It all happened one night after the hall was all locked up. He received an urgent call to come to the living room. Grabbing his revolver and anticipating some fun, he rushed to the rescue, only to find a worried housemother wishing to get rid of a very harmless little cat that had strayed into the dorm sometime during the day.

Upon seeing the revolver, however, she became more than a little worried and stood screaming, "Don't shoot it! Put it away!" until he had gotten rid of both the revolver and the cat.

Sounding a little regretful, Margheim said that generally life isn't this exciting but that he likes his job very much. "My only trouble is that I find it too easy to put in too much time on the job and not enough on studying," he said.

When asked just exactly what his job consisted of, he explained that he has cleaning and kitchen duties, helps to close the dorm at night, does various odd jobs, and helps the girls move in and out. One day 120 girls moved into the dorm after 2 p.m.

To get the job as houseboy, Margheim said that he had to be interviewed by the Dean of Women, housemothers, dietitians and the director of housing. The only requirements were that he be a trustworthy and dependable upper-classman.

He admitted that he sometimes finds the girls a little bit nerve-racking, but said that they are cooperative and usually try to abide by the rules. "Most of the misunderstandings are caused by ignorance of the rules rather than a desire to make trouble."

we can offer you a genuine career opportunity with the leading jet aircraft equipment manufacturer.

Hamilton Standard's tremendous rate of expansion alone is evidence enough of the obvious opportunities now open at this beautiful, modern plant. However, there are numerous other "plus" values which you will want to consider:

- 1) the opportunity for further, tuition-assisted study at R.P.I. Graduate Center.
- 2) the exciting, challenging projects dealing with fuel controls for both jet and nuclear engines, air conditioning systems, jet starters, and turbo-propellers.
- 3) the tremendous variety of openings, so that you may select the field which interests you most.
- 4) the ideal location, in beautiful Connecticut, within easy travel distance to Boston or New York.

These are just a few of the reasons it is essential for you to talk to Hamilton Standard.

Eight Reach Finals Of Speech Contest

Eight finalists for the 11th Larry Woods Memorial Speech contest were chosen this week in preliminary rounds. The final round will be Tuesday at 7:30 p.m. in the Union's little theater.

The finalists are Priscilla Goings, HDA Fr; Herman Kameraman, PrV Fr; Gary Lafferty, PrV Fr; Max Bishop, ArE Fr; Robert Johnson, ChE Fr; James McAdaragh, BA Soph; Wendy Helstrom, Sp Fr; and Leon Hicks, Art Fr.

In the final contest three cash prizes will be awarded—$30 for first prize, $20 for second prize, and $10 for third prize.

The five judges for the finals are Chester Peters, director of placement; Joseph E. Hayes, president of the First National Bank; Mrs. K. F. Bascom, president of the Manhattan AAUW branch; Marjorie Adams, assistant professor of English; and Rodney Babcock, professor of mathematics.

After Larry E. Woods, a former speech major at K-State, lost his life in World War II, his parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Woods of Independence, established this contest as a memorial in his honor.

Mr. and Mrs. Woods gave the College a sum of money, and its annual income finances the semi-annual Larry Woods Memorial Speech contest.

THE WEATHER

Snow and freezing rain continued to pelt the West and Midwest today, but the wintry weather failed to penetrate a record warm spell in the East.

But weathermen said cold air will push into the Ohio valley and the lower Great Lakes in a slow southeasterly drift today. For Kansas the forecast is cloudy southeast with occasional freezing drizzle today otherwise partly cloudy and continued cold through tomorrow. High today 25-30. Low tonight 5-10 northwest to 20 south-east.

A new storm pushed out of the Texas panhandle, spreading heavy precipitation north of its path as it moved toward the Great Lakes. Temperatures in the cold air mass ranged from 26 below zero at Cut Bank, Mont., to 25 degrees in the mid-Mississippi valley.

Ten men and one woman are in Student Health today. The men are Manuel Soler, Lynn Schuyler, Jerome Gunnerson, George Davidson, Lewis Gray, Cyril Van-cura, Dwight Haddock, Salah E. Rashad, Donald Peterson, and Russell Adams Jr.

Honors

KS Coeds Win Scholarships

Norma Brown, HDA Sr, and Dorothy Newell, HT Soph., have been announced winners of $100 Margaret Burtis Memorial scholarships, awarded each fall by the Manhattan Soroptimist club.

The scholarships honor the memory of Margaret Burtis, a 1928 K-State graduate in home economics and eastern district home demonstration agent for Kansas from 1942 until her death in 1952. The scholarships go to coeds who have completed at least one year at K-State with good grades, and who are working to help pay their way through school.

Archie J. Cornelius, ME Jr, and Rolland Turner, ME Soph, were presented awards for achievement in mechanical engineering yesterday at an American Society of Mechanical Engineers assembly.

Cornelius was presented the ASME award for being last year's outstanding sophomore in mechanical engineering. He made a 2.82 grade average during his first two years of college study.

Turner was presented an award by Pi Tau Sigma, mechanical engineering honorary, for being last year's outstanding freshman in mechanical engineering.

Turner made a 2.94 grade point average during his first year of college study.

Martin Jepson, E.E., Purdue, '53, is an Engineer in the Radio and Special Services Section of Illinois Bell Telephone Company.

"I help design mobile radiotelephone systems," says Martin. "We have a wide variety of customers, including trucking firms, railroads and marine traffic of all kinds. Many businessmen, too, want these systems for their private cars. Each customer has his own communications problems, and these are a constant and stimulating engineering challenge."

"Another part of my job is to help set up facilities for conventions,

There were special circuits for broadcasting, teletypewriters, the press, and for inside communications. It was our job to set those facilities up and keep them operating."

"The increase in demand for telephone and related services is phenomenal. It's this growth that's creating real career opportunities in the telephone business. Add to this the fact that it's a stable business, and you've really got something!"

Committee To Suggest Study of Union Parking

The committee for motor vehicle operation and parking has suggested that a method of restricting parking in the Union lot be discussed in the Student Council meeting tonight and a long range traffic program be set up to be used as a guide for solving current problems.

Closely related to the vehicle committee report will be the recommendations offered by the committee of children's safety and traffic around the married housing district. A recommendation will be made that traffic be reversed on the south drive in Elliot courts so cars will leave the courts via Sunset avenue. They will also recommend that the speed limit be reduced to 15 miles an hour.

A leadership workshop committee will also report on the progress of a proposed leadership school that is being planned for next semester. Final arrangements have not been made because the committee is still waiting for a reply from one of the professional workshop leaders. The purpose of the workshop is to give a day of intensive leadership to students who are campus leaders.

The campus industry investigation committee will report to the Council on a survey on job information that is being handed out to enrollees. Four applications for the five positions offered on the weaving subcommittee have been received. These applicants, if approved, will do research during the Christmas vacations on weaving industry.

The campus industry committee will also report on an investigation to try to find a no-cost room for the new weaving industry. When a room is found the samples for the salesmen will be made.

WHERE'S THE NEXT MEETING is the question that confronts Gary Rumsey, (left) K-State, Dianne Knotek, Nebraska university, and Keith Erickson, Iowa State, delegates to the College Union conference held in the K-State Union, Friday and Saturday.

Pre-Enrolling for Sophs, Frosh To Be by Initials

Pre-enrollment for freshmen and sophomores will begin at 1 p.m. tomorrow according to the first letter of the student's last name, announced E. M. Gerritz, director of admissions and registrar.

This schedule was established to give students better service and to prevent waiting in line. It will affect entry into Anderson hall only, and not meetings of students and advisers to plan classes.

If a student misses his pre-enrollment time due to class conflicts, he may come on any following day, preferably after 3 p.m., and doesn't need to wait until the last three days of pre-enrollment, Gerritz said.

The schedule for pre-enrollment of freshmen and sophomores is December 11—F, G, P, Q, T; December 12—D, E, S, U; December 13—A, C, M; December 14—B, L, O; December 17—I, J, K, N, W; December 18—H, R, V, X, Y, and Z.

December 19, 20, and 21 will be reserved for pre-enrollment of all eligible students not previously pre-enrolled. Juniors, seniors, and graduate students should complete their pre-enrollment today, he said.

Engineers Choose Open House Staff

Chairman of the 1957 Engineers' Open House for each engineering department have been elected. The Open House will be held March 15 and 16.

The chairman and their departments are as follows:

Rebels Begin All-Out Revolt; Reds Declare Martial Law

By LANCE GILMORE

Vienna — Budapest's puppet government declared martial law over all of Hungary Sunday as freedom workers laid down their tools and took up arms to "kill the Kadar regime."

Government - controlled Radio

Budapest admitted that widespread fighting had resumed between "armored groups of counter-revolutionaries and the forces maintaining order."

At the same time, the regime of Janos Kadar ordered the dissolution of the Central Workers' Council which had just ordered a new nationwide strike to begin at midnight tonight.

A government declaration, broadcast by the Red radio, ordered the establishment of summary courts-martial to try on-the-spot all persons suspected of "murder, manslaughter, robbery, looting, damage, and all such attempts."

Earlier, fierce new battles were reported raging between patriots and Soviet troops in many sections of Hungary.

Big 3 To 'Make Up'

Paris, Dec. 10, (U.P.)—British Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd called on Secretary of State John Foster Dulles half an hour early today to lead off a week of diplomacy aimed at patching up NATO and the Western Big 3 alliance.

Dulles ducked a formal "Big Three" meeting and was meeting separately with Lloyd and French Foreign Minister Christian Pineau. It was understood they were discussing a "Little Marshall plan" to pump U.S. billions into Suez-ward Europe.

Lloyd, in a bowler hat and grey suit and overcoat, met with Dulles for ten minutes and then emerged. It was the first high-level Anglo-American talk since the French and British invaded Egypt.

Dulles was meeting Pineau at 5 p.m.

Tomorrow the curtain goes up on the main event—the four-day NATO council meeting. But the "little Marshall plan" was reported the chief topic of conversation plus a report aimed at preventing further crises from shaking NATO.

An Editorial

Paper Should Be Allowed To Express Political Views

THE UNIVERSITY Daily Kansan, student newspaper at the University of Kansas, is currently involved in a controversy over the right of the paper to take sides in campus, state, or national political issues.

On the face of the controversy, it would appear that only a minor issue about politics is involved. However, the seat of the argument involves the right of free-thinking students to express their opinions through the very media that is charged with protecting freedom of speech.

WHAT WEAKER argument could be found for opposing the Kansan Board's (governing body of the Daily Kansan) proposal than to say it would lead citizens of Kansas to believe that the Daily Kansan was getting ready to mount some sort of political attack.

Yet this was the inference by Burton W. Marvin, dean of the William Allen White School of Journalism at KU. Such a remark coming from a man charged with upholding the principles of free journalism no doubt would have caused the real William Allen White to roar with indignation.

IT IS unthinkable that a school of journalism, especially one named after a man who became famous through his editorials on national politics, would deny its students the right to express their views because Kansans "might" think they were going to mount a political attack.

THE KANSAN quoted a letter from Dean Marvin as saying:

"It is absolutely essential that the Daily Kansan as a laboratory for students and as a publication representing the University in the eyes of students and Kansas citizens of varying political leaning remain neutral in all politics.

"SUCH A rule of operation, essential in a public institution, cannot be subject to the whim of one generation of students."

Isn't it a shame that the Presidency of the United States and the rules of operation connected with the office are subjected to the whims of one ex-generation of students?

IT SEEMS to us that the test of good education is whether or not a school of business would hire one of the students it trained to handle its financial affairs, whether a school of architecture would ask a student to design a new building to house the school, or whether a school of journalism has enough faith in the students it trains to allow them to publish a free-thinking student newspaper.

We don't mean to say that students never make mistakes. They do, and will continue to do so. However, it is rare when a student doesn't learn a profitable lesson from each mistake, a lesson that will enable him to be a better citizen. Such is the price of education and educators should be willing to "suffer" a bit of embarrassment now and then when a student does make a mistake.

THE UPCOMING generation has often been accused of being a "do nothing" generation. It is little wonder that we have progressed as much as we have with the prevailing attitudes of tell the public nothing because someone might be put out of office, or worse, someone might suffer financially.

We agree that a policy of neutrality would aid objectivity in a newspaper, but there are two other dimensions of journalism, namely opinion and interpretation. Without all three dimensions the public is being cheated of its "right to know."

IF IT is "absolutely essential" that a laboratory for journalism students be strictly neutral, then maybe we better outlaw barbed wire so fence-sitting will be comfortable.—George Vohs.

Staters Say Boozer and Parr Best Defense Against Wilt

By CHARLES SCHREIBER

ARMCHAIR COACHING is one of the things Americans hold close to their hearts. What happens when these experts are given the opportunity to express themselves is illustrated by the replies received from K-Staters when they were asked "How would you stop Wilt the Stilt?"

In almost every case, the individuals mentioned Bob Boozer and Jack Parr as the basis for any defense against the tall man from KU. The complete confidence placed in these two men may provide them with the necessary moral support to bring home the bacon.

KAY EPLEE, BA Soph—There is more than one man on a team and our team working together with the student body behind them should be superior to a one-man organization.

JOHN HINDMAN, ME Jr—There aren't too many ways to combat Chamberlain. Northwestern proved that he was vulnerable to a good defense. The only way you could beat him is to outscore him.

ROGER MAXWELL, Ar 04—I'd put Jack Parr and Boozer on him. You can just keep him in check a certain amount of the time no matter what.

PETE TAYLOR, ME Soph—I'd throw in one of our football players. He could take Wilt out permanently. Put in Jerry Hayes to guard him.

ANNIE LAURIE GISH, BAA Soph—I'd put Wilt and Boozer together. Then go to the game and really cheer for our team.

LEE YOUNG, Ag Fr—I just don't believe he can be stopped. Other teams have tried to do it with three or four and haven't been successful.

ROLAND CARL, IEd Jr—I would use the shovel shot and since our guys are shorter they could possibly foul him out.

LEONARD PURER, ME Fr—I don't see how you could stop him. Wilt's got height, good coordination, and he's a pretty good shot. If you can just press him hard enough he's bound to wear down.

DWAYNE NUSS, Sp Sr—I would try to get somebody just as good and as tall. There's no use denying he is awfully good and awfully tall. "Recruitment" would be my answer.

PHYLLIS LOSEKE, Ht Sr—Keep him out late every night and make him ineligible.

RICHARD MARNIX, IE Soph—Every man has his weak points and with Wilt there must be one somewhere.

RICHARD MONTEITH, ME Sr—I would sure put Parr and Boozer on him. It is possible that you might be able to draw him out on long shots.

GERALDINE FRITZ, HEA Soph—The only way I can think of to stop him would be to trip him. Accidentally, of course.

BRIAN MULLEN, ME Fr—I think that I'd put Parr and Boozer on him. To stop Wilt you'd have to stop the other four men.

JOHN PARK, Ar 02—Start stretching out some babies or maybe try growing springs instead of feet.

LARRY HOLMAN, Hst Fr—I would try to initiate a rule to ban ball players Wilt's height or above until I could locate one of my own.

LOIS OTTAWAY, Asst. to the Dir. of Sports Publicity—Just sick Boozer on him. He and Parr can take care of Wilt. Of course, as a last ditch effort we can always spike up his pabulum.

TOM MILLER, EE Jr—Concentration of the defense on him and stilts for our boys might help.

EDWIN TAJCHMAN, EE Soph—Introduce the football tackle into the basketball game.

FRED SCHROTH, BA Soph—Declare an open season and get rid of him before a game.

DOLORES WILKEN, Hst Fr—Flunk him out!

ROBERT SNYDER, Speech Instructor—Maintain a cloud of tranquilizing gas at the seven foot level.

CAROL KELLOGG, HT Soph—I'd glue Parr and Boozer to Wilt and then, well I'd just hope real hard.

FRIENDLY PERSUASION—Red Murrell (33) appears to be protecting himself as his field goal attempt is batted down. Larry Fischer and Jack Parr move in to add further to his dilemma.

K-State's basketball Wildcats soundly whipped Drake university, 90-41, Saturday night, but coach Tex Winter pointed out that the Cats will meet their first big test this weekend against Indiana of the Big Ten.

Jack Parr led the Cats to the win by setting a new K-State rebound record with 26 rebounds breaking Dick Knostman's old mark of 23. Parr also earned game scoring honors with 21 points.

Our real test will come next week against Indiana. We won't really know how we're coming along until then.

Parr got the opening tip for K-State, then scored on a jump shot with 18:30 left to give the Cats a lead that was never relinquished or threatened.

Two free throws by Eddie Wallace made it 4-0 before Drake could score. Bill Bolen hit two free tosses for the Bulldogs, but Bob Boozer scored on a jump shot, then two free throws to put K-State ahead 8-2.

Boozer helped K-State to 10 straight points and an 18-4 bulge with two field goals and two free throws. The Cats lead steadily increased; the widest margin of the half was a 25-point spread at 45-20, before Gerry Graff sank a free throw for Drake with 20 seconds remaining.

Winter began working reserves into his lineup after five minutes of the second half had elapsed and the entire starting Cat team came off the court with 10 minutes remaining.

The reserves had as much success as the starters—they fashioned strings of 10 and 11 consecutive points.

K-State hit 42.5 per cent on 34 of 80 field goal attempts. Drake got 17 of 78 for 21.8 per cent.

Three Crowns Clinched In Intramural Basketball

House of Williams, Speedsters, and Oldtimers clinched group championships in the independent division of intramural basketball Friday evening.

Gary Wing scored nine of the House of Williams points in a 21-18 win over the Acropolis. House of Williams led 13-10 at halftime, then battled through an even second half to finish with a 4-0 record and the Group V title.

The Speedsters took a 34-19 win from the House of Breck in Group IV.

In Group VI, the Oldtimers trounced the Rho Alphas, 21-8 for the title.

In Group III, the Roadrunners and Ex-Bronchos jumped into a three way tie with West Stadium by winning final round games.

The Roadrunners took a 29-19 win from the Eight-Balls.

Southern, Darrell Schiff, and Bernard Schulz hit six points apiece to lead the Roadrunners.

The Ex-Bronchos won, 35-22, over the Brewster Boys. Jim Knoche had nine points for the Ex-Bronchos.

In other games, the Squeegies forged a 19-6 halftime lead, then coasted to a 31-16 victory over Disciples Student Fellowship, and the Hui O Makules forfeited, 2-0, to Newman club.

Cats Win Three Places At Iowa Wrestling Meet

K-State wrestlers won first and second place in the 115-pound class finals and took the 157-pound crown Saturday at the annual pre-season AAU invitational tourney at Cedar Falls, Iowa, as 18 Wildcat grapplers, sponsored by the Manhattan club, won 26 matches.

Wildcat Robert Cervantez decided Billy Youngers, also of K-State, as Cervantez repeated his last year's performance as runner-up in the 115-pound class.

Perry Brinlee, the other Cat grappler to win a championship berth, took the 157-pound title on a 3-2 decision.

Gary Darter, 123-pound, won his first match on a forfeit and his second on a decision. Darrell Huggins won a 3-0 decision in the quarter-finals but was pinned in his semi-final match.

Larry Fanning, 137-pounds, decided his first round opponent 1-0, and second round opponent, 2-0, but lost in the quarter-finals. In the 147-pound class Jim Caster won first and second round decisions and mate Jim Roberts won a first round forfeit.

Gary Haller, 167-pounds, took a 4-0 first round decision and a 7-4 quarter-final win and Jim Dietrich won his first round match with a fall.

Student Arrested For Excess Speed

Campus patrolmen arrested David Horton, ME Jr, at 12:45 a.m. Sunday and charged him with speeding, reckless driving, and running a stop sign.

According to Case A. Bonebrake, physical plant supervisor, Horton was clocked at 40 miles per hour going west in front of the Student Union and drove his automobile on the sidewalk between the chemical engineering building and Holton hall.

Horton's '49 Ford was first observed by patrolmen going south on Mid-Campus drive. He turned west on Vattier, where he was clocked at 40, turned north on 17th street, turned west on College Heights, and was stopped by Officers R. W. Hosler and H. E. Perkins.

Horton will appear in the County Attorney's office in the Courthouse at 3:30 p.m. this afternoon.

...but we can offer you a genuine career opportunity with the leading jet aircraft equipment manufacturer.

Hamilton Standard's tremendous rate of expansion alone is evidence enough of the obvious opportunities now open at this beautiful, modern plant. However, there are numerous other "plus" values which you will want to consider:

- 1) the opportunity for further, tuition-assisted study at R.P.I. Graduate Center.
- 2) the exciting, challenging projects dealing with fuel controls for both jet and nuclear engines, air conditioning systems, jet starters, and turbo-propellers.
- 3) the tremendous variety of openings, so that you may select the field which interests you most.
- 4) the ideal location, in beautiful Connecticut, within easy travel distance to Boston or New York.

These are just a few of the reasons it is essential for you to talk to Hamilton Standard.

SC Will Consider Optional ROTC

The Student Council selected a committee from its ranks last night to investigate the possibility of making the ROTC program optional to students.

The group also set up a committee to formulate a plan for giving recognition, possibly by certificate, to the hundred-odd students participating in student government; a banquet was also suggested to serve this purpose. A third committee will consider a plan for a student book store and/or book exchange.

Jerry Holliday announced that a survey blank on job information is being handed out to enrollees. Four non-Council students appointed to the CIIC's weaving industry subcommittee were Marcia Boyd, TJ Soph; Steve McCarl, ME Fr; Marlen Cleveland, AED Fr; and George Bennett, ME Soph.

Holliday said that a no-cost room to house the committee's proposed student-operated weaving industry is being sought. When such quarters are found, fabric samples for salesmen will be made.

A number of possible parking and traffic safety measures were discussed by the Council; however, most of the proposals were tabled, pending further study.

A proposal by Holliday for a 60-car enlargement of the Student Union parking lot to the south was strongly considered.

Neil Scott was appointed as Student Council representative to the student activities board. The Council took this action because it felt that the activities board's role in student government is becoming increasingly important.

Two more committee appointments were made last night, leaving only the graduate student positions on the elections committee and the honors and ethics committee unfilled.

John Watt, VM Jr, was named to the honors group, and Jim Smith, VM Jr, was appointed to the elections committee.

Judges for tonight's contest are Chester Peters, director of placement; Joseph E. Hayes, president of the First National Bank; Mrs. K. F. Bascom, president of the Manhattan AAUW branch; Marjorie Adams, assistant professor of English; and Rodney Babcock, professor of mathematics.

Beck Says K-State Needs More Funds

If adequate funds for research had been provided K-State during the 1930's and 1940's, the economic distress today of this "worst drouth in the history of Kansas" would have been greatly reduced.

That is what Glenn H. Beck, director of the K-State Agricultural Experiment station, told persons attending the annual fertilizer conference at Manhattan Monday.

Kansas and other drouth-stricken areas need an emergency program to help meet drouth-caused financial problems now, but the real answer to agricultural and related drouth problems in Kansas and the Great Plains is research projects that provide long-time answers.

"Drouth is a long-time, recurring problem of the Great Plains area and it must be dealt with accordingly," Beck said.

Drouth problems require the contributions of many scientific fields. All such sciences are represented by staff members of the Kansas Agricultural Experiment station, so K-State is the only logical place for this urgently needed expansion of research activities.

That Kansas now is in better condition with less rainfall than it had in the 1930's is proof that research applied to farms has been effective. The branch experiment station at Hays had 275 acres of wheat that averaged 28 bushels an acre on 4.6 inches of precipitation this year.

"But too many drouth, climate, watershed, irrigation, evaporation, and related problems remain unanswered."

A laboratory with controlled climate is urgently needed to study plant response under variable moisture, temperature, air movement, and other factors, Beck said.

Biochemical aspects of plant resistance to heat and drouth need investigation and are certain to give valuable results applicable to Kansas. Studies on the relationship of moisture, fertility, and plant growth would yield information valuable to Kansas and the entire High Plains area. Studies of surface and ground water supplies are needed—not just for agriculture but even more for cities and industries, he said.

A careful study of existing practices undoubtedly would indicate changes in land use that would benefit all Kansans, Beck declared. More information is needed about size, types, and flexibility of farm programs so they can meet changing situations and remain stable.

Studies also are needed on tenure, credit, taxation, and land use.

Y-Orpheum General Theme Will Be 'TV Production'

The general theme of Y-Orpheum will deal with "any phase of television production" according to Jan Madsen, publicity subcommittee chairman. The exact wording of the general theme will be announced later.

The executive council for Y-Orpheum met last night with representatives from seven sororities and 14 fraternities to discuss the procedure for scripts, judging, finalists, and production.

All houses wishing to submit scripts for Y-Orpheum judging must fill out the application before 5 p.m. December 19. Applications are available at the activities center in the Union.

A short synopsis of the plot must be included on the application to eliminate the possibility of duplication in the scripts. In case of duplication or similarity, the houses involved will be notified.

Dr. John Robson of the speech department has consented to act as a script advisor. Houses wishing professional advice for their scripts may leave the scripts in the speech department no later than January 11.

The scripts with suggestions from Dr. Robson may be picked up January 14. This will allow five days for last minute revisions before the final deadline at noon January 19 in the activities center. Finalists will be announced approximately a week later.

The scripts will be identified by code numbers this year so that the sororities and fraternities will not be known by the judges.

First and second place trophies will be given in the fraternity division. However, only a first place trophy will be awarded in the sorority division. Other finalists will be given Y-Orpheum participating plaques.

If the script is discovered by the executive committee to be non-original that house will be disqualified and the next highest ranking house in that division will be eligible for Y-Orpheum participation.

Positions are still open for Y-Orpheum subcommittees. Applications will be taken until December 15.

For 48 Families

Student Apartments Ready by January

Forty-eight married students' apartments in Jardine Terrace will be ready to be occupied January 1, 1957, according to R. F. Gingrich, director of the physical plant.

Thornton Edwards, director of housing, notified the 48 families today.

Two more buildings, which will provide 48 more apartments, will be ready for inspection January 1, and the last four buildings should be ready by February 1, according to Gingrich.

The wash houses will be ready by the time the apartments are occupied, and the sidewalks are now under construction. All paving is completed, and the parking lots are graveled. All apartment units are connected with heat and electricity except one.

All that remains to be done to complete the first 48 apartments is to move in the furniture, hang the venetian blinds and draperies, and wax the floors.

'Dangerous Daniel Kerchoo,' 'Lady Flu' Threaten Staters

By PAUL BOCQUIN

A bunch of germs were hitting it up in the bronchial saloon.

Two bugs on the edge of the larynx were jazzing a ragtime tune.

While back of the teeth in a solo game sat dangerous Daniel Kerchoo.

And watching his pulse was his light-o'-love, the lady that's known as Flu—from Modern Medicine.

Students wishing to stay healthy this winter had better wear warmer clothing, warns Dr. B. W. Lafene, student health director.

Now that the cold season is here, students are in greater danger of becoming exposed to influenza and other winter diseases, he said.

"Each year, many of our students try to act tough and continue to dress lightly when the temperature reaches the freezing point and lower. They are usually our first patients.

"We aren't concerned about those who are in robust health and are accustomed to facing the winter in scant clothing. However, even they might stay in good health longer by dressing with the weather.

"Our primary concern is over students who think they are tough and then come to student health with influenza, sinusitis, tonsillitis, abscessed ears, or pneumonia," Lafene explained.

Though the head is the most vital part of the body, few students bother to wear caps in the winter. Those who cut their hair short and leave their heads exposed are inviting themselves to a visit to the hospital, he said.

"Feet wear should not be overlooked. Warm socks on cold days and overshoes in damp weather are important," he added.

A week out of school makes it difficult for good students to resume their studies after being released from the hospital. Two days can make it hard on poor students, Lafene stated.

"Our patients, anxious to get back to their studies, often accuse us of keeping them in the hospital too long. We often feel, considering the cold germs they are still apt to spread after recovering, that we haven't kept them to bed long enough," Lafene said.

Reds No Immediate Threat In Cuba, Sophomore Says

By JANE TAYLOR

"THE COMMUNISTS are of no immediate threat in the Republic of Cuba because Batista, the president of Cuba, is anti-Communist," said Humberto Felipe, ME Soph, from Santiago, Cuba.

"The United States is in favor of Batista because of his strong anti-Communist feelings, however, the Cuban people have been trying for three or four years to put him out of office," Felipe said.

BEFORE BATISTA became president, he was a general in the Cuban army. After getting all the armed forces on his side, he proceeded to overthrow the government, and finally, in 1952, put himself in as president. He has kept the armed forces on his side since then by raising their pay, Felipe said.

"Our government is much like that of the United States," Felipe said. In our last presidential election, the armed forces worked much like a political machine in that they succeeded in putting Batista back in office for a second term though the Cuban people were very much against him. We have been trying for three or four years now to get rid of him.

"THE COLLEGE students at the University of Havana, which number over 10,000, and the students at the four other smaller universities are the leaders in the revolts against the government. Batista can do nothing about this situation because he has absolutely no power over the schools. The most recent revolution was just over a week ago in Santiago.

"The trouble with Cuba is that it is still a young republic. We belonged to Spain until 1900, and now we are free, except for the dictatorial type of government we have at the present time," Felipe explained.

CUBA IS much like the U.S. in ways other than just the government, Felipe said. All the new inventions and modern conveniences that are available in the U.S., are available in Cuba a week later. Cuba is only 40 miles from the Florida Keys, Felipe pointed out.

Felipe said Cuba's population is about six million, of which over a million live in Havana, the largest city. Santiago, where Felipe was born, is the second largest. Cuba is the largest producer of sugar cane in the world, and it is of course, the principal industry, he said. Tourist trade is also very important, especially in the winter months, he added.

CUBA'S SCHOOL system differs from the U.S. in high school only, Felipe said. "We attend high school for five instead of four years, and we have no choice of classes. I was really very well prepared for college, because we are required to take four semesters of chemistry and six semesters of physics. It is really quite an accomplishment to graduate from high school in Cuba! My only trouble at K-State was with English," he said.

"I'm flying home for Christmas for the first time the later part of next week," he smiled. "My parents and younger brother, Robert, who is 17, are in Santiago now. I hope I can get my brother to come to the States for his college education. I chose K-State because I felt that their engineering course was one of the best I could get.

FELIPE has been in the United States three years. During the summer, he works in Emporia, where he lives with an American family.

"I like to refer to Emporia as my 'hometown' away from home. After I graduate, I hope to work for an American company either here in the States or in Cuba," he said.

Chicago—Richard Arens, counsel of the House un-American activities committee, on the opening of committee hearings in Chicago:

"These hearings have nothing to do with whether or not the McCarran-Walter act is proper legislation. Our only job is to find out how 'the Comrades' influence our laws."

New York—Light heavyweight boxing champ Archie Moore advising the new heavyweight champion Floyd Patterson:

Compiled by LANCE GILMORE

Vienna — Former Soviet Premier Georgi Malenkov Monday night was reported to have visited Budapest over the weekend to ease ailing Janos Kadar out of the premiership because of his failure to crush the freedom struggle in embattled Hungary.

A dispatch reported that Kadar was ill, unable to walk and believed to be in constant need of "advice" and "attention."

A legion of 10,000 Hungarian rebels have attacked Russian troops and tanks in a pitched battle in the hills north of Budapest, reports reaching Vienna said Monday.

It was the third and largest battle reported in the country since the regime of Kadar began imposing a series of harsh rules climaxed by a martial law edict in an effort to crush the eight-week-old rebellion. The people's answer was a 48-hour general strike.

The dispatches indicated that the 10,000-man guerilla legion attacked Russian forces dug in through the hills after the government Sunday decreed martial law and death to all persons possessing illegal arms after 6 p.m. (11 a.m. CST) today.

Western Big 3 'Close Ranks'

Paris—The Western Big Three—with a powerful indirect assist from Soviet action in Hungary—closed ranks Monday just in time for a meeting with their other Atlantic allies.

American and French sources disclosed that, in a separate meeting, U.S. Secretary of State John Foster Dulles agreed with British Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd and French Foreign Minister Christian Pineau on the need for giving the highest priority to reopening of the Suez canal.

They agreed, too, that the six points approved by the United Nations and Egypt last October must be followed in any final settlement of the Suez problem. The most important of these was that the canal must in the future be "insulated" from the political control of one country, and open to all without discrimination.

Pineau told reporters as he left his two-hour meeting with Dulles:

"There was no recrimination for past events. We agreed that the first priority task is to clear the canal. And this must be done within the United Nations."

Britain Gets 1.3 Billion Loan

Washington—The International Monetary Fund announced last night that a loan has been arranged whereby Britain can obtain one billion, 300 million dollars to alleviate her economic plight.

The loan is divided into two parts with $561,470,000 immediately available.

The remaining sum $738,530,000, may be drawn on at any time in the next 12 months.

The first sum is in U.S. dollars. The second will be loaned under an arrangement involving foreign currencies.

The fund reported that the British government has fully repaid $300 million received from the fund in 1947 and 1948.

England has been threatened with a financial crisis as a result of the recent military venture into the Middle East and by the closing of the Suez canal which interrupted an important segment of British international trade.

The fund is an international lending agency which is aimed at stabilizing economics and currencies of member governments.

Canadian Air Disaster Feared

Vancouver, B.C. — (U.P.) — Searchers, fearing Canada's worst air disaster, combed a narrow, mountain-rimmed valley Monday for a trans-Canada airliner which went down in a blinding snow storm with 62 persons aboard after one engine failed and ice coated the wings.

Eight Americans, including three professional football stars, were among the 59 passengers and crew of three aboard the four-engine North Star airliner, a plane similar to the American DC-6. One of the players was 1955 All-American guard Calvin Jones, Steubenville, Ohio, who played for the University of Iowa.

Also among the Americans was Russell S. Stratton, 52, Los Angeles, director of trade relations of the Mergenthaler Linotype company and a veteran of 25 years with the St. Petersburg, Fla., Times.

The plane was headed from Vancouver to Montreal on a tourist flight, with four stops enroute last night when trouble forced the pilot to turn around and head back for Vancouver.

Multimillion-Degrees Heat

Washington, Dec. 11—(U.P.)—Scientists disclosed today that they have generated in their labs the multimillion-degree temperatures needed to tap nuclear fusion (H-bomb reaction) for power.

How to fire up such reactions safely has always been one of the toughest problems in the quest for H-power.

Now scientists have created the requisite temperatures—but only a part of a millionth of a second in only a minuscule amount of "fuel."

They have not yet reached the goal of virtually inexhaustible power which will be realized when man learns to fuse the cores of hydrogen atoms in a sustained and non-violent way.

Treasure Hunters Awarded 15 Days

By MARY BECKMEYER

A SAN FRANCISCO judge took a rather dim view of a treasure hunt that four pledges of a University of California fraternity were sent on as part of initiation. The quartet of pledges even produced an explanatory "treasure hunt" list as proof that their collection was only "borrowed." It included a no trespassing sign, three road signs, a fire extinguisher, a pair of ski poles, golf link markers, crutches, and hubcaps. The judge sentenced them to 15 days in jail, but suspended it.

THE UNIVERSITY Daily Kansan reports that they thought it was awfully nice of Sports Illustrated to send a man to cover KU's game with Northwestern and the coming out party for "Wilt." However, the writer's field is horses and harness racing. We can see the story now: "The Kansas Jayhawkers galloped to a photo finish over Northwestern at Allen Race Track . . ."

Huskers Nip Badgers, 3rd Big 10 Victim

Two Big Seven basketball teams won in Monday night cage action. Missouri defeated South Dakota 81-71 on a second half splurge and the Nebraska Cornhuskers won their third game against Big Ten competition as they defeated Wisconsin, 53-51.

The Tigers had to hustle to pull their game out of the fire. The lead changed hands a number of times during the first half but Missouri led at halftime 46-44.

South Dakota tied the score at the start of the second half, but Tiger defenses tightened and Missouri ran up a 15-point lead with 10 minutes left in the game.

Nebraska won its third straight against Big Ten opposition last night. They had previously beaten Iowa and Michigan.

It was free throw accuracy that saved the day for the Huskers. Nebraska hit 19 of 24 free throw attempts, but Wisconsin held the edge from the field with 21 field goals to 17 for Nebraska.

Sigma Chi to IM Finals Downs Phi Tau, 37-13

Sigma Chi smothered Phi Kappa Tau with a 37-13 score Monday in the final day of intramural basketball before the playoffs which start Thursday.

The Sigma Chi's held Phi Kappa Tau to a 22-0 score at intermission. According to intramurals director Frank Myers, it was the first time this year a team has been held scoreless through the first half.

Sigma Chi won the Group IV championship as a result of the victory. George Ismert was high point man for Sigma Chi with nine.

Acacia swamped Alpha Epsilon Pi, 44-8, with Acacia's defense stopping all scoring from the field in the second period. Alpha Epsilon Pi got the only point in the second half. Larry Harding had 11 tallies and Eldon Yeager 10 for Acacia.

Jones Boys tripped Sigma Phi Nothing in an overtime game, 24-21.

The count was 12-11, Jones Boys at the half and knotted at 21-21 at the completion of regulation play.

Orival Linder led the Jones Boys with 12 points.

Trailing 18-19 at the half-way mark, the Hotshots lost to YMCA, 89-31, as Darrel Rose now got 15 points for YMCA.

Delta Sigma Phi dropped Alpha Kappa Lambda, 25-22, by following through on a 13-7 margin at intermission.

Sigma Phi Epsilon beat Tau Kappa Epsilon, 26-21, after leading 15-9 at the half, and George Serpan lead Beta Theta Pi to a 45-12 victory over Delta Upsilon.

Ahead 24-6 at the end of the first period, Delta Tau Delta went on to grab a 45-14 win over Farm House. Harry Shank hit 15 for the Deltas to be high point.

Theta Xi forfeited to Alpha Tau Omega, 2-0.

Tonight at 7 the Roadrunners meet West Stadium and the winner of that contest will play the Ex-Broncos Wednesday at 6:45 to decide the winner of Group III.

Thursday will feature the semifinals in the Fraternity Division and the independent and fraternity finals will be Monday. The finals will be played on the Ahearn Field House floor.

K-State Picked Ninth In United Press Poll

K-State's Wildcat basketball squad jumped to ninth among the nation's top-ranked cage teams yesterday in the first weekly ratings of the United Press board of coaches, the UP said today.

Coach Tex Winter's Wildcats collected 63 points as the 35 coaches voted on a 10-point basis. K-State registered its third consecutive win Saturday night with a 90-41 victory over Drake.

Kansas, with sophomore sensation Wilt Chamberlain averaging 45.5 points in its two opening triumphs, was selected as the country's No. 1 team by 30 of the 35 leading coaches who make games played through Saturday, December 8.

San Francisco, defending national champion, was ranked only eighth in the coaches' pre-season forecast largely because it lost All-America stars Bill Russell and K. C. Jones through graduation. The Dons moved up three places after sweeping their first four starts against Chico State, California, San Francisco State, and Seattle to stretch their all-time record victory streak to 59 games.

Louisville, last spring's National Invitation Tournament champion which was ranked second behind Kansas in the pre-season ratings, fell to sixth. Louisville played Canisius Saturday night at Buffalo, N.Y., and was upset, 76-74.

North Carolina, which whipped Furman and Clemson in its first two starts, received three first-place votes and the runnerup spot in the ratings. Illinois was ranked third after openings with victories over Butler and Oklahoma.

Southern Methodist, ranked fourth, and San Francisco, ranked fifth, split the remaining two first-place votes. The coaches based their ratings on

Student Opinion May Alter K-State's Compulsory ROTC

By JIM BELL

If required military training, represented by K-State's basic ROTC program, is to become optional, Kansas law must be changed. A Student Council committee is investigating the possibility of such a change.

Some sort of military training must be offered under the terms of the Morrill act of 1862 by which Kansas State was founded. The Morrill act is the federal legislation under which all U.S. land-grant colleges were established.

According to Kansas State law, Section 76-436, passed in 1935, all regularly enrolled, physically qualified male students attending land-grant colleges in this state must take military training during their freshmen and sophomore years. Kansas State and Pittsburg State are Kansas' two land-grant colleges.

Pat Wilkerson, BA Sr, Student Governing association president, commented that he felt the state legislature could be induced to change the law if there was enough student reaction.

A. L. Pugsley, dean of Academic Administration, said, "This is not a question of whether the College should have ROTC, but whether it should be mandatory.

"The Student Council has unlimited power to recommend. The College has unlimited power to recommend. But only the state legislature has the power to act."

Ron Bryant, ME Sr, who is both chairman of the Student Council and the highest ranking ROTC cadet office, said, "Since physical training is an important part of the American way of life, it shouldn't be neglected completely.

"Either ROTC or physical education might fill this need." An option involving phys ed and ROTC might be a solution, he added.

"The kind of program I'd like to see is either four semesters of ROTC or four semesters of physical education," Wilkerson said.

"Why should a student who doesn't plan to go into advanced ROTC take the four required semesters, when they will only be wasted," he pointed out.

Wilkerson said that optional ROTC would probably change the basic cadets' attitude toward the program. He based his viewpoint on his experience at K-State and at Washington university in St. Louis where ROTC is optional. He was enrolled in the basic course at both schools.

"If we can get enough student reaction, I think the legislature might be induced to change the law. There are two land-grant schools, Minnesota and Wisconsin, that do not have compulsory ROTC," he said.

Wilkerson also commented that he could see little difference between K-State and her sister school, Kansas university, and he could not understand why students attended one school should be compelled to take military training while those at the other had an optional situation.

Bryant commented, "Optional ROTC would eliminate some of those men who weren't interested in becoming commissioned officers from military science classes. It would make ROTC classes smaller, of course, and could mean better and faster instruction.

"On the other hand, a little military training wouldn't hurt anyone. Maybe everyone should have enough patriotism not to mind the training," he said.

Lafferty Wins First Place In Larry Woods Contest

Gary Lafferty, PrV Fr, won first place in the final contest of the 11th semi-annual Larry Woods Memorial Speech contest last night in the Union's little theater. The title of his winning extemporaneous speech was "How To Win Friends and Influence People."

Second place winner was Wendy Helstrom, Sp Fr, who spoke on the holiday theme of "Gold, Frankincense and Myrrh." Robert Johnson, ChE Fr, third place winner, spoke on "Why I Think Communism Is On The Decline."

John Keltner, head of the speech department, presented cash prizes to the winners. Lafferty received a $30 first prize, Miss Helstrom received a $20 second prize, and Johnson received a $10 third prize.

The contest was established by Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Woods of Independence, in memory of their son, Larry E. Woods, a former speech major at K-State, who lost his life in World War II. The contest is financed by income from a sum of money Mr. and Mrs. Woods gave the College.

Contest judges were: Marjorie Adams, assistant professor of English; Mrs. K. F. Bascom, president of Manhattan's American Association of University Women; Joseph Hayes, president of the Manhattan First National Bank; Chester E. Peters, director of placement; and Rodney Babcock, professor of mathematics.

The Larry Woods Memorial Speech contest was presented under the direction of the department of speech. Fred Rogers, speech instructor, was in charge of contest arrangements.

Each year six outstanding faculty members are nominated by the college faculty. Two are selected for awards of $100 each from an endowment association.

Dr. A. B. Cardwell, of the physics department, was the other faculty winner and will be honored February 27, Dean Howe announced.

Prof. Scholer is a pioneer in studies of concrete durability. He is also an international authority on Portland cement, concrete, and concrete aggregates, Dean Howe said.

Irish Nationalists in Raids Through Northern Ireland

By LANCE GILMORE

Belfast, Northern Ireland, Dec. 12—Irish Nationalists attacked army, police, and government installations across northern Ireland today in a gun-blazing attempt to seize a fortress full of arms.

Sentries and police patrols foiled the main assault on a British army regimental headquarters at Armagh, but the Nationalists seized 200 pounds of dynamite in one of 12 raids.

They also destroyed a radio transmitter and damaged bridges.

The raids, carried out under cover of a battering northern gale, was the biggest single campaign since northern Ireland's six counties were separated from the rest of Ireland 34 years ago.

Northern Ireland mobilized its emergency force of 12,000 police and police reserves. In Britain itself the home office alerted police and army posts throughout the country.

The latest attack reported was near Eniskillen where the raiders, operating in one of a series of coordinated raids, seized 200 pounds of dynamite stored in a quarry. A nearby unoccupied national guard armory was blown up.

Hungary Awaits Massacre

Vienna, Dec. 12—Strike-bound Hungary prayed today for a miracle to prevent a new Communist orgy of blood-letting.

Soviet armored forces and Red Hungarian militiamen needed only a word of command to launch a new massacre.

The entire nation was under military rule. The life of every Hungarian man, woman and child, was at the whim of Soviet-backed Premier Janos Kadar.

Kadar appeared determined to go to any lengths to crush the resistance of workers who paralyzed the nation in the most complete national strike in history.

Kadar warned his government would show no mercy toward "counter-revolutionaries." The description could be applied to anyone who defied orders to return to work or took part in any other anti-Kadar demonstrations.

Hungarians could expect little mercy from the summary military courts set up under the martial law decree. Those captured with weapons after military rule was clamped down at 6 p.m. yesterday faced instant death.

But the workers and freedom fighters showed no indication of backing down. Reports reaching Vienna from Budapest indicated the workers no longer considered it a 48-hour walkout. Workers were said to be determined to stay out indefinitely if the Kadar regime refuses to change its "iron rule" tactics.

The Budapest reports also told of continued fighting in the Gelert hills, north of the capital, where a Hungarian freedom legion of 10,000 was reported engaging a Russian tank-supported division. The booming of artillery and the crunching of mortars was clearly audible in Budapest.

British Oilfields Are 'Bombed'

London, Dec. 12—Sixteen bombs exploded today in the Anglo-American oilfields at Kuwait, setting fire to one oilwell and damaging pipelines in the first serious outbreak against the west since the end of the Suez fighting.

Other attacks on oilwells, gas pipelines, power station, and a water distillation plant were unsuccessful, but tanker loadings were suspended and strict security precautions were set up.

A foreign office spokesman said the sabotage had not affected the overall production in Kuwait, Britain's biggest oil suppliers. Kuwait is an independent Arab nation under British protection and is located at the head of the Persian gulf. It supplies 60 per cent of Britain's oil.

Japan Near UN Admittance

United Nations, N.Y., Dec. 12—Japan, one of the oldest nations in the world, takes its first step only toward becoming the newest member of the United Nations.

Barring an unexpected double-cross by the Soviet Union, the 11-member security council will recommend unanimously that the General Assembly approve Japan's membership application.

The Soviets, being permanent members of the Security Council, could veto Japan's application as they have done in past years. But in an agreement for a peace treaty worked out in Moscow this fall, the Russians promised not to block the application again.

Anti-Soviet Poles Demonstrate

Warsaw, Poland, Dec. 12—Warsaw radio said today 83 persons were arrested in connection with the anti-Soviet demonstrations which erupted Monday night in Stettin.

The broadcast said those arrested were charged with having attacked public buildings in the big Baltic port in north-west Poland.

Official reports yesterday said the rioters stormed the Soviet consulate, smashing windows and furniture. The riot was touched off by the arrest of a man.

Fox Hole to Pressroom Is Path of Week's Personality

By CAROL SITZ

YOU WOULDN'T be reading this Collegian if it weren't for Jim Fiedler, SED Jr., who is this week's Collegian personality of the week.

Jim has the important job of running the newspaper press in the basement of Kedzie hall, on which the Collegians are printed each day.

"I GO TO work on the press about noon each day," he said. "After all the adjustments on the press are made, and it is ready to run, it takes about three hours to run off the 6,000 Collegians we print every day."

"If the paper is larger than the usual four or eight page editions, it takes even longer than three hours to run them off," Jim said.

JIM EXPLAINED that he is paying his way through college by the money he earns from running the press. "I didn't know a thing about running a newspaper press before I came to K-State. I just applied for a part-time job in the journalism department, and after some training, I was running the press."

Jim first entered K-State in 1951 and enrolled in electrical engineering. He dropped out of school after a semester and a half. Jim re-entered K-State in the spring semester of 1954. At this time, he enrolled in technical journalism.

HE GOT interested in psychology and thought he would like to be a psychology teacher. So at the beginning of last semester, Jim switched to secondary education with a major in psychology. He has changed his mind again and decided that the field of journalism is for him. Next semester Jim will again be officially enrolled in technical journalism.

Because he attends classes in the mornings and runs the press in the afternoons, Jim does not have much time for extracurricular activities. This semester he is a member of the psychology club.

JIM WAS a member of the U.S. Marine corps during World War II, from June, 1944, to August, 1946. He was overseas for 20 months and saw duty on Saipan, Guam, and in China. He also took part in the invasion of Okinawa.

Jim has been quite a "jack of all trades" during his lifetime. His numerous occupations include running gas pumps for a gas company; farming; hauling grain, fruits, and vegetables; working in a music store; working on a gas drilling rig; working as an automobile mechanic in a garage; and as a sheet metal inspector in an aircraft factory.

DURING THE last seven summers, Jim has worked as a tourist guide, driving people up and down Pikes Peak, near Colorado Springs. For the first six of those seven years, he drove the tourists up and down the peak in a limousine. Last summer Jim drove a 21-passenger bus up and down the mountain twice each day.

After he graduates, Jim would like to work in Colorado Springs for a firm which makes brochures describing scenic areas for tourists to visit.

Neutrality Rule for Collegiate Papers Draws Defense from K-State Students

Dear Editor,

THIS LETTER is submitted in support of Burton W. Marvin, dean of the William Allen White School of Journalism at the University of Kansas.

Upon reading your editorial in the Monday, December 10, 1956, Collegian we were shocked with the utter disrespect of your comments toward Dean Marvin concerning his stand on politics in state established universities.

WE FEEL that Dean Marvin is absolutely correct in stating that college newspapers should remain neutral in all politics.

The following is a quote from your article: "Isn't it a shame that the Presidency of the United States and the rules of operation connected with the office are subjected to the whims of one generation of students?"

IN REPLY we say: Isn't it a shame that the Presidency of the United States and the rules of operation connected with the office are subjected to the whims of one college newspaper editor?

It seems to us that the space used for your editorial could have gone to a better use. Even two or three more traffic pictures would have been better.

Cagers Shift Into High After Tex Eyes Indiana

K-State basketball practice moved into high gear yesterday as head coach Tex Winter returned from Bloomington, Indiana, where he saw Indiana, this Saturday's opponent, beat Butler, 73-68.

"Butler made a good showing against the Hoosiers but Indiana wasn't working too good as a team," said Winter. "I expect a real good game Saturday."

Bob Matuszak, sophomore guard, returned to practice Tuesday after being injured for more than a week with a sprained ankle. The Cats worked on a stalling type offense in the first part of the two-hour practice Tuesday and finished off with defensive work against Indiana play patterns.

SMU Defeats Wichita

Dallas, Texas, (U.P.)—Southern Methodists' Jim Krebs produced 31 points to lead the tall Texans to an easy 93-70 victory over Wichita university last night.

It was the fourth straight win for SMU, which is ranked fourth in the nation.

Wildcat Swimmers To Salina

K-State's varsity swimming team will compete in a three-way practice meet today at Salina's new YMCA pool—first competition for a Wildcat varsity swim team since 1948.

Coached by Bill Thrall, Wildcat swimmers will compete in a 10-meet schedule this season, in addition to the Big Seven conference meet. Their action Wednesday is a practice meet with Fort Hays and Emporia Teachers.

Swimming was discontinued at K-State following the 1948 season, but revived interest during the past two years prompted Wildcat officials to reinstate the sport with full varsity status.

The complete K-State swimming schedule:

West Stadium Wins, IM Playoffs Set

Led by John Solmos with eight points, West Stadium beat the Roadrunners, 29-20, Tuesday in intramural basketball to break a three-way Group III tie.

West Stadium meets the Ex Broncos tonight to decide the Group champion.

West Stadium jumped to a 2-0 lead only to be tied, and then scored 13 straight points before the Roadrunners could score again.

A combined effort by Solmos and Ralph Pfeifer, who scored seven points, gave the Stadium a 17-6 halftime lead which proved too great for the Roadrunners to overcome.

Norman Beneke scored 10 points and Daryl Scheff scored 6 to boost the final score to within 9 points.

Parings for the fraternity division playoffs were drawn last night. Sigma Alpha Epsilon will play Sigma Chi on the east court and Kappa Sigma will play Delta Tau Delta on the west court. Fraternity division games will begin Thursday at 8 p.m.

The independent division drawing will be tonight with the playoffs scheduled to start at 7 p.m. Thursday.

Finals in both divisions will be next Tuesday.

What's doing ... at Pratt & Whitney Aircraft

THE HOUSE THAT JET ENGINES BUILT

Engineers and scientists at Pratt & Whitney Aircraft developed the piston engines that wrote aviation history for three decades. Then came the jet age, and again it was the P & W A team that came up with the mighty J-57, most powerful production aircraft engine in the world today. Behind such accomplishments, of course, stand many development tools...tools like the house that jet engines built: the Andrew Willgoos Laboratory.

Located on the eastern bank of the Connecticut River in East Hartford, this windowless, thick concrete-walled laboratory has been growing almost continuously since its initial "completion" in 1950. As more powerful, far more advanced turbojet engines are conceived, the means for testing them in development stages must itself undergo carefully calculated alteration. Hence, authorship of today's specifications for Willgoos Laboratory properly belongs to the experimental engines it is testing today. Similarly, tomorrow's proportions, capacities and equipment will depend upon the requirements of tomorrow's power plants.

Behind the ponderous walls of this multi-million-dollar structure lies the wherewithal to simulate many of the rigorous flight conditions to be encountered by military and commercial aircraft. The range of these conditions must vary from ambient pressures and temperatures in a static condition at sea level all the way to the pressures, temperatures and high speeds involved in high-altitude flight.

This, then, is the house that jet engines built; at the same time, it is the house that tomorrow's engines will change and re-build.

Stuffed Animals Are Fine Gifts for Girls

By NANCY MOLTER

Stuffed animals for the girl friend and "kangaroo keepers" for the boy friend are two of the favorite Christmas gifts among college students.

Poodles, tigers, and skunks range in price from $4.95 to $7.95 in downtown stores. The "kangaroo keeper" is a miniature kangaroo which has a pouch for rings, watches, other jewelry, and a pouch for billfolds. The "kangaroo keeper" is priced at $2.50.

One downtown merchant, suggested viserettes and kippy kits for cars as a gift that men ordinarily won't buy themselves but like for gifts. The viserettes and kippy kits contain a comb, memo pad and pencil, windshield scraper, dust cloth, key chain, and bottle opener. The kippy kit sells for $2.50 and the visettes range from $2.50 to $3.98.

College men have been picking out stoles, scarfs, robes, sweaters and suede jackets in the way of clothing for their favorite girl.

Metallic, wool, and nylon stoles range from $3.95 to $7.95. Cashmere sweaters are selling better than wool and orlon this Christmas, according to downtown merchants. Cashmere sweaters are priced from $16.95 to $29.95. Suede jackets vary in price but between $25 and $35 seems to be a standard price.

One item popular with women are the lingerie, hosiery, and hanky cases which have individual pockets and folds up for compactness. These cases range from $1.00 to $7.95. Jewelry, toiletries, and purses are standing favorites with women.

V-neck sweaters, shirts, billfolds, and men's toiletries are always favorites with men. Seaforth's "Barbershop Quartet" which sells for $2, includes shave lotion, men's cologne, men's talc, and hair-groom.

For the college roommate, records or gift certificates for records are suggested as an all-around popular gift. Another idea would be a gift book which the local movies are selling.

Yule Vespers Set For Sunday at 4

The annual Christmas Vespers will be presented Sunday, at 4 p.m. in the Auditorium by the A Cappella choir under the direction of William R. Fischer.

The choir will perform two complete sets of choral works, "Ceremony of Carols" by Benjamin Britten for women's voices and harp, and "The Songs of Escape" by Milford.

The text of each carol of "A Ceremony of Carols" is set in old English and concerns the Nativity. "The Songs of Escape" are both secular and sacred in text.

Other songs appearing on the Vespers program are: "Sir Christmas," "Fanfare for Christmas Day," "Hodie, Christus natus est," "Salvation is Created," "Fum! Fum! Fum! (Catalonian Carol)," "Jesus, Jesus, Rest Your Head," "Matthew, Mark, Luke and John," and "This Have I Done for My True Love."

Organ interludes, "Improvisation on the Magnificat (Mode VIII)," and "Intermezzi, Nos. XXIII and XXIV," will be played by Robert Hays, College organist.

The service will open with the traditional processional by candlelight with the choir singing "O, Come All Ye Faithful."

Soloists for the program will be Georgia Rundle, EEd Jr, mezzo soprano; Robert Sanders, MGS Fr, baritone; Patricia Noll, MGS Sr; Charlene Taylor, MGS Sr, mezzo soprano; Carol Korinek, MGS Fr, soprano; Janice Casey, MAV Soph, mezzo soprano; and Jack Hartle, PsP Soph, bass. Jackie Swanson, MEI Sr, is accompanist.

Better look out, Wilt, we're still growing.

Late Passes from Dorms Make Swell Gifts for Gals

By Mary Beckmeyer

AROUND THIS time of the year, the age-old problem of buying Christmas gifts faces the rank and file of human beings.

The "Spectrum" of North Dakota State college offers the following gift suggestions:

"If you really want to please your girl, get her a dozen late passes from her dorm director. Be sure to specify dates for these passes though, cause you don't want to be in town when she has them. If you are, you'll have to take her out on a date and dates cost money.

"Find out what courses she will be taking next quarter, and surprise her with a set of old notes and lab reports.

"A diamond ring is always nice, of course you must make it understood that this is just a gift, and not an engagement ring.

"For the girls, it is equally easy to buy a remembrance for the swain in your life. You could go down to his local draft board and volunteer him. He would remember you a long time for that little gesture.

"Clothing always pleases a man. So troop down to a local men's shop and get him a pair of cuff links. Also purchase a box of band aids. Without a shirt, he has to have some way to keep those cuff links on.

"If he smokes, set yourself about the task of gathering snipes. The gutters downtown should afford a good variety of brands. Try to keep the length below one-half inch. Those sizes usually indicate the better brands because they have been smoked down so far.

"To really show the guy that you care, you could present him with your last month's food and house bill. This will really please him, because not every girl would think of doing such a thing, or have the nerve to do it."

Don't fret over gift problems this year. All you need is a little ingenuity and gall and your gift problem will be over, for many and many a year. Who would want you around after following suggestions like these?

THE FOLLOWING appeared in the "Harvard Crimson":

"It is a rather charming weekend that is now upon us. All sorts of color and excitement are abounding. For once the dreary little athletic exhibitions are over, we can settle back and enjoy our favorite weekend pastime—watching the Yalies. (Yale).

"They are ever so Ivy and so poised and proper, and pleasantly polite. What a droll sport it is to look for old friends from school and see how much Yale has done to them. Yale men make such fine impressions. Yes, it is just remarkable what Yale can do."

All this was puzzling until turning to the sports page and reading that in a recent dreary little athletic exhibition (that is the Yale-Harvard football game) the Yalies beat the Harvies 42-14.

A RECENT "Plainsman" from Alabama Polytechnic Institute carried this front-page stopper: "ID card lost. Finder should notify Leon Adams at 148 West Glenn or phone 65. If name other than that of Leon Adams is on the card, then it should not be returned to Leon Adams."

Elementary, Dear Watson!

An IOWA STATE coed has learned not to take campus parking signs literally after a recent squabble over semantics with the traffic board.

The girl parked her car in the "Short Course and Visitor" parking lot during her history lecture. She returned to find a parking ticket on her car.

The Traffic Appeals Board was unsympathetic when the coed appealed her fine, protesting, "I never heard of a shorter course than a one-hour lecture!"

Colombian Came to States To Work, Finish College

By ED KOCHER

"GOING TO SCHOOL and working part-time is difficult," said Jairo Villarreal, Ar 05, from Bogota Colombia, South America.

"After working my way through two years of college in Colombia, I found that I would never finish, as I was having to support myself," Villarreal said. "I thought that it would be easier to work my way through school if I came to the United States."

AT THE PRESENT Villarreal has two jobs and is working noons, and Saturday afternoons at the House of Breck. He is working three hours a day for the Entomology department, and carrying 13 hours.

Villarreal said, one thing bothered him about students working here in the United States. They work in the cafeteria just like it was any other job. Students in Colombia also work there way through school, but have too much pride to work in a cafeteria, he said.

"IT SURE IS nice to be able to take jobs like the ones in the Student Union," Villarreal said.

Villarreal is not the only member of his family in the United States. He has a brother attending Louisiana State university, and a sister at Temple university. He said he has two more brothers that will come to the United States next fall for college. "I'm trying to talk mother into coming also so we can all be together, and live more economical," he added.

WHEN ASKED why he came to K-State when his sister and brother were going to other universities, Villarreal said, "I wanted to enroll in a college that was not large. I also wanted to enter a college that had a small number of Latin American students," he answered.

"My brother said that it was hard to learn the English language when talking Spanish to other Latin American students," Villarreal said.

WHEN ASKED why he was majoring in architecture, Jairo answered, "My father was planning to build a house, and had an architect draw up plans. When I saw the plans I was fascinated by them, and decided that I wanted to be an architect.

"I was always crazy about buildings, and had to know just how they were built. I finished two years of architecture before coming to the United States so will be done in another two years," He said.

VILLARREAL SAID, he planned to work in the United States a year or two after finishing school. "The United States is a beautiful, wonderful country, and all Latin American people should know the North American's way of life," he said.

"In Latin America we are old fashioned in spirit. We are living in the 20th century, but have some 18th century ideas, especially in spirit where 95 per cent of the Colombia population is Catholic.

"THE CATHOLICS in the United States are more liberal in their rules. The different parts of Colombia vary in rules, as the interior has more strict rules than along the coast. Take swimming for instance. It is not approved in interior Colombia, but there is a lot done along the coast, while here in the United States there are no rules about swimming," Villarreal said.

"Another difference in our being old fashioned is that everyone tries to get the government jobs," Villarreal said. "All of the government workers in Colombia get good money for very little work, and short days," he said.

GONE FISHIN'—Bus Mertes "relaxes" behind his dictiphone as he catches up on correspondence which collects on a head football coach during season play.

While Gridders Sleep, Mertes' Staff Digs Deep

Do you ever get curious as to what a football coach and his staff do between the end of regular season play and spring football practice?

After the gridiron cools, Mertes and his five assistants start preparing for spring workouts and set out to comb the area for promising football talent.

"Recruiting football players is the most important job a coach has during the off season," the Cat mentor said. Every high school in Kansas is contacted for the race for talent.

When recruiting a player, the coach usually goes to the home of the boy to talk with him, his parents, and his high school coach.

"Once we land the boy, the job is to teach him the fundamentals," Mertes said.

The coaches check every five weeks on the grades of the players. If the grades are low, the coaches check on the study habits of the athletes.

The end of the football season also means the beginning of the banquet season for Mertes and his staff. They preside over grid clinics and act as guest speakers at high school feeds.

Three or four of these guest appearances are average for a week.

In addition to the snooping and speaking, all the coaches teach some physical education classes. The end of the season also means the routine of administration and the answering of correspondence.

Then before spring practice starts Mertes and the staff look over the films of the preceeding season and try to pick out the good and bad points.

Four Cage Clubs Defy Upset Wave

Four high-ranked basketball teams came through with victories last night to defy the early season upset wave.

North Carolina, ranked No. 2 nationally and heir-apparent to N. C. State's Atlantic Coast conference championship, rolled on with an 82-55 rout, of George Washington.

Tenth-ranked Dayton bounced back from its upset by De Paul to nip Miami of Ohio, 76-75; 16th-ranked West Virginia romped over Penn State, 81-66; and Temple, which shares the 18th ranking with Niagara, sank 51 per cent of its shots in defeating Princeton 67-58.

In other leading games last night, Purdue led all the way in beating De Paul, 83-78.

Stadium Wins, 24-20; IM Playoffs on Tap

West Stadium beat the Ex Broncos, 24-20, to win the Group III championship and usher in quarterfinal play in Intramural basketball.

Drawings were also held last night to determine parings for the independent division playoffs.

As a result of the drawings West Stadium will play the Rebels tonight at 7 p.m. on the west court. In the other quarterfinal game, the Oldtimers will play the Speedsters at 7 p.m. tonight on the east court.

In the fraternity division quarterfinals tonight, the Sig Alph's play Sigma Chi on the east court and Kappa Sigma plays the Delt's on the west court.

Finals in both divisions will be played on the Field House floor with the independents starting at 7 p.m. and the fraternities at 8 p.m.

Intramurals director Frank Myers reminded both independents and fraternities of the free throw contest on Wednesday, the 19th.

The event will begin at 6:45 p.m. with both divisions scheduled to start at the same time.

Boozer Key To Wildcat Title Hopes

By BILL WHISTLER

A key factor in K-State's defense of its Big Seven crown this season is 6-7 sophomore Bob Boozer's continued improvement at the forward spot.

"Whether or not he can continue to improve is the key to our defense," Coach Tex Winter said. "Bob played at the center spot as a freshman last year, but he has rapidly made the conversion to forward."

Bob, who admits that defense is his weakest point, is constantly working to improve.

BOB BOOZER
Cat Man of the Hour

Looking at the offensive side of the ledger, Bob's scoring pace is keeping him at the top of the scoring list in the still young season. He is averaging a shade over 20 points a game through the Cat's first three games.

His 19 field goals out of 39 tries gives him a 48.7 shot percentage. He also leads in the free throw department with 23 for 34 for a 69 per cent clip.

Against Texas Tech Bob shared scoring honors with Jack Parr, as each garnered 27 points. In the Houston game he dumped in 19 points to lead the Cats in a high-scoring 97-78 win over the Cougars. Against a hapless Drake team Bob scored 15 points.

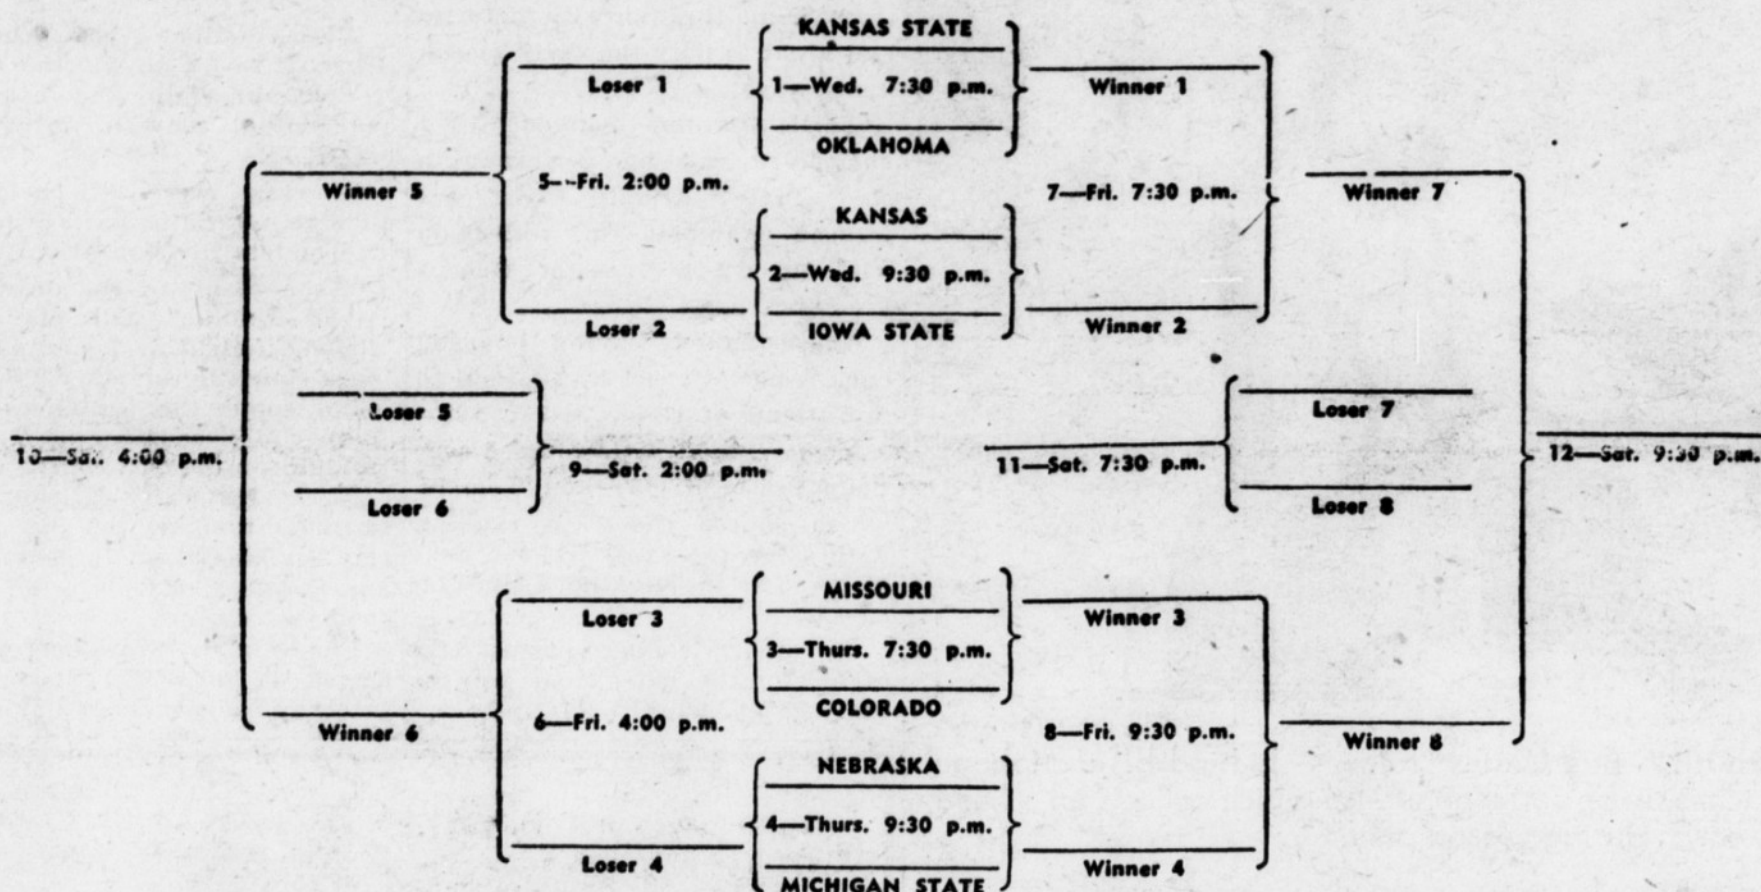

Boozer is a rebounding workhorse as well as an offensive powerhouse. He's captured 34 bounces in 3 games for an average of 11.3 a game.

Bob works hard at grooming himself for the forward spot. "You have to move quicker and handle the ball more," he said, explaining the difference between playing center and forward.

"For his size he handles the forward spot real well," Winter said. The Cat coach has high regard for the big fellow's determination and spirit.

As for K-State's basketball future, Bob considers K-State, Kansas university, and Iowa State in that order as the big three in the conference this year.

Gymnasts Begin Season With Quadrangular Meet

K-State's varsity gymnastics team will open its fourth year of collegiate competition with a quadrangular meet in the Field House gymnasium at 2 p.m. Saturday.

The Nebraska Cornhuskers, Fort Hays State Tigers, and Northwestern Oklahoma State Rangers will be the Wildcats' opponents.

No admission will be charged, and fans may enter the Northwest door of the gymnasium.

Team captain Wendell Minckley, alternate captain Allen Olsen, and Robert Gramzow are the three returning letter winners who will compete Saturday.

Coach Frank Thompson is rebuilding this year after the loss of three members of last year's team, which registered a 14-8 season record.

The loss of Wendell Holt, Albert Bumpus, and Robert Eshelbrenner leaves Thompson with an untried and untested group as far as team strength is concerned.

The Wildcat team consists of one senior, three juniors, and 13 sophomores.

Nebraska brings an experienced team to the meet, according to Thompson.

Both Fort Hays and Northwestern Oklahoma are rebuilding with new teams and new coaches this year, and this will be the first match for both teams.

Parr Alters Cage Records, May Take National Honors

By JAY WORKMAN

The best-known jersey ever worn by a Wildcat cager has thirty-three on the back.

It was filled a few years ago by all-American Dick Knostman and at present is worn by Jack Parr, 6-9 center from Richmond, Va., who last year as a sophomore earned a berth on the 1956-57 all-Big Seven team.

"Parr was the best sophomore center in the history of K-State basketball and is improving as a leader this year," said Tex Winter.

Sports Publicity Director Paul DeWeese said the big junior should gain national recognition this year for his work at the post position. Parr has good timing, plenty of spring in his legs, and surprising reach. He excels at close-in and medium range shots.

LeRoy Bacher, center for OU last year, said "Parr was the best I met last year, especially at blocking shots."

Jack has an 18.7 point average through the first three games this year as compared to a 17.4 average in 25 games last season. It was good for fourth in the conference. He sinks free throws at a 60 per cent clip.

He speared 340 rebounds during the '55-'56 campaign to set an all-time Wildcat record and was ranked 31st in the nation in that field. Against Drake last Saturday Parr cleared the board 26 times to erase Knostman's mark of 23 set in 1953.

Jack said, "Ernie Barrett and Hoot Gibson worked out with me this summer and showed me a lot of tricks."

For his play as a sophomore, Parr was named to the UP and AP all-Big Seven squads, the Colliers honorable mention 5th district roster, and Iowa State's all-opponent team.

"The Big Seven is tough this year," Parr said. "Nebraska has run over three Big Ten teams and anybody that can do that has to be good. Iowa State, who was runner-up to us last year, is bound to be rough with all their starters back. And of course KU is going to give us the most trouble, but if the squad hustles like they have been we won't need to worry."

Working up to the Big Seven problem of the year, Wilt the Stilt, Parr said, "You can't tell how you will do against a certain player until you have played against him several times. I think we can beat KU."

Tex Winter said, "We won't worry about Chamberlain until the week before the game."

Jack, an above average, premed major, started playing as a 6-5 sophomore in St. Christopher prep school in Richmond and lettered three years in basketball.

What Do You Remember Best About Christmas as a Child?

By CAROL SITZ

THINK BACK. Think way back to the first Christmas you can remember as a child.

Were you excited? You probably were more excited than you had ever been before. You probably thought of nothing but the long-awaited arrival of Santa Claus and his sleigh full of toys and goodies.

Most certainly you thought of all the toys you had been dreaming of receiving. Boys thought how much that new electric train, tricycle, or sled was wanted.

Girls thought how much a new doll, roller skates, or a doll house would mean.

PERHAPS YOU THOUGHT of the beautiful tree Santa would trim before he left all your presents under it. You knew Santa was going to put every glowing light and every shiny bulb on the tree just for you.

You also knew Santa would fill your stocking hanging from the fireplace mantel with all sorts of good candies, nuts, and gum from his bulging pack.

Then when Christmas day actually arrived, the presents had all been opened, and the goodies in your stocking eaten, you still thought of the big Christmas dinner waiting for you.

YOU KNEW ALL that turkey, dressing, cranberry sauce, and mince meat pie were just waiting for you. When the Christmas dinner was finished and you had played with your new toys, you didn't think of much except how long it seemed until next Christmas.

Now, think back some more. Think back even further than the first Christmas you can remember, or the first Christmas your parents can remember, or the first Christmas their parents can remember.

Think back to the very first Christmas.

REMEMBER—it took place over 1900 years ago in a little town called Bethlehem.

The very first Christmas was the birth of a baby named Jesus, who was to bring a new age to the world, and a new way of living and thinking to millions of people.

You are no longer a child, but do you still think of Christmas as you did when a child? Do you think of anything besides the presents and food you will have this Christmas?

THIS CHRISTMAS PAGENTRY is on display at one of the local churches downtown. Having 11 pieces, it was purchased by a group of local churches and is displayed every year at Christmas time. Its theme, as told by a small sign standing nearby, is to "Keep Christ in Christmas."

Christmas Trees, Santa Claus Are Symbols Of Yule Spirit in Japan—Foreign Student

By NANCY MOLTER

"CHRISTMAS in Japan is celebrated the same way it is in the United States with Christmas trees and Santa Claus," Yoshitaka Suyama, student from Japan, said.

Although Suyama is Buddhist, he explained that Buddhists still observe Christmas on December 25 just as Christians do.

Suyama will be spending his first Christmas in the United States at the home of Val W. Woodward, associate professor of agronomy. Suyama says that he feels the same towards Christmas in the United States as he did in his home Kyoto, Japan, because Christmas in the two countries are similar.

"IT IS TRADITION in Japan to exchange presents on New Year's day instead of Christmas day," he said. He explained that "Silent Night" and "White Christmas" are sung during the Yule season.

"Japanese children believe that Santa Claus comes down the chimney but they hang their stockings on their bedposts so that Santa Claus will have to come into their rooms," he said.

YOSHITAKA arrived in the United States in August and is working on his Ph.D., in genetics. He is a graduate assistant in the agronomy department. He received his Bachelor of Science degree from Kyoto university in Japan. He plans to remain in America after he gets his Ph.D and go into genetics research.

Suyama said that Buddhists recognize Buddha during the month of August by inviting a Soryo (similar to a minister) to their house. The Soryo reads to the Japanese family from a book similar to the Bible. Recognizing Buddha in this way is known as Bontime.

HE SAID THAT one per cent of the Japanese people are Christian. One of the Christian customs in Japan is that a poor man who becomes wealthy puts money in a box and hangs it outside his house which the poor people are welcome to take.

Tree Trimmings Change from Candles To Novelties Since Grandma's Heyday

By JUDY TAPLIN

BACK IN GRANDMA'S heyday, trimming the Christmas tree usually consisted of winding popcorn strands around the branches, adding a little tinsel, placing a star on the top, and lighting the small, wax candles.

To Grandma it looked good, but we are apt to take one look and say: "Oh, you've got your tree up—when do we start decorating?"

For today the Christmas tree holds several more pounds of ornaments than it used too.

A survey in Manhattan stores shows that the ornaments have changed drastically, too.

PLASTIC BALLS that look like glass are most popular because they are unbreakable, according to several downtown stores. Tinsel stars that combine several colors of aluminum also are popular.

Novelty ornaments that will adorn trees this year are plastic swans with tails of "silk" straw, ornate teapots, old-fashioned coffeepots, Chinese lanterns, cornets and bugles, baskets of fruit, tobacco pipes, banjos, frosted pine cones, and drums.

Fortunately these ornaments are all quite small. So, if they are placed carefully to balance each other, the tree may retain its vertical position.

THE BIGGEST ornament found was a gold ball about 5 inches in diameter. Jeweled plastic snowflakes that hang on the tree with tiny coat hangers are in many of the stores.

Aluminum garlands that glow in a partially darkened room are pretty well taking the place of Grandma's popcorn strings.

Glass tree ornaments now have Christmas scenes or "Merry Christmas" printed on them instead of the usual stripes.

FELT STOCKINGS are popular in the tree-trimming line. The great majority of them have a Santa pasted on the front of the sock in sequins.

CHILDREN OF ALL AGES are enthralled by toys. Especially so, when the toys come from another country, as Yoshitaka Suyama, Japan, found out when he showed some Japanese dolls to his landlord's children. Dean, Jimmy, and Kathy are the children of Mr. and Mrs. Val Woodward, 1221 Ratone.

Christmas Celebrated Many Different Ways

By MARY WIELAND

If we were to travel around the world and spend Christmas in various countries, we would find nearly as many ways of celebrating the holiday as there are countries.

In Germany, preparation for Christmas, or Advent, begins four weeks before the holiday. Most families have an Advent wreath with four candles. On the first Sunday, a candle is lighted. Each Sunday thereafter another is lighted. The wreath is usually composed of evergreen, red ribbon, and candles. Sometimes it is hung from a ceiling or lamp, or it may be on a table.

The Christmas celebration lasts two days—December 25 and 26. They are spent visiting relatives and friends. Only the immediate family is together on Christmas eve.

Ilse Reiling, Art Soph, from Germany, associates three pleasant odors with Christmas—baked apples, homemade cookies, and singed evergreen. Many cookies are baked at home during Advent and the Christmas season, she said.

Christmas is a sentimental celebration in Germany and a little more religious than in this country. There is not as much expensive gift-giving. They send Christmas cards, but only to good friends.

Decorations in homes are similar to those here, except there are real candles on the tree. A simple, but favorable decoration is several small evergreen branches in a circle with shiny red apples in the center.

There is a big electrically lighted tree in each town—usually in the market place. The stores also use electric lights.

Santa Claus doesn't deliver the gifts in Germany. Children, usually girls, dressed like the Christ child, and sometimes accompanied by Mary and Joseph, take Santa's place.

The Christmas season lasts until New Year, which like ours, is celebrated gayly and noisily.

In Sweden, the season begins December 13 which follows the longest night in the year. Christmas trees are traditionally heaped with as many trimmings as possible.

Sinter Klaas, or St. Nicholas day is celebrated in Holland on December 5. St. Nicholas rides over the housetops on a white horse and drops gifts down the chimney and into the wooden shoes waiting below.

WINDOW SHOPPING—Trying to decide on what gifts to buy for men are Lavonne Tawney, HE Soph, and Dennis Albright, EE Sr, looking for gift ideas in the window of a men's clothing store.

Many Factors Enter Picture When Buying Gifts for Boys

In buying the gift for that young man, the first thing to decide is how well you know him, how serious is the friendship, how much you want to spend, and what he needs.

If you have dated him only a few times the situation calls for very little cash output. If the friendship is getting to the point where you are pinned, engaged, or there has been some talk along that line, it calls for a more personal gift that will match his personality.

If you don't know what he likes, take him window shopping. Watch his eyes or face and many times they will inform you of his likes and dislikes even if he doesn't say anything.

This man in your life will probably be proud to receive something for his wardrobe. By noticing what color or colors he prefers, and what type of clothes he often wears, you can decide just what will fit his wardrobe.

Every man in school can probably use an extra white shirt, sport shirt, or a colored shirt with a possible matching tie.

Sweaters, either with or without sleeves provides a nice gift during the Christmas season. Gloves are nice if his are getting worn or he does not have a pair to match his overcoat.

Along with the shirt and tie, a matching set of cuff links and a tie clasp is fine. Practically every man is in need of a scarf. For the man who is pinned or engaged, a robe or lounge jacket are fine gifts. A clock, luggage, or lighter for a smoker, is a continuous reminder of you.

More expensive gifts for that man are watches, coats, sport jackets, shoes, hats, trousers, or a camera if it is known just what he wants. These are gifts that a woman must be very particular in picking out as most men have distinct likes and dislikes.

Tool kits are wonderful if he does not have one. For that new suit, a clothes brush is fine. Tie racks, a shoe tree, shoehorn, or suit hangers are always quite acceptable gifts.

Bath sets, a travel case, shoe polisher, or jewel case for cuff links and tie clasps make nice gifts.

Small gifts are always a necessity at times, but socks and ties should be used as a last resource. A man always needs socks but receives his share.

For the rich woman who is engaged, the man in her life would appreciate a new convertible, but this might not prove the most profitable if she plans on keeping him.

Fellowship Students Plan Vacation Camping Trip

Members of Inter-Varsity Christian fellowship who can't go home during Christmas vacation are planning a camping trip in Colorado, according to Lois Ottaway, faculty adviser.

The group will visit a ranch owned by this international religious organization. They will participate in sports and social and religious activities, she said.

Miss Ottaway worked at the ranch during its first summer in operation. It is about 20 miles southwest of Colorado Springs and is surrounded by a national forest. Log buildings serve as sleeping quarters and recreation centers.

"Skiing, sledding, ice skating, horseback riding, and hiking are a few of the sports in which students can participate," Miss Ottaway said. About 200 college students from Kansas, Colorado, and surrounding states are expected to attend.

The heavily wooded ranch was purchased from the government by a close relative of Gen. Omar Bradley, who built the first log cabin there. Christian Fellowship purchased it in 1953.

Christmas is being recognized in many different ways by the fraternities, sororities, and student groups over the campus.

Members of Phi Delta Theta fraternity have edged the front of their house in blue lights, and the highest part of the roof is topped by their Greek letters. An evergreen tree in the front yard is decorated with lights.

Alpha Xi Delta is welcoming the Christmas season with Santa Claus and candy canes at the front door. Evergreens at either side of the steps will be lighted.

A stained-glass window and blue lights in evergreen branches adorns the front of the Alpha Delta Pi house. Two big cedar trees will be decorated with lights in the Sigma Nu front yard.

The Wesley foundation has pictured the nativity scene in the front windows of their lounge. Candles at the entrance, and a Christmas tree in the lounge finish their decorations.

Kappa Kappa Gamma sorority has chosen "We'll Be Home for Christmas" as their house decoration theme. Small murals depicting a small town, a big city, and a farm with a train going to each home will be shown in their front yard.

Scarves in Fashion For Christmas Gifts

By BARBARA PIVONKA

Scarves ranging from coal black through bright reds to the whitest of whites are being shown in Manhattan stores for Christmas.

According to Manhattan merchants, scarves have been very popular Christmas gifts in the past and will continue to be. Suzanne Fleetwood, TJ Soph, and Donna Geis, PEW Soph, think that scarves make a nice inexpensive Christmas gift.

Ninety-inch chaffon scarves priced at $5.95 are new in the Manhattan fashion picture. They are shown with formals and Christmas party dresses.

The old fashioned square-head scarf has now been glamorized by the addition of brilliant gold and silver threads and a variety of vivid colors. K-State coeds, Sandy White, Psy Soph, and Karen Andrews, EEd Sr, both feel that a plain white scarf is an essential to every college girl's wardrobe. Nancy Johnson, BAA Soph, likes simple designs in shades of gray.

Calendar May Be Ready Tomorrow

The K-State press is making every effort to get the Theta Sigma Phi-Sigma Delta Chi calendar out for distribution by tomorrow, according to Darrell Miller, TJ Sr.

The calendars, featuring photographs of Barbara Starnes, DIM Jr, as "Miss Wildcat" and also of 11 runners-up, will be out next Monday for sure, Miller said.

Students can get their calendars by showing their calendar purchase receipts at booths set up on the main floors of the Student Union and Anderson hall.

Students who did not place orders for calendars can buy calendars at the booths, Miller said.

New Divisions Enter Hungary in Defiance of UN

Compiled From United Press
By LANCE GILMORE

Vienna, Dec. 13—Fresh Soviet divisions rolled into Hungary today in open defiance of the United Nations, and a Stalin-type blood purge of Hungarian rebel leaders appeared inevitable.

The puppet government invoked the death penalty for all offenders against martial law, but even the shadow of the gallows failed to stifle the nearly hopeless fight for freedom against impossible odds.

The desperate strike of protest against the Kremlin-imposed government went on past its mid-night deadline though Soviet tanks ringed the factories and the hated secret police began rounding up strike leaders.

Budapest radio broadcast today a report in the Communist newspaper Nep Szabadsag that the country's losses from the strike and rebellion exceeded $1.36 billion.

It said all reserves of the country's economy were shot and that the disastrous situation in coal production would prevent all other activities even if the workers ended the strike.

Poles Condemn Soviets

London, Dec. 13—Polish steelworkers in Pozman—starting point for the wave of unrest sweeping the satellites—appealed to workers throughout the nation today to join them in condemning Soviet intervention in Hungary.

Representatives of 30,000 Polish steelworkers met in Pozman last night and climaxed a week of anti-Russian demonstrations in Poland with a demand the Russian troops in Hungary be replaced by United Nations or Warsaw pact forces.

They forwarded their appeals today to other Polish workers and said they would send directly to U. N. Secretary General Dag

U.S. Likes German Idea

Paris, Dec. 13—West Germany today proposed a "charter of freedom" for Eastern European nations to win independence from Soviet rule. The move had strong U.S. backing.

The German proposal was made by Foreign Minister Heinrich Von Brentano at today's secret NATO council meeting and won immediate and full backing by Secretary of State John Foster Dulles.

Dulles urged the council to write this "declaration of independence" into the final communique of the NATO meeting as a solemn resolve of the Atlantic community.

The NATO ministers also adopted a three-nation proposal today that would weld the seven-year-old alliance into a compact political unit capable of common action inside and outside NATO's geographical boundaries.

Cuts Before Vacation May Bring Penalties

Students wishing to cut classes to go home early Christmas may find it difficult to do so, according to A. L. Pugsley, dean of academic administration.

"We refuse to excuse anyone wishing to go home early or return late," he said.

Pugsley added that although the College would not penalize students for Christmas cuts, their instructors were not forbidden to do so.

"Instructors giving tests just before or after the holiday are under no obligation to give make-ups," he said.

The vacation officially begins Saturday noon, December 22 and ends Monday at 8 a.m., January 7, according to H. J. Wunderlich, dean of students.

Gals Go for Feminine Gifts; Perfume, Jewelry Fill the Bill

By MARCIA BOYD

Femininity is the word for Christmas, boys! The chances are that your girl will appreciate most a feminine, delicate gift, something that she'd love to have, but never would buy for herself.

But the most important thing to remember when buying for that special gift, is to select something which will reflect her individual personality.

Included on nearly all the lists to Santa is perfume. Channel No. 5, Taboo, and Faberge are just a few of the popular brands, and a purse-sized bottle is only around $5.

There are many suggestions in the jewelry line. Heavy, chunky bracelets are in fashion with both sweaters and dresses. Various styles, with or without jewels, are made from copper, gold, and silver.

Matching bracelet and earring sets can be selected in simple styles to be worn with almost any outfit, and a jewelry box, if the girl doesn't have one, will always be greatly appreciated.

For the girl who wears headbands, it is nice to have several styles for different occasions. As well as the silver, gold, and plastic ones, jeweled headbands for formal wear can be purchased.

Also new in the line for formal wear are cocktail watches. This dainty accessory, which can be worn in place of a bracelet, can be purchased for about $10.

A small, black velvet evening bag is a versatile style for evening wear. A purse which matches the girl's formal would also be appreciated.

Jeweled sweaters are a welcome addition to any girl's wardrobe. The bulky knit sweaters are excellent for casual wear during the winter months.

Every girl likes to have a picture of her favorite guy on her dresser, and a handsome frame makes the gift even nicer.

Record albums from hit stage shows and movies or books to suit the reading tastes of the individual are welcomed for leisure hours.

If the girl has selected her silver and china patterns, adding another piece to her place setting would put you top on her thank you list.

Other popular Christmas "wants" include matching cigarette lighters and cases, jeweled and fur collars to wear with sweaters, monogrammed blouses, belts, and luggage.

If you are away during the holidays and want to do something extra special for your girl, nothing could please her more than to receive flowers, telegram, or long distance phone call from you on Christmas Day.
